

intent to use trademark

An Intent to Use (ITU) trademark application allows you to register a trademark or service mark before using it in commerce, provided you genuinely intend to use it in the future.

While initial filing doesn't require actual use in commerce, demonstrating use within specified time frames through documentation and additional fees is necessary before the mark can be registered.

By filing early, you secure a priority date ahead of potential competitors. This early filing date could offer priority status if legal conflicts arise either at the USPTO or in the marketplace.
