Christopher May, 2006-11-06 Covering the World Intellectual Property Organization this volume introduces a much ignored element of the contemporary structure of global governance to scholars of international political economy Christopher May discusses how the World Intellectual Property Organization works its antecedents and history the debates about the role and justification of intellectual property the role of WIPO within contemporary global politics the key elements of its relations with the World Trade Organization the Agreement on Trade Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights The analysis then examines the recent political economy of the organization and argues that far from being the neutral or technical agency that it often presents itself as the WIPO is highly politicized and acts to socialize policy makers and civil servants into a specific view of intellectual property However the recent proposal to establish a Development Agenda at the WIPO is an important development and the book concludes by examining the problems which have promoted this agenda suggesting that these reforms of the WIPO should be welcomed The World Intellectual Property Organization is a clear and accessible volume that will confirm the WIPO as one of the global institutions which any student of global governance must understand assessed The challenges faced by the States in enforcing their intellectual property laws receive particular attention Protecting Intellectual Property in the Arabian Peninsula considers the changing nature of the States intellectual property laws since 1995 It argues that the decade immediately following the TRIPS Agreement was marked by a period of foreign forces shaping or influencing the character of the States intellectual property legislative regimes primarily through multilateral or bilateral trade based agreements The second and current decade however see a significant shift away from foreign influences and a move towards domestic and regional imperatives and initiatives taking over The work also examines regional initiatives for the protection of traditional knowledge and cultural heritage as areas of intellectual property which fall outside the parameters of the TRIPS Agreement but which are of significant concern to the States and other developing countries and to which they are giving increasing attention in terms of providing proper protection
