Intelligence Of Apes And Other Rational Beings:

Intelligence of Apes and Other Rational Beings Duane M. Rumbaugh, David A. Washburn, 2008-10-01 What is animal intelligence In what ways is it similar to human intelligence Many behavioral scientists have realized that animals can be rational can think in abstract symbols can understand and react to human speech and can learn through observation as well as conditioning many of the more complicated skills of life Now Duane Rumbaugh and David Washburn probe the mysteries of the animal mind even further identifying an advanced level of animal behavior emergents that reflects animals natural and active inclination to make sense of the world Rumbaugh and Washburn unify all behavior into a framework they call Rational Behaviorism and present it as a new way to understand learning intelligence and rational behavior in both animals and humans Drawing on years of research on issues of complex learning and intelligence in primates notably rhesus monkeys chimpanzees and bonobos Rumbaugh and Washburn provide delightful examples of animal ingenuity and persistence showing that animals are capable of very creative solutions to novel challenges The authors analyze learning processes and research methods discuss the meaningful differences across the primate order and point the way to further advances enlivening theoretical material about primates with stories about their behavior and achievements The Dynamic Dance

Barbara J. KING, Barbara J King, 2009-06-30 Mother and infant negotiate over food two high status males jockey for power female kin band together to get their way It happens among humans and it happens among our closest living relatives in the animal kingdom the great apes of Africa In this eye opening book we see precisely how such events unfold in chimpanzees bonobos and gorillas through a spontaneous mutually choreographed dance of actions gestures and vocalizations in which social partners create meaning and come to understand each other Using dynamic systems theory an approach employed to study human communication Barbara King is able to demonstrate the genuine complexity of apes social communication and the extent to which their interactions generate meaning As King describes apes create meaning primarily through their body movements and go well beyond conveying messages about food mating or predators Readers come to know the captive apes she has observed and others across Africa as well and to understand the process of creating social meaning This new perspective not only acquaints us with our closest living relatives but informs us about a possible pathway for the evolution of language in our own species King s theory challenges the popular idea that human language is instinctive with rules and abilities hardwired into our brains Rather The Dynamic Dance suggests language has its roots in the gestural building up of meaning that was present in the ancestor we shared with the great apes and that we continue to practice to this day

Interdisciplinary Perspectives and Advances in Understanding Adaptive Memory Michael Toglia, Henry Otgaar, Jeanette Altarriba, William Erickson, 2024-09-11 Interdisciplinary Perspectives and Advances in Understanding Adaptive Memory presents the latest theories and research on what is known about adaptive memory often referred to as survival memory Conceptually this is the study of memory systems that evolved to aid remembering survival and fitness relevant information

In this volume survival is contextualized from many converging perspectives within psychology including comparative psychology. Therefore adaptive memory in animals especially non human primates is covered in one of the book's four sections. The unification of viewpoints is achieved thematically stemming from forensic science, cognitive neuroscience, biology, computer science and anthropology. This interdisciplinary approach binds the chapters together and facilitates an integrative analysis of adaptive survival memory in the concluding chapter.

Self-Control in Animals and People Michael Beran, 2018-08-11

Self Control in Animals and People takes an interdisciplinary look at what self control is, how it works and whether humans are alone as a species in their ability to demonstrate self control. The book outlines historical and recent empirical approaches to understanding when self control succeeds and fails and which species may share with humans the ability to anticipate better future outcomes. It also provides readers with in depth explorations of whether various species can delay gratification, the ways in which people and animals exhibit other forms of self control, what influences the capacity and expression of self control and much more. In addition to its comprehensive coverage of self control research, the book also describes self control assessment tests that can be used with young children, adults and a wide variety of nonhuman species with the goal of making fair and clear comparisons among the groups. This combination makes Self Control in Animals and People a valuable resource for cognitive, developmental and clinical psychologists, philosophers, academic students and researchers in psychology and the social sciences and animal behaviorists. Provides a comprehensive perspective of the evolutionary emergence of self control across species. Explores different kinds of self control and their links to one another and whether self control can be improved or strengthened. Offers insight on mental time travel, chronesthesia and how it relates to self control. Demonstrates how to develop self control tests for human and nonhuman animals and how to make fair and clear comparisons among those groups.

Robbie Case: A Modern Classic. About 15 years ago Robbie asked me what I thought of a talk we had just heard. I indicated that I hadn't much liked it and noted several serious problems. Robbie agreed with all of the criticisms but said that he nonetheless liked the talk because there was one good idea in it that he could use. I agreed with him that the idea was a good one but it took me a while to understand the wisdom of his position. If there's one useful idea in a talk then hearing it has been worthwhile even if the talk also has numerous deficiencies. On that day and on many others talking with Robbie changed my thinking for the better. Robbie Case was in many ways a classic developmental psychologist of the old school. The depth and breadth of his theory, the range of age groups, populations and topics that he studied and his efforts to connect theory and application are all reminiscent of the greats of the past: Baldwin, Dewey, Piaget, Vygotsky and Bruner.

Ghazanfar, 2012-08-16 This edited volume is the first of its kind to bridge the epistemological gap between primate ethologists and primate neurobiologists Leading experts in several fields review work ranging from primate foraging behavior to the neurophysiology of motor control from vocal communication to the functions of the auditory cortex The Missing Link in Cognition Herbert S. Terrace, Janet Metcalfe, 2005-01-20 Are humans unique in having self reflective consciousness Or can precursors to this central form of human consciousness be found in non human species The Missing Link in Cognition brings together a diverse group of researchers who have been investigating this question from a variety of perspectives including the extent to which non human primates and indeed young children have consciousness a sense of self thought process metacognitions and representations Some of the participants Kitcher Higgins Nelson and Tulving argue that these types of cognitive abilities are uniquely human whereas others Call Hampton Kinsbourne Menzel Metcalfe Schwartz Smith and Terrace are convinced that at least the precursors to self reflective consciousness exist in non human primates Their debate focuses primarily on the underpinnings of consciousness Some of the participants believe that consciousness depends on representational thought and on the mental manipulation of such representations Is representational thought enough to ensure consciousness or does one need more If one needs more exactly what is needed Is reflection upon the representations that is metacognition the link Does a realization of the contingencies that is knowing that in Gilbert Ryle s terminology ensure that a person or an animal is conscious Is true episodic memory needed for consciousness and if so do any animals have it Is it possible to have episodic memory or indeed any self reflective processing without language Other participants believe that consciousness is inextricably intertwined with a sense of self or self awareness From where does this sense of self or self awareness arise Some of the participants believe that it develops only through the use of language and the narrative form If it does develop in this way what about claims of a sense of self or self awareness in non human animals Others believe that the autobiographical record implied by episodic memory is fundamental To what extent must non human animals have the linguistic metacognitive and or representational abilities to develop a sense of self or self awareness These and other related concerns are crucial in this volume s lively debate over the nature of the missing cognitive link and whether gorillas chimps or other species might be more like humans than many have supposed On Human Nature Jonathan H. Turner, 2020-11-24 In this book Jonathan H Turner combines sociology evolutionary biology cladistic analysis from biology and comparative neuroanatomy to examine human nature as inherited from common ancestors shared by humans and present day great apes Selection pressures altered this inherited legacy for the ancestors of humans termed hominins for being bipedal and forced greater organization than extant great apes when the hominins moved into open country terrestrial habitats The effects of these selection pressures increased hominin ancestors emotional capacities through greater social and group orientation This shift in turn enabled further selection for a larger brain articulated speech and culture along the human line Turner elaborates human nature as a series of overlapping complexes that are the outcome of the inherited legacy of great apes being fed through the transforming effects of a larger brain speech and culture These complexes he shows can be understood as the cognitive complex the psychological complex the emotions complex the interaction complex and the community complex

Beach, 2021-09-30 This book examines the idea of educational accountability which has become a new secular gospel But do accountability policies actually make schools better Do business management theories and practices make organizations more effective What if the most widely used management theories and assessment tools don t work What if educational accountability tools don t actually measure what they re supposed to What if accountability data isn t valid or worse what if it s meaningless What if administrators don t know how to use accountability tools or correctly analyze the problematic data these tools produce What if we can t measure let alone accurately assess what matters most with teaching or student learning How is a business model of economic efficiency supposed to increase the competing and perhaps mutually exclusive ends of schooling such as human development student learning personal satisfaction social mobility and economic growth What if students don t learn much in schools What if schools were never designed to produce student learning This book will answer these questions with a wide interdisciplinary range of the latest scientific research
