Intensive Nursing Care:

Intensive Care Nursing Philip Woodrow, 2011-08-18 This new edition of Woodrow's Intensive Care Nursing will be warmly welcomed. Especially written for qualified nurses working in intensive care nursing units, this comprehensive text has been developed to be as accessible as possible. Including new chapters on planning for pandemics and transferring patients, it has been revised throughout to ensure the evidence base is completely up to date and the content reflects contemporary best practice. Intensive Care Nursing is structured in user-friendly sections. Each chapter contains fundamental knowledge needed to understand the chapter, an introduction, implications for practice, a chapter summary, completely updated further reading, time-out sections for revision, and a clinical scenario with questions included. Reviewed throughout by experienced practitioners and teachers, it covers patient-focused issues of bedside nursing, the technical knowledge necessary to care safely for ICU patients, the more common and specialized disease processes and treatments encountered, how nurses can use their knowledge and skills to develop their own and others' practice. Written by a practice development nurse with a strong clinical background in intensive care nursing and experience of teaching nursing, Intensive Care Nursing is essential reading for nurses and health professionals working with high dependency patients, particularly those undertaking further training in the area.

Intensive Nursing Care Katherine Rhoads, 2020-11 Why write a book on the management of intensively ill patients? Over the past few decades, we have seen enormous growth in the number of intensive care units (ICU) across the world. Indeed, it is estimated that a large proportion of health care expenses are devoted to patients in these specialized units. Medical students, residents, fellows, attending physicians, intensive care nurses, pharmacists, respiratory therapists, and other health care providers, irrespective of their ultimate field of practice, will spend several months or years of their professional lives taking care of intensively ill or severely injured patients. These clinicians must have special training, experience, and competence in managing complex problems in their patients. Moreover, these clinicians must interpret data obtained by many kinds of monitoring devices and they must integrate this information with their knowledge of the pathophysiology of the disease. Even more important is the fact that anyone working in an ICU or with an intensively ill patient must approach patients with a multidisciplinary team. The phrase "there is no I in TEAM" comes to mind.
