discussion of liberalism encompasses the foundations of modern society its secularism its individualism and its conception of rights The frequent incapacity of the morally neutral democratic state to further social causes he argues derives from the liberal stance that political life does not serve a higher purpose Through quick moving highly synthetic essays he explores the development of liberal thinking in terms of a single theme the decline of theological politics The author traces the liberal stance to Machiavelli who in seeking to divorce everyday life from the pervasive influence of the Catholic church separated politics from all notions of a cosmological order What followed as Manent demonstrates in his analyses of Locke Hobbes Rousseau Guizot and Constant was the evolving concept of an individual with no goals outside the confines of the self and a state with no purpose but to prevent individuals from dominating one another Weighing both the positive and negative effects of such a political arrangement Manent raises important questions about the fundamental political issues of the day among them the possibility of individual rights being reconciled with the necessary demands of political organization and the desirability of a government system neutral about religion but not about public morals
