House At Pooh Corner Return To Pooh Corner:

The Intertextuality and Intermediality of the Anglophone Popular Song Michael Ingham, 2022-09-07 Popular song is a liminal hybrid form of cultural production. As a manifestation of adaptation studies, it has lacked visibility by comparison with more dominant adaptation practices, especially those for the screen. This book serves to fill this gap. It investigates what songwriters read and write before they start singing, showing that they need either to adapt material from existing sources or write their own lyrics drawn from a wide range of source texts and personal experiences. They are subject to myriad influences, and among these are other song lyrics, poems, novels, plays, films, and hybrid cultural forms. This deep structure of intertextuality is embedded in the cultural flux of language and operates at both conscious and subconscious levels. This book thus explores the complex and multifarious intertextual connections between popular songs of various genres, styles, and eras and literary works, including but by no means limited to the Bible and Shakespeare. As such, it offers a valuable resource by exploring the deep intertextual significance of literary source material for the intellectual and emotional diversity that can be found in the popular song form. The inverse reciprocal relationship, while much less common, is also considered in the study.

Positioning Pooh Jennifer Harrison, 2021-06-28 Contributions by Megan De Roover, Jennifer Harrison, Sarah Jackson, Zoe Jaques, Nada Kujund, Ivana Milkovi, Niall Nance, Carroll Perry, Nodelman, David Rudd, Jonathan Chun, Ngai Tsang, Nicholas Tucker, Donna Varga, and Tim Wadham. One hundred years ago, disparate events culminated in one of the most momentous happenings in the history of children's literature: Christopher Robin Milne was born. To A. A. and Dorothy Daphne Milne, Edward Bear, a lovable stuffed toy, arrived on the market, and a living young bear named Winnie settled in at the London Zoo. The collaboration, originally begun by the Milnes, E. H. and Florence Shephard, Winnie herself, and the many toys and personalities who fed into the Pooh legend, continued to evolve throughout the twentieth and twenty-first centuries to become a global phenomenon. Yet even a brief examination of this sensation reveals that Pooh and his adventures were from the onset marked by a rich complexity behind a seeming simplicity and innocence. This volume, after a decades-long lull in concentrated Pooh scholarship, seeks to highlight the plurality of perspectives, modes, and interpretations these tales afford, especially after the Disney Corporation scooped its paws into the honeypot in the 1950s. Positioning Pooh: Edward Bear after One Hundred Years argues the doings of Pooh remain relevant for readers in a posthuman, information-centric, media-saturated, globalized age. Pooh's forays destabilize social certainties on all levels: linguistic, ontological, legal, narrative, political, and so on. Through essays that focus on geography, language, narrative, characterization, history, politics, economics, and a host of other social and cultural phenomena, contributors to this volume explore how the stories open up discourses about identity, ethics, social relations, and notions of belonging. This first volume to offer multiple perspectives from multiple authors on the Winnie the Pooh books in a single collection focuses on and develops approaches that bring this classic of children's literature into the current era. Essays included not only are of relevance to scholars with an interest in Pooh, Milne, and the golden age of children's literature but also showcase the development of children's literature scholarship in step with exciting modern developments in literary theory
