

House In Istria

Nathaniel Bowditch

House In Istria:

A House in Istria Richard Swartz, 2007 A wild and quixotic novel about real estate marriage and obsession

Professional Property Briefings: Croatia Adam Jolly, 2006 This is the definitive English language guide to the laws and procedures governing the Croatian property market and to the investment opportunities in the country Aimed at an international audience of property developers professional investors lawyers estate agents and multinational companies who are interested in both commercial and residential property investment it addresses issues such as gaining clear title to land land registry records gaining permission to buy a property tax on capital gains social legislation And it looks in depth at the structure and future prospects for the property market in Croatia Post-Yugoslav Metamuseums Nataša

Jagdhuhn, 2022-09-20 This book analyzes how Second World War heritage is being reframed in the memorial museums of the post socialist post conflict states of Croatia Bosnia and Herzegovina and Serbia It argues that in all three countries a reluctance to confront undesirable parts of their national histories is the root cause explaining why the state funded Second World War memorial museums remain stuck in the postsocialist transition In most cases Second World War museums exhibitions and displays conceived in the Yugoslav period have been left unchanged However there are also examples where new sections were added to the old ones and there are a small number of completely reconceptualized permanent exhibitions The transitional position of the Second World War museums has made it possible to view these institutions as historical formations in their own right The book will appeal to students and academics working in the fields of heritage and museums studies memory studies and cultural history of Southeast Europe History in Exile Pamela Ballinger, 2018-06-05 In the decade after World War II up to 350 000 ethnic Italians were displaced from the border zone between Italy and Yugoslavia known as the Julian March History in Exile reveals the subtle yet fascinating contemporary repercussions of this often overlooked yet contentious episode of European history Pamela Ballinger asks What happens to historical memory and cultural identity when state borders undergo radical transformation She explores displacement from both the viewpoints of the exiles and those who stayed behind Yugoslavia's breakup and Italy's political transformation in the early 1990s she writes allowed these people to bring their histories to the public eye after nearly half a century Examining the political and cultural contexts in which this understanding of historical consciousness has been formed Ballinger undertakes the most extensive fieldwork ever done on this subject not only around Trieste where most of the exiles settled but on the Istrian Peninsula Croatia and Slovenia where those who stayed behind still live Complementing this with meticulous archival research she examines two sharply contrasting models of historical identity yielded by the Istrian exodus those who left typically envision Istria as a pure Italian land stolen by the Slavs whereas those who remained view it as ethnically and linguistically hybrid We learn for example how members of the same family living a short distance apart and speaking the same language came to develop a radically different understanding of their group identities Setting her analysis in engaging jargon free prose

Ballinger concludes that these ostensibly very different identities in fact share a startling degree of conceptual logic

Remembering Home in a Time of Mobility Maja Mikula, 2017-06-23 Memory nostalgia and melancholy have attracted considerable scholarly attention in recent decades Numerous critics of globalisation transnationalism and cosmopolitanism have posited an overwhelming feeling of homelessness not only among people who have been displaced from their original home lands but also among those who feel estranged from their places of origin due to rapid social change or environmental decline Arguably homesickness is prevalent in today s developed world and can be and sometimes indeed is felt even for times and places unrelated to someone s personal roots Memory has been mobilised to justify recent conflicts to question mainstream interpretations of past events or to demand compensation for the suffering of earlier generations Nostalgia has been employed as a utopia in reverse revealing more about our unattainable ideal present than about the elusive lost past it invokes A corollary of nostalgia in the late modern politics of loss melancholy has been a way of dis identifying from both the horrors of recent history and the growing insecurities of the present The volume raises complex questions related to the ways people have coped with displacement and time space compression arguably the two most manifest symptoms of late modernity How do we grapple with the traumatic experience of the loss of home What strategies do we use and what is their underlying politics How do they intersect with identity positions such as gender class and sexuality How might they contribute to the preservation of national cultures How has our understanding of home changed in a time of mobility and flow Spanning multiple Eurasian and Northern American cultural contexts the book is of interest to an international academic readership within the fields of cultural studies memory studies gender studies literature art performance film and media studies

In this study of identity politics memory and long distance nationalism among Serbian migrants in California the author examines the complicated ways in which visions of the past are used to form Diaspora subjects and make claims to the homeland in the present Drawing on extended fieldwork in the San Francisco Bay Area community she shows how the Yugoslav wars generated a revaluation Serbian history and personal life stories resulting in the strengthening of ethnic identity Nevertheless strategies for dealing with rupture and change also included contestation of exile nationalism

Buying and Selling the Istrian Goat John E. Ashbrook,John Ashbrook,2008 The majority of scholarly works on the dissolution of Yugoslavia and the establishment of its successor states focus almost exclusively on the national question There is no major study of the subnational regional dimension which had significant effects on the politics and political structures of these newly independent states This book addresses this deficit by examining the struggle of Istrian regionalists in the Istrian Democratic Assembly IDS against the nearly hegemonic nationalists of the Croatian ruling party the Croatian Democratic Alliance HDZ Using a wide variety of primary and secondary sources this instrumentalist analysis assays the political historiography of Istria in the 19th and 20th centuries provides an analytical case study of the regionalist conflict with the HDZ in the 1990s and into the 21st century illustrates how and why the regionalist party tried to influence both Istrians and Western Europeans in this struggle and derives a critical analysis of the role of regionalism in European Union enlargement from this case study It also shows that nationalists do not hold a monopoly on the politicization of identities Croatia

Francis H. Eterovich,Christopher Spalatin,1970-12-15 This volume continues the story of the cultural and political history of the Croatian people who have long been noted for their significant contributions to the arts and the humanities It examines the Croatian language literature to 1835 the maritime history of the eastern Adriatic Croatian political history from 1526 to 1918 the development of book printing the ethnic and religious history of Bosnia and Hercegovina the cultural achievement of Bosnian and Hercegovinian Muslims and Croatian immigrants in North America Each of the nine chapters in the book is written by a specialist and is accompanied by an extensive bibliography Other special features of this volume are eleven historical maps of the region a geographical map sixteen pages of illustrations and a glossary of geographical names This reference work will be invaluable to libraries and will be a useful source of information for historians writers on Central European affairs students of art and ethnic developments and the layman interested in the Croatian people and their cultural history The Merchants' Magazine and Commercial Review ,1847 Translation Review ,2007 *H.O.
