Modelling Environmental Dynamics Martin Paegelow, María Teresa Camacho Olmedo, 2008-07-16 Modelling environmental dynamics is critical to understanding and predicting the evolution of the environment in response to the large number of influences including urbanisation climate change and deforestation Simulation and modelling provide support for decision making in environmental management The first chapter introduces terminology and provides an overview of methodological modelling approaches which may be applied to environmental and complex dynamics Based on this introduction this book illustrates various models applied to a large variety of themes deforestation in tropical regions fire risk natural reforestation in European mountains agriculture biodiversity urbanism climate change and land management for decision support etc These case studies provided by a large international spectrum of researchers and presented in a uniform structure focus particularly on methods and model validation so that this book is not only aimed at researchers and graduates but also at professionals

Geomatic Approaches for Modeling Land Change Scenarios María Teresa Camacho Olmedo, Martin Paegelow, Jean-François Mas, Francisco Escobar, 2017-10-26 This book provides a detailed overview of the concepts techniques applications and methodological approaches involved in land use and cover change LUCC modeling also known simply as land change modeling More than 40 international experts in this field have participated in this book which illustrates recent advances in LUCC modeling with examples from North and South America the Middle East and Europe Given the broad range of geomatic approaches available it helps readers select the approach that best meets their needs The book is structured into five parts preceded by a foreword written by Roger White and a general introduction Part I consists of four chapters each of which focuses on a specific stage in the modeling process calibration simulation validation and scenarios It presents and explains the fundamental ideas and concepts underlying LUCC modeling This is complemented by a comparative analysis of the selected software packages practically applied in various case studies in Part II and Part III Part II discusses recently proposed methodological developments that have enhanced modeling procedures and results while Part III offers case studies as well as interesting innovative methodological proposals Part IV revises different fundamental techniques used in LUCC modeling and finally Part V describes the best known software packages used in the applications presented in Parts II and III

Land-Use Modelling in Planning Practice Eric Koomen, Judith Borsboom-van Beurden, 2011-08-25 This book provides an overview of recent developments and applications of the Land Use Scanner model which has been used in spatial planning for well over a decade Internationally recognized as among the best of its kind this versatile model can be applied at a national level for trend extrapolation scenario studies and optimization yet can also be employed in a smaller scale regional context as demonstrated by the assortment of regional case studies included in the book Alongside these practical examples from the Netherlands readers will find discussion of more theoretical aspects of land use models as well as an assessment of various studies that aim to develop the Land Use Scanner model further Spanning the divide between the abstractions of land use modelling and the imperatives of policy making this is a cutting edge account of the way in which the Land Use Scanner approach is able to interrogate a spectrum of issues that range from climate change to transportation efficiency Aimed at planners researchers and policy makers who need to stay abreast of the latest advances in land use modelling techniques in the context of planning practice the book guides the reader through the applications supported by current instrumentation It affords the opportunity for a wide readership to benefit from the extensive and acknowledged expertise of Dutch planners who have originated a host of much used models

Globalisation and Sustainable Development Vladimir F. Krapivin, 2007-07-05 A characteristic of the present global ecological situation is increasing instability or put another way a crisis in the civilization system the global scale of which is expressed through a deterioration of human and animal habitats The most substantial features of global ecodynamics of the late 20th and early 21st centuries include the rapid increase in world population mainly in developing countries increase in the size of the urban population considerable growth in the number of megalopolises and increase in the scales of such dangerous diseases as HIV AIDS hepatitis tuberculosis etc With growing population size the problems of providing people with food and improving their living conditions in many regions will not only not be resolved but will become even more urgent Any possible benefit from decrease in per capita consumption as a result of increased efficiency of technologies will be outweighed by the impact of such a growth in population size Despite the predominant increase of population in developing countries their contribution to the impact on the environment will not necessarily exceed that of developed countries Key to ensuring sustainable development of the nature society system NSS is the relationship between production and consumption as mentioned at the World Summit on Sustainable Development in Johannesburg 2002 As civilization has developed so the problem of predicting the scale of expected climate change and associated change in human habitats has become more urgent

Global Urbanization Eugenie L. Birch, Susan M. Wachter, 2011-02-25 For the first time in history the majority of the world's population lives in urban areas Much of this urbanization has been fueled by the rapidly growing cities of the developing world exemplified most dramatically by booming megacities such as Lagos Karachi and Mumbai In the coming years as both the number and scale of cities continue to increase the most important matters of social policy and economic development will necessarily be urban issues Urbanization across the world but especially in Asia and Africa is perhaps the critical issue of the twenty first century Global Urbanization surveys essential dimensions of this growth and begins to formulate a global urban agenda for the next half century Drawing from many disciplines the contributors tackle issues ranging from how cities can keep up with fast growing housing needs to the possibilities for public private partnerships in urban governance Several essays address the role that cutting edge technologies such as GIS software remote sensing and predictive growth models can play in tracking and forecasting urban growth Reflecting the central importance of the Global South to twenty first century urbanism the volume includes case studies and examples from China India Uganda Kenya and Brazil While the challenges posed by large scale urbanization are immense the future of human development requires that we find ways to promote socially inclusive growth environmental sustainability and resilient infrastructure The timely and relevant scholarship assembled in Global Urbanization will be of great interest to scholars and policymakers in demography geography urban studies and international development

Valuing Chaparral Emma C. Underwood, Hugh D. Safford, Nicole A. Molinari, Jon E. Keeley, 2018-04-09 Chaparral shrubland ecosystems are an iconic feature of the California landscape and a highly biodiverse yet highly flammable backdrop to some of the fastest growing urban areas in the United States Chaparral type ecosystems are a common element of all of the world's Mediterranean type climate regions of which California is one yet there is little public appreciation of the intrinsic value and the ecosystem services that these landscapes provide Valuing Chaparral is a compendium of contributions from experts in chaparral ecology and management with a focus on the human relationship with chaparral ecosystems Chapters cover a wide variety of subjects ranging from biodiversity to ecosystem services like water provision erosion control carbon sequestration and recreation from the history of human interactions with chaparral to current education and conservation efforts and from chaparral restoration and management to scenarios of the future under changing climate land use and human population Valuing Chaparral will be of interest to resource managers the research community policy makers and the public who live and work in the chaparral dominated landscapes of California and other Mediterranean type climate regions
