

BELIEF SYSTEMS

DEFINITION

Belief systems are structured sets of principles or tenets held to be true by individuals or larger groups, encompassing aspects such as morality, life purpose, or empirical reality. They profoundly influence human behavior, shaping individual code of conduct, societal actions, values, and perceptions.

TYPES

Religious - These are belief systems that explain the origins of the universe, the existence of gods, and can set out moral codes.

Political - These are belief systems that explain how societies should be managed and governed, and are often based on ideas about power and resource distribution..

House Of Belief Belief Based Home Design:

House of Belief Kelee Katillac, 2000 Within the haven of our homes we should surround ourselves with things that uplift us Handmade objects such as quilts oil paintings well written novels and embroidered pillows expressions of our own creativity and that of others can feed our souls House of Belief is a unique take on interior design a vividly illustrated and lavishly photographed how to guide that assumes no special design talent on the part of the reader just a strong desire to express individuality Kelee Katillac encourages us to use the tools we have at hand to create home environments that express ourselves rather than the whims and dictates of the interior design industry The Prefabricated Interior Deborah Schneiderman, 2024-11-12 Though much attention has been given to the prefabrication of architecture there has been little discussion on the influence and importance of prefabrication within the interior environment This book does just that providing a comprehensive investigation into the prefab interior from the 19th century to the present and beyond Each chapter focuses on a typology of the prefabricated interior looking at the bathroom kitchen workspace furniture mobile interiors the prefab house textiles wearables and the digital realm of printed interiors Taken as a group these chapters and illustrations indicate that constructs of the interior have been pivotal in the generation of techniques and processes of prefabrication in architecture and the built environment Chapters explore a diverse range of examples of innovative prefabricated elements and assemblages within interior environments illustrating the inherent sustainability accessibility building efficiency and affordability of prefabricated design The culmination of a decade of research by the leading expert on the topic this will be the go to resource on prefabricated interiors and an important read for all students and researchers in interior design Designed for Habitat David Hinson, Justin Miller, 2013-05-07 If you re looking for ways to give back to your community then this book the first to profile thirteen projects designed and built by architects and Habitat for Humanity will help Detailed plans sections and photographs show you how these projects came about the strategies used by each team to approach the design and construction process and the obstacles they overcame to realize a successful outcome The lessons and insights presented here will aid you whether you re an architect architecture student Habitat affiliate leader or an affordable housing advocate Located all across the United States these projects represent the full spectrum of Habitat for Humanity affiliates from large urban affiliates to small rural programs These cases illustrate a broad range of innovative approaches to energy performance alternative construction strategies and responses to site context And each house demonstrates that design quality need not fall victim to the rigorous imperatives of cost delivery and financing Happiness and Domestic Life Maria Teresa Russo, Antonio Argandoña, Richard Peatfield, 2022-08-19 This book uses a multidisciplinary approach to examine the relationship between the quality of domestic life and the home environment in its material and relational dimension with individual and social happiness in the context of current changes The theme of happiness and well being is framed within two significant changes themselves affected by the recent COVID 19 pandemic the relationship between the individual's quality of life and engagement within the community and the role of new technologies in everyday life. The authors highlight the relational nature of happiness and the centrality of the home environment in its promotion. Three dimensions of psychosocial well-being in the home are analysed: the personal one consisting of a sense of stability, intimacy and sharing; the social one which considers the domestic environment as a place for civic education and in times of pandemic the site of professional activity; and the physical one consisting of spaces, services and architectural styles. This book is ideal for readers who wish to cross disciplinary boundaries and explore the topic of domestic happiness in its different facets. The target audience is both professional researchers and advanced graduate and undergraduate students.

Modern Architecture Alan Colquhoun, 2002-04-25 This new account of international modernism explores the complex motivations behind this revolutionary movement and assesses its triumphs and failures. The work of the main architects of the movement such as Frank Lloyd Wright, Adolf Loos, Le Corbusier and Mies van der Rohe is re-examined, shedding new light on their roles as acknowledged masters. Alan Colquhoun explores the evolution of the movement from Art Nouveau in the 1890s to the megastructures of the 1960s, revealing the often contradictory demands of form, function, social engagement, modernity and tradition.

Faith Based Jason Hackworth, 2012-06-01 Faith Based explores how the Religious Right has supported neoliberalism in the United States, bringing a particular focus to welfare, an arena where conservative Protestant politics and neoliberal economic ideas come together most clearly. Through case studies of gospel rescue missions, Habitat for Humanity and religious charities in post-Katrina New Orleans, Jason Hackworth describes both the theory and practice of faith-based welfare, revealing fundamental tensions between the religious and economic wings of the conservative movement. Hackworth begins by tracing the fusion of evangelical religious conservatism and pro-market antigovernment activism, which resulted in what he calls religious neoliberalism. He argues that neoliberalism, the ideological sanctification of private property, the individual and antistatist politics, has rarely been popular enough on its own to promote wide change. Rather, neoliberals gain the most traction when they align their efforts with other discourses and ideas. The promotion of faith-based alternatives to welfare is a classic case of coalition building. On the Right, Evangelicals get to provide social services in line with Biblical tenets, while opponents of big government chip away at the public safety net. Though religious neoliberalism is most closely associated with George W. Bush's Office of Faith-Based and Neighborhood Partnerships, the idea predates Bush and continues to hold sway in the Obama administration. Despite its success, however, Hackworth contends that religious neoliberalism remains an uneasy alliance, a fusion that has been tested and frayed by recent events.

Housing As If People Mattered Clare Cooper Marcus, Wendy Sarkissian, 2023-09-01 From the Introduction: Consider these two places. Walking into Green Acres, you immediately sense that you have entered an oasis: traffic noise left behind, negative urban distractions out of sight, children playing and running on the grass, adults puttering on plant-filled balconies. Signs of life and care for the environment.
