ABSTRACT

The issue of religious moderation in Islamic counseling is part of the ethical and moral values of the counselor. Religious moderation education should be able to improve multicultural competence, especially in prospective Islamic counselors. This study aims to analyze whether religious moderation contributes to the development of multicultural counseling competence. The study used ex-post facto to examine the relationship between religious moderation and the multicultural counseling competence. The research was conducted through a survey using a google form to 30 students of Islamic Guidance and Counseling at UIN Sultan Maulana Hasanuddin Banten and 30 students of guidance and counseling at the University of PGRI Palembang. The results showed that religious moderation contributes to the development of multicultural counseling competencies. Religious moderation supports the development of multicultural insight regarding differences in values and a person's perspective in religion.

Introduction

Religious moderation is not just a scientific trend but an attitude needed by the Indonesian people. Awareness of religious moderation related to tolerance in diversity. Strengthening religious moderation is not only about differences in beliefs but more than that. Religious moderation is needed at this time so that all parties can live in harmony (Darmayanti & Maudin, 2021). Thus, religious moderation can prevent conflicts between groups and improve the quality of social life (Nurwahyudi, 2021).

The Ministry of Religion of the Republic of Indonesia emphasized that the basic idea of moderation is to find similarities and not sharpen differences (Muhammad, 2021). Moderation is an individual's strength to live in peace and live a life free from fear and suspicion (Akhmadi, 2019). Thus moderation is needed in various life settings.

Various studies were conducted in order to strengthen religious moderation in Indonesia. Religious moderation is closely related to a wise attitude towards religious plurality, so that a mental revolution needs to be encouraged, namely forming a mindset. It requires the ability to think objectively and comprehensively regarding existing problems, especially in viewing issues of religious plurality (Islam, 2020). The role of educational institutions in a pluralistic society is to serve as a laboratory basis for religious moderation and to carry out a socio-religious approach in religion and the state (Sutrisno, 2019). Higher education must strengthen religious moderation content through the digital space by counter-narratives to create substantive and essential religious framing, namely moderate and tolerant (Hefni, 2020).

The issue of religious moderation in Islamic counseling is mainly in the ethical and moral values of the counselor. To make a qualified Islamic counselor, good ethics, behavior, and personality under Islamic
