Houses Of History A Critical Reader In Twentieth Century History And Theory:

The Houses of History Anna Green, Kathleen Troup, 1999-03 Provides a comprehensive introduction to the twelve schools of thought which have had the greatest influence on the study of history in the twentieth century Ranging from Empiricism to Postcolonialism Marxism to the Ethnohistorians each chapter begins with an introduction to the particular school the main protagonists the critics and is followed by a useful section of further readings From the classic such as G R Elton s England Under the Tudors and E P Thompson s The Making of the English Working Class to the recent such as Henrietta Whiteman s White Buffalo Woman and Judith Walkowitz s City of Dreadful Delight the diverse selections collected here bring together the leading historians and theorists of the century The houses of history Anna Green, Kathleen Troup, 2016-08-15 The houses of history is a clear jargon free introduction to the major theoretical approaches employed by historians This innovative critical reader provides accessible introductions to fourteen schools of thought from the empiricist to the postcolonial including chapters on Marxist history Freud and psychohistory the Annales historical sociology narrative gender public history and the history of the emotions Each chapter begins with a succinct description of the ideas integral to a particular theory The authors then explore the insights and controversies arising from the application of this model drawing upon debates and examples from around the world Each chapter concludes with a representative example from a historian writing within this conceptual framework This newly revised edition of the highly successful textbook is the ideal basis for an introductory course in history and theory for students of history at all levels The Houses of History Anna Green, Kathleen Troup, 1999 An introduction to the major theoretical perspectives employed by twentieth century historians Incorporates a range of approaches to the writing of history giving accounts of eleven schools of thought Each chapter begins with a description of the ideas integral to the particular theory which are then explored Historiography in the Twentieth Century Georg G. Iggers, 2013-01-01 No one looking for a well informed introduction to the key views of history adopted by professional historians could find a better one than this Richard J Evans author of In Defence of History A broad perspective on historical thought and writing with a new epilogue In this book now published in ten languages a preeminent intellectual historian examines the profound changes in ideas about the nature of history and historiography Georg G Iggers traces the basic assumptions upon which historical research and writing have been based and describes how the newly emerging social sciences transformed historiography following World War II The discipline s greatest challenge may have come in the last two decades when postmodern ideas forced a reevaluation of the relationship of historians to their subject and questioned the very possibility of objective history Iggers sees the contemporary discipline as a hybrid moving away from a classical macrohistorical approach toward microhistory cultural history and the history of everyday life The new epilogue by the author examines the movement away from postmodernism towards new social science approaches that give greater attention to cultural factors and to the problems of globalization The book has all the virtues one associates with Georg

Iggers lucidity detachment balance and the ability to reveal the relation between trends in historical writing and their political and cultural contexts Peter Burke Cambridge University The Nature of History Reader Keith Jenkins, Alun Munslow, 2004 The question of what the nature of history is is a key issue for all students of history It is recognized by many that the past and history are different phenomena and that the way the past is actively historicized can be highly problematic and contested The Experience of History Kenneth Bartlett, 2016-12-12 The Experience of History is a lively and passionate introduction to the field that encourages students to seek and appreciate history inside the classroom and beyond This work Defines history as a discipline and the role of historians within it Addresses the analytical and critical thinking skills needed to engage with the past Discusses a variety of important topics in the study of history such as historical evidence primary documents divisions of history forms of historical writing historiographical traditions and recent categories of historical research Written by a renowned scholar of European history this work helps students to become discerning examiners of history and historical evidence in a variety of modern settings like art architecture film television politics current events and more Learn more about the author and his passion for history in this interview with popular blog Five Books <http://fivebooks.com/interview/ken-bartlett-renaissance-books> Fifty Key Works of History and Historiography Kenneth Stunkel, 2012-05-23 Fifty Key Works of History and Historiography introduces some of the most important works ever written by those who have sought to understand capture query and interpret the past The works covered include texts from ancient times to the present day and from different cultural traditions ensuring a wide variety of schools methods and ideas are introduced Each of the fifty texts represents at least one of six broad categories early examples of historiography e g Herodotus and Augustine non western works e g Shaddad and Fukuzawa Critical historiography e g Mabillon and Ranke history of minorities neglected groups or subjects e g Said and Needham broad sweeps of history e g Mumford and Hofstadter problematic or unconventional historiography e g Foucault and White Each of the key works is introduced in a short essay written in a lively and engaging style which provides the ideal preparation for reading the text itself Complete with a substantial introduction to the field this book is the perfect starting point for anyone new to the study of history or historiography International Law and History Ignacio de la Rasilla, 2021-01-21 This interdisciplinary exploration of the modern historiography of international law invites a diverse assessment of the indissoluble unity of the old and the new in the most global of all legal disciplines The study of the history of international law does not only serve a better understanding of how international law has evolved to become what it is and what it is not Its histories which rethink the past in the present also influence our perception of contemporary matters in international law and our understandings of how they may potentially unfold This multi perspectival enquiry into the dominant modes of international legal history and its fundamental debates may also help students of both international law and history to identify the historical approaches that best suit their international legal historical perspectives and best address their historical and legal research questions Sources for the

History of Emotions Katie Barclay, Sharon Crozier-De Rosa, Peter N. Stearns, 2020-06-03 Offering insights on the wide range of sources that are available from across the globe and throughout history for the study of the history of emotions this book provides students with a handbook for beginning their own research within the field Divided into three parts Sources for the History of Emotions begins by giving key starting points into the ethical methodological and theoretical issues in the field Part II shows how emotions historians have proved imaginative in their discovering and use of varied materials considering such sources as rituals relics and religious rhetoric prescriptive literature medicine science and psychology and fiction while Part III offers introductions to some of the big or emerging topics in the field including embodied emotions comparative emotions and intersectionality and emotion Written by key scholars of emotions history the book shows readers the ways in which different sources can be used to extract information about the history of emotions highlighting the kind of data available and how it can be used in a field for which there is no convenient archive of sources The focused discussion of sources offered in this book which not only builds on existing research but encourages further efforts makes it ideal reading and a key resource for all students of emotions history

Deconstructing History Alun Munslow, 2006-04-18 In Deconstructing History Alun Munslow examines history in the postmodern age He provides an introduction to the debates and issues of postmodernist history He also surveys the latest research into the relationship between the past history and historical practice as well as forwarding his own challenging theories The book discusses issues of both empiricist and deconstruction positions and considers the arguments of major proponents of both stances and includes an examination of the character of historical evidence exploration of the role of historians discussion of the failure of traditional historical methods chapters on Hayden White and Michel Foucault an evaluation of the importance of historical narrative an up to date comprehensive bibliography an extensive and helpful glossary of difficult key terms Deconstructing History maps the philosophical field outlines the controversies involved and assesses the merits of the deconstructionist position He argues that instead of beginning with the past history begin with its representation by historians

Doing History Mark Donnelly, Claire Norton, 2020-11-16 Doing History bridges the gap between the way history is studied in school or as represented in the media and the way it is studied at university level History as an academic discipline has dramatically changed in recent decades and has been enhanced by ideas from other disciplines the influence of postmodernism and historians incorporation of their own reflections into their work Doing History presents the ideas and debates that shape how we do history today covering arguments about the nature of historical knowledge and the function of historical writing whether we can ever really know what happened in the past what sources historians depend on and the relative value of popular and academic histories This revised edition includes new chapters on public history and activist histories It looks at global representations of the past across the centuries and provides up to date suggestions for further reading presenting the reader with a thorough and current introduction to studying history at an academic level as well as a pathway to progress

History and the Hebrew Bible: Culture, Narrative, and Memory Ian Wilson, 2018-09-24 This essay offers an introduction to select disciplinary developments in the study of history and in historical study of the Hebrew Bible It focuses first and foremost on cultural history a broad category defined by nineteenth and twentieth century developments in anthropology and sociology literary theory and linguistics and other fields of study The first part of the essay comments on developments since the so called linguistic turn highlighting some key works on culture narrative and memory in order to establish a contemporary historical approach to biblical studies It then turns to questions of the Hebrew Bible s usefulness for historical study and highlights studies of King David and the Davidic polity in ancient Israel Judah to show how scholars of the Bible have done historical work in recent years And finally it provides a case study of the book of Joshua demonstrating how historians can utilize biblical texts as sources for cultural history

The New History Alun Munslow, 2016-09-17 The notion of history has always been one strenuously debated by both academics and the wider population This deeply provocative re thinking of our engagement with the past by one of the world s leading post modern historians takes that debate one step further Alun Munslow re assesses history in the light of post modernism and other intellectual challenges which have questioned the primacy of the modernist epistemology of empiricism In an original and stimulating vision of history that will intrigue all those seriously interested in the subject Munslow argues that history is not only about the sources but a literary construction Munslow concludes that history as a cultural narrative about the past can never tell us what the past really means This far reaching conclusion is based on the radical idea that the content of history is defined as much by the nature of the language used to represent and interpret that content as it is by research into the sources This suggests that history does not produce the most likely meaning of the past but rather can only generate alternative meanings The lead volume in a major new series on historical thinking and practice this is an accessible yet absorbing study that breaks new ground in discussing the stage history is at now and perhaps most engagingly the direction it will take in the future
