Rethinking Violence Vittorio Bufacchi,2013-10-31 Violence is a prevalent and persistent theme in all aspects of human affairs A comprehensive understanding of violence therefore requires exposure to the research coming out from all the disciplines in the social sciences their different methodologies findings and insights This book promotes the merits of an interdisciplinary agenda By bringing together scholars of violence working in political science political theory international relations economics philosophy sociology psychology and public health this book explores the complexity of violence and the interface between the empirical and normative dimensions central to this problem The aim is to investigate the ways in which a correct understanding of this phenomenon must deal with both empirical and normative issues There is a tendency for scholars of violence to work predominantly within the narrow parameters of their own discipline philosophers tend to read fellow philosophers on violence criminologists tend to rely on the work of fellow criminologists sociologists tend to trust the writings of fellow sociologists and so on This book invites the reader to embrace an interdisciplinary approach towards the universal problem of violence 178 words

Commonwealth Caribbean Business Law Natalie Persadie,Rajendra Ramlogan,2010-04-20 Commonwealth Caribbean Business Law breaks away from the traditional English approach of treating business law primarily as the law of contract and agency The book takes a panoramic view of the foundation of various legal systems with a subsequent examination of different areas of legal liability that may affect business activities These areas include contract law agency tort law criminal law and internet law as significant challenges confronting the business sector The book primarily targets the development of business law in several Caribbean Commonwealth jurisdictions but also where appropriate embraces the jurisprudence of other Commonwealth nations such as the United Kingdom Canada and Australia With respect to internet law the proliferation of judicial pronouncements emerging from the United States provided the platform for the only non Commonwealth treatment of a topic. The approach of the book is to use excerpts from judgments so as to allow students particularly the non legal student to understand legal principles as espoused by the judiciary without the filtering bias of authors. Hospital separations due to injury and poisoning, Australia 2006-07, New York Court of Appeals. Records and Briefs. New York (State)., California. Court of Appeal (3rd Appellate District). Records and Briefs California (State)., Number of Exhibits 22 Received document entitled EXHIBITS TO BRIEF OF AMICUS CURIAE Injury mortality in Sweden: changes over time and the effect of age and injury mechanism Denise Bäckström, 2017-11-15 Background Injuries are one of the most common causes of death in the world Varying types of injuries dominate in different parts of the world which also have separate influences mortality In Scandinavia blunt injuries dominates and the majority of those who die do so pre hospital Over time different injury pattern may vary and by analyzing this we can assess when where and how preventive work can be reinforced The aim of this thesis was to study injury epidemiology in Sweden and assess the contribution of different injury patterns on mortality Method We used the Swedish cause of death and the national patient registries which have a complete national coverage ICSS was calculated based on ICD 10 in the in hospital population We have chosen to do this investigation with a broad perspective using the term injury which includes trauma but also other diagnoses like suffocation and drowning Results During the study period 1999 2012 the number of deaths because of injury was 1213 25 388 and 18 332 among children working age and elderly respectively Mortality declined in the children and in the working age but inclined in the elderly Mortality increased with each age group except between the ages of 15 25 and 26 35 years One thousand two hundred sixty four 97% of those who died because of penetrating trauma sharp objects and firearms were killed by intentional trauma assault and intentional self harm One thousand and seventeen 83% of the children died prehospital In the working age 22 211 80% of 25 388 died pre hospital Nine thousand six hundred and eighteen 53% of 18 332 of the elderly died prehospital During 2001 2011 the risk adjusted in hospital mortality decreased in traffic and assault but not in fall related injuries Discussion Largely the anticipated injury mortality picture was found with blunt injuries traffic accidents dominating in the working age and falls in elderly Further a significant portion of the deaths occurred pre hospital The intentional injuries are dominated by intentional selfharm The decrease in child injury mortality is notable as Sweden already has one of the lowest incidences in child injury mortality in the world The decrease in injury mortality in the working age also implies that preventive work has had an effect The incline in injury mortality in elderly on the other hand needs to be further studied Areas of particular importance for future preventive work is the incline in injury mortality in elderly and intentional injuries among children

What Determines Social Behavior? Investigating the Role of Emotions, Self-Centered Motives, and Social Norms Corrado Corradi-Dell'Acqua, Leonie Koban, Susanne Leiberg, Patrik Vuilleumier, Ernst Fehr, 2016-09-28

Human behavior and decision making is subject to social and motivational influences such as emotions norms and self other regarding preferences The identification of the neural and psychological mechanisms underlying these factors is a central issue in psychology behavioral economics and social neuroscience with important clinical social and even political implications However despite a continuously growing interest from the scientific community the processes underlying these factors as well as their ontogenetic and phylogenetic development have so far remained elusive In this Research Topic we collect articles that provide challenging insights and stimulate a fruitful controversy on the question of what determines social behavior Indeed over the last decades research has shown that introducing a social context to otherwise abstract tasks has diverse effects on social behavior On the one hand it may induce individuals to act irrationally for instance to refuse money but on the other hand it improves individuals reasoning in that formerly difficult abstract problems can be easily solved These lines of research led to distinct although not necessarily mutually exclusive models for socially driven behavioral changes For instance a popular theoretical framework interprets human behavior as a result of a conflict between cognition and emotion with the cognitive system promoting self interested choices and the emotional system triggered by the social context operating against them Other theories favor social norms and deontic heuristics in biasing human reasoning and encouraging choices that are sometimes in conflict with one's interest Few studies attempted to disentangle between these as well as other models As a consequence although insightful results arise from specific domains tasks a comprehensive theoretical framework is still missing Furthermore studies employing neuroimaging techniques have begun to shed some light on the neural substrates involved in social behavior implicating consistently although not exclusively portions of the limbic system the insular and the prefrontal cortex In this context a challenge for present research lies not only in further mapping the brain structures implicated in social behavior or in describing in detail the functional interaction between these structures but in showing how the implicated networks relate to different theoretical models This is Research Topic hosted by members of the Swiss National Center of Competence in Research Affective Sciences Emotions in Individual Behaviour and Social Processes We collected contributions from the international community which extended the current knowledge about the psychological and neural structures underlying social behavior and decision making In particular we encouraged submissions from investigators arising from different domains psychology behavioral economics affective sciences etc implementing different techniques behavior electrophysiology neuroimaging brain stimulations on different populations neurotypical adults children brain damaged or psychiatric patients etc Animal studies are also included as the data reported are of high comparative value Finally we also welcomed submissions of meta analytical articles mini reviews and perspective papers which offer provocative and insightful interpretations of the recent literature in the field Public Health Reports ,1987
