Quantitative Modeling in Toxicology Kannan Krishnan, Melvin E. Andersen, 2010-04-01 Governments around the world are passing laws requiring industry to assess the toxicity of the chemicals and products they produce but to do so while reducing refining or even replacing testing on animals To meet these requirements experimental toxicologists and risk assessors are adopting quantitative approaches and computer simulations to study the biological fate and effects of chemicals and drugs In Quantitative Modeling in Toxicology leading experts outline the current state of knowledge on the modeling of dose tissue interactions and tissue responses Each chapter describes the mathematical foundation parameter estimation challenges and perspectives for development along with the presentation of a modeling template Additionally tools and approaches for conducting uncertainty sensitivity and variability analyses in these models are described Topics covered include the quantitative models of pharmacokinetics of individual chemicals and mixtures models for toxicant target tissue interaction models for cellular organ and organism responses approaches tools and challenges for model application and evaluation A website containing computer codes accompanies the book to help the reader reconstruct the models described and discussed in the various chapters Quantitative Modeling in Toxicology serves as an essential reference source and tool box for risk assessors and researchers and students in toxicology public health pharmacology and human toxicology interested in developing quantitative models for a better understanding of dose response relationships

Making Assessment Matter Nonie K. Lesaux, Sky H. Marietta, 2012-01-01 All too often literacy assessments are given only for accountability purposes and fail to be seen as valuable resources for planning and differentiating instruction This clear concise book shows K 5 educators how to implement a comprehensive balanced assessment battery that integrates accountability concerns with data driven instruction Teachers learn to use different types of test scores to understand and address students specific learning needs The book features an in depth case example of a diverse elementary school that serves many struggling readers and English language learners Reproducible planning and progress monitoring forms can be downloaded and printed in a convenient 8 1 2 x 11 size Provided by publisher

Advances in Human Factors and Systems Interaction Isabel L. Nunes, 2019-06-04 This book reports on cutting edge research into innovative system interfaces highlighting both lifecycle development and human technology interaction especially in virtual augmented and mixed reality systems It describes advanced methodologies and tools for evaluating and improving interface usability and discusses new models as well as case studies and good practices The book addresses the human hardware and software factors in the process of developing interfaces for optimizing total system performance while minimizing their costs It also highlights the forces currently shaping the nature of computing and systems such as the importance of portability and technologies for reducing power requirements the necessity of a better assimilation of computation in the environment as well as solutions to promote accessibility to computers and systems for people with special needs The book which is based on the AHFE 2019 International Conference on Human Factors and Systems Interaction held on July 24 28 2019 in Washington D C USA offers a timely survey and practice oriented guide for systems interface users and developers alike

Fluid-Structure Interaction Hans-Joachim Bungartz, Michael Schäfer, 2007-06-24 This volume in the series Lecture Notes in Computational Science and Engineering presents a collection of papers presented at the International Workshop on FSI held in October 2005 in Hohenwart and organized by DFG s Research Unit 493 FSI Modeling Simulation and Optimization The papers address partitioned and monolithic coupling approaches methodical issues and applications and discuss FSI from the mathematical informatics and engineering points of view

Perspectives on Assessment and Improvement of Quality in Early Childhood Education and Care: A World-Wide Kaleidoscope Antonia Elisabeth Enikoe Baumeister, Hui Li, Linda Joan Harrison, 2024-08-29 The key aims of early childhood education and care ECEC are to offer children from all social backgrounds a good start in their lives to support parenting as well as families workforce participation and thereby to sustainably strengthen the national economy over current and future generations High quality ECEC has been shown to improve child outcomes and be a buffer against developmental risk factors For these reasons governments ECEC providers and researchers are placing an increasing focus on the frameworks and systems that underpin quality as well as the measures that assess quality At the same time however research on ECEC as a multidisciplinary endeavor has shown that the aims and benefits of high quality ECEC can only be reached when all stakeholders needs are acknowledged and sufficiently met For example recent evidence suggests that the acceptability and social validity of quality assessment and improvement methods are contested among some stakeholders and thus the sustainability of these quality efforts may be in doubt New challenges also include the ever changing nature and circumstances affecting ECEC stakeholders for example the greater flows of refugee families and the impact of the Covid 19 pandemic This Frontiers Research Topic will contribute to an updated knowledge base in order to inform governments providers and the scientific community about best practices and new solutions for conceptualizing measuring and improving ECEC quality The aim of the proposed Research Topic is to generate a worldwide kaleidoscope of research studies that explore and discuss models for gathering the perspectives of multiple stakeholders and considering the meaningfulness of stakeholder views for conceptualizing assessing and improving quality in ECEC We believe that greater attention needs to be given to the diversity of stakeholders who are invested in ECEC including government regulatory authorities service providers educators families communities and children We also believe that wide ranging stakeholder input will generate innovative methods for assessing and improving quality that keep pace with our rapidly changing information society Two further foci are set on ECEC practices 1 that support participation diversity and inclusion of all children and families and 2 that are suitable for developing countries and diverse populations within countries In this the focus is not only on best practices but also on the limitations of practices In soliciting research articles on ECEC stakeholder perspectives we describe stakeholders as inclusive of government non government regulatory agencies service providers teachers and caregivers families communities and children Themes of interest include but are not limited to Assessment of quality in ECEC including self assessment approaches The design of and use of quality frameworks in ECEC Effects of quality and of quality improvement on children and families Drivers and indicators of quality improvement Acceptance and sustainability of quality efforts among ECEC stakeholders Policy expectations of quality rating and improvement systems e g funding policy The role of teacher and caregiver professionalization All types of center based and home based ECEC We are interested both in quantitative and qualitative research designs as well as in mixed methods research Cross sectional longitudinal quasi experimental and case study designs are welcome The following article types are welcome original research empirical studies systematic reviews community case studies policy briefs articles and brief research reports

Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean: Meeting the Challenge for Conserving Earth Ecosystems in the Long Term Monica M. C. Muelbert, 2024-12-24 National and international agencies need assessments of change in ecosystems and their drivers in order to sustain natural systems to maintain the delivery of services and to meet the challenge for conserving Earth ecosystems in the long term In marine systems change may arise directly from human activities e g fisheries indirectly from local or global activities cascading effects through food webs from fisheries or changing environments from climate change and or ocean acidification or from naturally varying processes A particular challenge for managers is to identify how dangerous future climate change will be for ecosystems and their services and whether mitigation or adaptation may be needed in advance in order to achieve the conservation requirements For regions of international attention particularly those that have the attention of many management or policy oriented bodies a standardized process is needed to harmonize the scientific information on the status and trends in ecosystems used by the different bodies That process also needs to ensure the information is available in a timely manner For example assessments of change in habitats species and or food webs in the Southern Ocean are currently compiled separately for at least ten different international organizations or processes A Marine Ecosystem Assessment for the Southern Ocean MEASO aims to harmonize that information for policy makers This assessment began with an international conference in April 2018 <http://www.measo2018.aq> where it was agreed to undertake the first MEASO over 2018 2019 with the view to provide the outcomes to relevant bodies such as the Scientific Committee for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources soon after

Recent Advances in Quantitative Methods in Cancer and Human Health Risk Assessment Lutz Edler, Christos Kitsos, 2005-12-13 Human health risk assessment involves the measuring of risk of exposure to disease with a view to improving disease prevention Mathematical biological statistical and computational methods play a key role in exposure assessment hazard assessment and identification and dose response modelling Recent Advances in Quantitative Methods in Cancer and Human Health Risk Assessment is a comprehensive text that accounts for the wealth of new biological data as well as new biological toxicological and medical approaches adopted in risk assessment It provides an authoritative compendium of state of the art methods proposed and used featuring contributions from eminent authors with varied experience from academia government and industry Provides a comprehensive summary of currently available quantitative methods for risk assessment of both cancer and non cancer problems Describes the applications and the limitations of current mathematical modelling and statistical analysis methods classical and Bayesian Includes an extensive introduction and discussion to each chapter Features detailed studies of risk assessments using biologically based modelling approaches Discusses the varying computational aspects of the methods proposed Provides a global perspective on human health risk assessment by featuring case studies from a wide range of countries Features an extensive bibliography with links to relevant background information within each chapter Recent Advances in Quantitative Methods in Cancer and Human Health Risk Assessment will appeal to researchers and practitioners in public health epidemiology and postgraduate students alike It will also be of interest to professionals working in risk assessment agencies
