University Quarterly Review, 1965 Mind, Society, and Human Action Richard Wagner, 2010-02-25 Economics originated as a branch of the humane studies that was concerned with trying to understand how some societies flourish while others stagnate and also how once flourishing societies could come to stagnate Over the major part of the 20th century however economists mostly turned away from these humane and societal concerns by importing mechanistic ideas from 19th century physics This book seeks to show how that original humane and social focus can be renewed The many particular topics the book examines can be traced to two central ideas Firstly that economic theory like physics requires two distinct theoretical frameworks One treats qualities that are invariant across time and place this is the domain of equilibrium theory The other treats the internal generation of change in societies through entrepreneurial action that continually transforms the ecology of enterprises that constitutes a society Secondly economic theory is treated as a genuine social science and not a science of rationality writ large The book also explores ways in which life in society is understood differently once economics is treated as a social science The book is much of the hyper formality that comprises economic theory these days fails to make reasonable contact with reality It will be of interest to sociologists political scientists and researchers in law public policy Austrian economics evolutionary economics institutional economics and political economy Gimme! The Human Nature of Successful Marketing John Hallward, 2007-06-30 In Gimme advertising research expert John Hallward shows you how the most effective advertising campaigns tap into our most basic primal emotions to convince consumers to buy For marketers and advertisers this book looks at the human nature of consumers and presents the proven tactics techniques and arguments that best motivate the human animal to buy Random Thoughts of a Canadian Patriot Don Chivers, 2013-12

Being random this book is not sequential There is a plausible explanation of how and why man became a confrontational zealot over his adopted religion It also explains why religion became an argument of creation versus evolution However the world population is blind to its early beginnings and unaware of the influence of racial memory Random Thoughts of a Canadian Patriot reveals the possibilities of multiculturalism and considers the long range effects of a changing economic world in relation to Canada Some light is also thrown on Canada's much touted health care system The number of political parties in Canada is shown as a disadvantage to a Democratic federal election ever gaining a majority government It demonstrates that there are advantages to the poorer class in a Conservative government that are not apparent and how costly social programs lead to a spiral of thinning the wealth with government as the main beneficiary One chapter defines the relative strength of money and another addresses the need for world cooperation in dealing with global warming Raised in Cardiff Wales Don Chivers now calls White Rock British Columbia home A World War II veteran he was a hospital administrator before retirement His photographic memory helps with his writing and he is now working on his next book Publisher's website <http://sbpra.com/donchivers>

Models for Intercultural Collaboration and Negotiation Katia Sycara, Michele Gelfand, Allison Abbe, 2013-02-15 This book is the first to bring together research material from different communities Computer Science and especially Artificial Intelligence and Social Sciences e.g. Anthropology Social Psychology Political Science that present ideas and viewpoints methods and models on inter cultural collaboration and negotiation With increasing globalization of business and science cultural differences of the parties are an important factor that affects the process and outcomes of collaborative and self interested interactions The social science literature on culture as well as human collaboration and negotiation is vast Most of this literature is devoted to work within the same culture Artificial intelligence researchers on the other hand have developed computational models of cooperation conflict resolution and negotiation but paying almost no attention to identifying and modeling cultural factors In recent years we have witnessed a great increase in interest in understanding inter cultural interactions This has led to increased interest of social scientists and computational scientists in theoretical and experimental analysis of inter cultural exchanges modeling and support Currently these communities are largely unconnected There is a great need to bring them together to share research work and experiences discuss ideas and forge interdisciplinary collaborative relations This book will be of interest to researchers from AI computer science and social behavioral sciences fields such as psychology sociology communications organizational science
