Future Of Anthropological Knowledge:

The Future of Anthropological Knowledge Henrietta Moore, 2003-12-16 The Future of Anthropological Knowledge the chapters explore the question of the nature of social knowledge from a variety of perspectives and locations such as China Africa the USA and elsewhere By examining the changing nature of anthropological knowledge and of the production of that knowledge this book challenges the notion that only western societies have produced social theories of modernity and of global scope Knowledge of society can no longer be restricted to a knowledge of face to face social relations but must encompass the effect of technology global consumption patterns and changing geo political configurations The Future of Anthropological Knowledge will be of interest to anthropologists and students of culture and society

The Ethics of Knowledge Creation Lisette Josephides, Anne Sigfrid Grønseth, 2017-06-01 Anthropology lies at the heart of the human sciences tackling questions having to do with the foundations ethics and deployment of the knowledge crucial to human lives The Ethics of Knowledge Creation focuses on how knowledge is relationally created how local knowledge can be transmuted into universal knowledge and how the transaction and consumption of knowledge also monitors its subsequent production This volume examines the ethical implications of various kinds of relations that are created in the process of transacting knowledge and investigates how these transactions are also situated according to broader contradictions or synergies between ethical epistemological and political concerns

Back to the Postindustrial Future Felix Ringel, 2018-03-26 How does an urban community come to terms with the loss of its future The former socialist model city of Hoyerswerda is an extreme case of a declining postindustrial city Built to serve the GDR coal industry it lost over half its population to outmigration after German reunification and the coal industry crisis leading to the large scale deconstruction of its cityscape This book tells the story of its inhabitants now forced to reconsider their futures Building on recent theoretical work it advances a new anthropological approach to time allowing us to investigate the postindustrial era and the futures it has supposedly lost

Negotiating Local Knowledge Johan Pottier, Alan Bicker, Paul Sillitoe, 2003-04-20 This is an original approach to debates about indigenous knowledge Concentrating on the political economy of knowledge construction and dissemination they look at the variety of ways in which development policies are received and constructed to reveal the ways in which local knowledge are appropriated and recast either by local elites or by development agencies Until now debates about indigenous knowledge have largely been conducted in terms of agricultural and environmental issues such as bio piracy and gene patenting This collection breaks new ground by opening up the theoretical debate to include areas such as post war traumatic stress counselling representations of nuclear capability architecture mining and the politics of eco tourism

Working the Field Jacques Henry, Sara Le Menestrel, 2009 Working the Field Accounts from French Louisiana records reflections on the fieldwork conducted in French Louisiana by a group of anthropologists and folklorists from Louisiana the United States Canada and France between the 1970s and 2000 Contributors cast a critical look at the core anthropological concepts of field informants and knowledge Reassessing they propose that the field identities and knowledge acquired are not set entities but rather are a matter of construction Personal profiles of the researchers native or outsider activist or academic man or woman black or white contribute to frame the investigations Essays also illustrate the shifting of these identities during and after the research in response to personal relational and political circumstances This volume is a vital addition to the body of work on French Louisiana and Cajun and Creole Culture and it provides an understanding of the true nature of anthropological fieldwork that is of great value to anyone attempting to research in a modern setting

Fabrics of Anthropological Knowledge Hande Birkalan-Gedik, Fabiana Dimpflmeier, 2025-07-01 Weaving together a collection of original essays this book looks at the transnational circulations of people concepts and practices in anthropology revealing the many ways that they cross borders The essays focus on European anthropological traditions and beyond including broader transnational interactions to uncover the intricate fabrics of interconnected influences that have shaped anthropology By presenting these diverse threads the volume challenges the notion of singular separated traditions of anthropology and demonstrates how the field has been shaped by a rich plurality of transnational connections negotiations and entanglements in the past and today Anthropology in Theory Henrietta L. Moore, Todd Sanders, 2014-01-28 This second edition of the widely praised Anthropology in Theory Issues in Epistemology features a variety of updates revisions and new readings in its comprehensive presentation of issues in the history of anthropological theory and epistemology over the past century Provides a comprehensive selection of 60 readings and an insightful overview of the evolution of anthropological theory Revised and updated to reflect an on going strength and diversity of the discipline in recent years with new readings pointing to innovative directions in the development of anthropological research Identifies crucial concepts that reflect the practice of engaging with theory particular ways of thinking analyzing and reflecting that are unique to anthropology Includes excerpts of seminal anthropological works key classic and contemporary debates in the discipline and cutting edge new theorizing Reveals broader debates in the social sciences including the relationship between society and culture language and cultural meanings structure and agency identities and technologies subjectivities and trans locality and meta theory ontology and epistemology Thinking the Re-Thinking of the World Kai Kresse, Abdoulaye Sounaye, 2022-12-19 As far too many intellectual histories and theoretical contributions from the global South remain under explored this volume works towards redressing such imbalance Experienced authors from the regions concerned along different disciplinary lines and with a focus on different historical timeframes sketch out their perspectives of envisaged transformations This includes specific case studies and reflexive accounts from African South Asian and Middle Eastern contexts Taking a critical stance on the ongoing dominance of Eurocentrism in academia the authors present their contributions in relation to current decolonial challenges Hereby they consider intellectual practical and structural aspects and dimensions to mark and build their respective positions From their particular vantage points of trans disciplinary and transregional engagement they sketch out potential pathways for addressing the unfinished business of conceptual decolonization The specific individual positionalities of the contributors which are shaped by location and regional perspective as much as in disciplinary biographical linguistic religious and other terms are hereby kept in view Drawing on their significant experiences and insights gained in both the global north and global south the contributors offer original and innovative models of engagement and theorizing frames that seek to restore and critically engage with intellectual practices from particular regions and transregional contexts in Africa South Asia and the Middle East This volume builds on a lecture series held at ZMO in the winter 2019 2020

Anthropology and Archaeology Chris Gosden, 2002-01-04 Anthropology and Archaeology provides a valuable and much needed introduction to the theories and methods of these two inter related subjects This volume covers the historical relationship and contemporary interests of archaeology and anthropology It takes a broad historical approach setting the early history of the disciplines with the colonial period during which the Europeans encountered and attempted to make sense of many other peoples It shows how the subjects are linked through their interest in kinship economics and symbolism and discusses what each contribute to debates about gender material culture and globalism in the post colonial world

Landscape, Process and Power Serena Heckler, 2012 In recent years the field of study variously called local indigenous or traditional environmental knowledge TEK has experienced a crisis brought about by the questioning of some of its basic assumptions This has included reassessing notions that scientific methods can accurately elicit and describe TEK or that incorporating it into development projects will improve the physical social or economic well being of marginalized peoples The contributors to this volume argue that to accurately and appropriately describe TEK the historical and political forces that have shaped it as well as people s day to day engagement with the landscape around them must be taken into account TEK thus emerges not as an easily translatable tool for development experts but as a rich and complex element of contemporary lives that should be defined and managed by indigenous and local peoples themselves

Anthropologies and Futures Juan Francisco Salazar, Sarah Pink, Andrew Irving, Johannes Sjöberg, 2020-05-15

Academia across the borders Ekaterina Melnikova,Zinaida Vasilyeva,2024-01-08 This book documents the voices of scholars working in with or about Russia in the context of historical collapse The brief answers commentaries and essays collected here were written in response to the four questions asking how academic lives and practices have changed in the aftermath of 24 February 2022 The original project which was born in Russia at the end of 2022 and intended to be published in Russia and in the Russian language was never realised One year later we are publishing this collection in Germany in the English language These are no longer snapshots of the current situation but historical documents that record structural disruptions ethical and political uncertainties and individual emotional and analytical reflections from a year ago Academia is always both an active subject and a passive object under transformation in any continuing political social and economic processes with this publication we hope to contribute to our understanding of diverse implications of the war and shifts in academic landscapes and public discursive regimes The book special issue includes 25 responses by young and well established scholars and two introductions written by the editors in late 2022 and 2023 respectively Social Experience and Anthropological Knowledge Kirsten Hastrup,Peter Hervik,2003-12-16 Anthropology poses an explicit challenge to standard notions of scientific knowledge It claims to produce genuine insights into the workings of culture in general on the basis of individual social experience in the field Social Experience and Anthropological Knowledge traces the process from the ethnographic experience to the analytical results showing how fieldwork enables the ethnographer to arrive at an understanding not only of culture and society but also of the processes by which cultures and societies are transformed The contributors challenge the distinction between subjectivity and objectivity redefine what we should mean by empirical and demonstrate the complexity of present day epistemological problems through concrete examples By demystifying subjectivity in the ethnographic process and re emphasizing the vital position of fieldwork they do much to renew confidence in the anthropological project of comprehending the world Transforming Ethnographic Knowledge Rebecca Hardin,Kamari Maxine Clarke,2012-08-06 The ethnographic methods that anthropologists first developed to study other cultures fieldwork participant observation dialogue are now being adapted for a broad array of applications such as business conflict resolution and demobilization wildlife conservation education and biomedicine In Transforming Ethnographic Knowledge anthropologists trace the changes they have seen in ethnography as a method and as an intellectual approach and they offer examples of ethnography's role in social change and its capacity to transform its practitioners. Senior scholars Mary Catherine Bateson, Sidney Mintz, and J. Lorand Matory look back at how thinking ethnographically shaped both their work and their lives, and George Marcus suggests that the methods for teaching and training anthropologists need rethinking and updating. The second part of the volume features anthropologists working in sectors where ethnography is finding or claiming new relevance. Kamari Maxine Clarke looks at ethnographers' involvement or non involvement in military conflict. Csilla Kalocsai employs ethnographic tools to understand the dynamics of corporate management. Rebecca Hardin and Melissa Remis take their own anthropological training into rainforests where wildlife conservation and research meet changing subsistence practices and gendered politics of social difference, and Marcia Inhorn shows how the interests in mobility and diasporic connection that characterize a new generation of ethnographic work also apply to medical technologies as those mediate fertility and relate to social status in the Middle East.

The Demands of Recognition Townsend Middleton, 2015-10-21

Since the British colonial period, anthropology has been central to policy in India. But today, while the Indian state continues to use ethnography to govern those who were the objects of study, are harnessing disciplinary knowledge to redefine their communities, achieve greater prosperity and secure political rights. In this groundbreaking study, Townsend Middleton tracks these newfound lives of anthropology. Offering simultaneous ethnographies of the people of Darjeeling's quest for tribal status and the government anthropologists handling their claims, Middleton exposes how minorities are and are not recognized for affirmative action and autonomy. We encounter communities putting on elaborate spectacles of sacrifice, exorcism, bows and arrows, and blood drinking to prove their primitiveness and backwardness. Conversely, we see government anthropologists struggle for the ethnographic truth as communities increasingly turn academic paradigms back upon the state. The Demands of Recognition offers a compelling look at the escalating politics of tribal recognition in India. At once ethnographic and historical, it chronicles how multicultural governance has motivated the people of Darjeeling to ethnologically redefine themselves from Gorkha to tribal and back. But as these communities now know, not all forms of difference are legible in the eyes of the state. The Gorkhas' search for recognition has only amplified these communities' anxieties about who they are and who they must be if they are to attain the rights, autonomy, and belonging they desire.

The Struggle of African Indigenous Knowledge Systems in an Age of Globalization Munyaradzi Mawere, 2012

This is a comprehensive study and erudite description of the struggle of African Indigenous Knowledge Systems in an Age of Globalization, using in particular eighty-four children's traditional games in south-eastern Zimbabwe. The book is an informative and interesting anthropological account of rare African children's games at the risk of disappearing under globalization. The virtue of the book does not only lie in its modest philosophical questioning of those knowledge forms that consider themselves as superior to others, but in its laudable healthy appreciation of the creative art forms of traditional literature that features in genres such as endangered children's traditional games The book is a clarion call to Africans and the world beyond to come to the rescue of relegated and marginalized African creativity in the interest of future generations

River Delta Futures Francisco-J.
