Shakespeare, Einstein, and the Bottom Line David L. Kirp, 2009-06-30 How can you turn an English department into a revenue center How do you grade students if they are customers you must please How do you keep industry from dictating a university's research agenda What happens when the life of the mind meets the bottom line Wry and insightful Shakespeare Einstein and the Bottom Line takes us on a cross country tour of the most powerful trend in academic life today the rise of business values and the belief that efficiency immediate practical usefulness and marketplace triumph are the best measures of a university's success With a shrewd eye for the telling example David Kirp relates stories of marketing incursions into places as diverse as New York University's philosophy department and the University of Virginia's business school the high minded University of Chicago and for profit DeVry University He describes how universities brand themselves for greater appeal in the competition for top students how academic super stars are wooed at outsized salaries to boost an institution's visibility and prestige how taxpayer supported academic research gets turned into profitable patents and ideas get sold to the highest bidder and how the liberal arts shrink under the pressure to be self supporting Far from doctrinaire Kirp believes there's a place for the market but the market must be kept in its place While skewering Philistinism he admires the entrepreneurial energy that has invigorated academe's dreary precincts And finally he issues a challenge to those who decry the ascent of market values given the plight of higher education what is the alternative Table of Contents Introduction The New U Part I The Higher Education Bazaar 1 This Little Student Went to Market 2 Nietzsche's Niche The University of Chicago 3 Benjamin Rush's Brat Dickinson College 4 Star Wars New York University Part II Management 101 5 The Dead Hand of Precedent New York Law School 6 Kafka Was an Optimist The University of Southern California and the University of Michigan 7 Mr Jefferson's Private College Darden Graduate School of Business Administration University of Virginia Part III Virtual Worlds 8 Rebel Alliance The Classics Departments of Sixteen Southern Liberal Arts Colleges 9 The Market in Ideas Columbia University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology 10 The British Are Coming and Going Open University Part IV The Smart Money 11 A Good Deal of Education Supplement The monastery is colliding with the market American colleges and universities are in a fiercely competitive race for dollars and prestige The result may have less to do with academic excellence than with clever branding and salesmanship David Kirp offers a compelling account of what s happening to higher education and what it means for the future Robert B Reich University Professor Brandeis University and former U S Secretary of Labor Can universities keep their purpose independence and public trust when forced to prove themselves cost effective In this shrewd and readable book David Kirp explores what happens when the pursuit of truth becomes entwined with the pursuit of money Kirp finds bright spots in unexpected places for instance the emerging for profit higher education sector and he describes how some traditional institutions balance their financial needs with their academic missions Full of good stories and swift character sketches Shakespeare Einstein and the Bottom Line is engrossing for anyone who cares about higher education Laura D Andrea Tyson former Chair Council of Economic Advisers David Kirp wryly observes that maintaining communities of scholars is not a concern of the market His account of the state of higher education today makes it appallingly clear that the conditions necessary for the flourishing of both scholarship and community are disappearing before our eyes One would like to think of this as a wake up call but the hour may already be too late Stanley Fish Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences the University of Illinois at Chicago This is quite simply the most deeply informed and best written recent book on the dilemma of undergraduate education in the United States David Kirp is almost alone in stressing what relentless commercialization of higher education does to undergraduates At the same time he identifies places where administrators and faculty have managed to make the market work for not against real education If only college and university presidents could be made to read this book Stanley N Katz Center for Arts and Cultural Policy Studies Princeton University Once a generation a book brilliantly gives meaning to seemingly disorderly trends in higher education David Kirp s Shakespeare Einstein and the Bottom Line is that book for our time the early 21st century With passion and eloquence Kirp describes the decline of higher education as a public good the loss of university governing authority to constituent groups and external funding sources the two edged sword of collaboration with the private sector and the rise of business values in the academy This is a must read for all who care about the future of our universities Mark G Yudof Chancellor The University of Texas System David Kirp not only has a clear theoretical grasp of the economic forces that have been transforming American universities he can write about them without putting the reader to sleep in lively richly detailed case studies This is a rare book Robert H Frank Johnson Graduate School of Management Cornell University David Kirp wanders America s campuses and he wonders are markets management and technology supplanting vision values and truth With a large dose of nostalgia and a penchant for academic personalities he ponders the struggles and synergies of Ivy and Internet of industry and independence Wandering and wondering with him readers will feel the speed of change in contemporary higher education Charles M Vest President Massachusetts Institute of Technology      Special Bibliography Series ,1957      International
