House Of Memory A Novel Of Shanghai:

The House of Memory Nicholas R. Clifford, 1994 A young American scholar Matthew Walker journeys to Shanghai to finish his research for a book on the city's history and at the same time discover the fate of his lover's great uncle who disappeared in 1927 only to be swept up in the events at Tiananmen Square 天安门广场, 1995 A Study of Jewish Refugees in China (1933-1945) Guang Pan, 2019-09-12 This book comprehensively discusses the topic of Jews fleeing the Holocaust to China. It is divided into three parts: historical facts, theories, and the Chinese model. The first part addresses the formation, development, and end of the Jewish refugee community in China, offering a systematic review of the history of Jewish Diaspora, including historical and recent events bringing European Jews to China, Jewish refugees arriving in China, route, time, number, and settlement; the Jewish refugee community in Shanghai; Jewish refugees in other Chinese cities; the Final Solution for Jewish refugees in Shanghai; and the Designated Area for Stateless Refugees. It also discusses friendship between the Jewish refugees and the local Chinese people, the departure of Jews, and the end of the Jewish refugee community in China. The second part provides deeper perspectives on the Jewish refugees in China and the relationship between Jews and the Chinese. The third part explores the Chinese model in the history of Jewish Diaspora, focusing on the Jews fleeing the Holocaust to China and comparing the Jewish refugees in China with those in other parts of the world. It also introduces the Chinese model concept and presents the five features of the model. The Art of Remembering Yat Ming Loo, Hua Li, Jing Xie, Eugenio Mangi, 2024-05-31

Focusing on the non-Western context and case studies, this book explores theories of interdisciplinary architectural thinking and the construction of urban memory in Chinese cities with an emphasis on contemporary architecture and the diversity of agencies. China has undergone one of the fastest urbanisation and urban renewal processes in human history, but discussions of urban memory in China have tended to be practice-oriented and lack theoretical reflection. This book brings together interdisciplinary architectural scholarship to interrogate the production of urban memory and examine experiences in China. The 14 chapters explore different processes, projects, materials, architecture, and urban spaces in different Chinese cities by analysing cityscapes such as temples, bridges, conservation projects, architectural design, historical architecture, memorial hall, market street, city images, custom bike, food market, and so on. The book deals with different agencies and methods, tangible and intangible, in the construction of memories aimed at promoting hybridised multiple identities and explores the interplay of different versions of memory, i.e. state, public, regional, local, individual, and collective memory. This book will be essential reading for scholars and students of architecture and urbanism, cultural studies, and China studies, as well as architects, urban planners, and historians interested in these fields. Revisiting Loss Wojciech Drag, 2014-07-03 Loss is the core experience which determines the identity of Kazuo Ishiguro's narrators and shapes their subsequent lives. Whether a traumatic ordeal, an act of social degradation, a failed relationship, or a loss of home, the painful event serves as a sharp dividing line between the earlier meaningful past and the period afterwards, which is infused with a sense of lack dissatisfaction and nostalgia Ishiguro's narrators have been unable to confine their loss to the past and remain preoccupied by its legacy which ranges from suppressed guilt to a keen sense of failure or disappointment Their immersion in the past finds expression in the narratives which they weave in order to articulate justify or merely understand their experiences Their reconstructions of the past are interpreted as exercises in misremembering and self deception which enable them to sustain their illusions and save them from despair Revisiting Loss is the first book length study of memory encompassing Ishiguro's entire novelistic output It adopts a highly interdisciplinary approach combining a selection of philosophical Jacques Derrida Paul Ricoeur and Jean Starobinski and psychological perspectives Sigmund Freud Frederic Bartlett Jacques Lacan and Daniel L Schacter The book offers a thoroughly researched critical survey drawing on all published critical monographs and collections of academic articles on Ishiguro's work and exhibition used when authority seeks the aid of ritual civilization to strengthen its legitimacy and maintain the social order Rural Health Care Delivery Yi Hu, 2013-12-03 Diseases are everyday ordinary occurrences intimately related to people's daily lives. However, as the metaphor of the Sick Man of East Asia emerged against the backdrop of a weak modern China, health care and the curing of diseases were turned into grand state politics with far-reaching implications. This book, starting with the argument for diseases being metaphors, describes and interprets such incidents in China's history as the Abolishment of Traditional Chinese Medicine, the Patriotic Hygiene Campaign, and the Cooperative Medical Services. In an effort to reveal the internal logic of disease politics in the transformation of the state-people relationship, the book analyzes key aspects including the politicization and inclusion of diseases in state governance, the double disciplining of hygiene, legitimacy construction of the state, the remaking of the nationals, and the expansion of the publicness of the state. The book argues that disease politics in modern China has developed following the path from nationals to the people and then to citizens, or from crisis politics and mobilization politics to life politics. In addition, a marked change has occurred in China's state building: increasingly standard, rationalized, and institutionalized means have been employed, while the non-standard means such as large-scale mobilization and ideological coercion had been historically used in China. Power and Justice

Xudong Zhao, 2019-04-10 This book discusses the relationship, interaction, and conflict between everyday life and various institutions in a specific village in North China, with a focus on the formal and informal legal systems. It vividly describes the village's legal construction problems as well as the customs and laws, and such it can be seen as a historical and innovative comment on China's problems. The book is based on the author's field investigations, assessing vast amounts of material concerning local organizations, formal and informal authorities, economic exchange, religious rituals, as well as interviews with villagers and numerous court files. It presents an in-depth exploration of pluralism of authority in China's rural society and examines how various authorities were formed. It also summarizes how various local disputes are resolved and discusses the villagers' understanding of the concept of justice. Lastly, it suggests ways in which national law and local customs could communicate and collaborate. Rural China, 1901-1949 Wang Xianming, 2021-03-02

Highlighting the interwoven relationship between Chinese rural society and larger historical forces, this book charts the evolution of China's rural society from 1901 to 1949, concentrating on the major changes of this period and the scenarios developed to modernize rural society during the half-century leading up to the Revolution. The modern history of rural China is one of sweeping institutional and structural transformation across many dimensions. As the first half of the twentieth century unfolded against a backdrop of turbulent changes across a country that underwent industrialization, urbanization, and modernization, China's agriculture, rural population, and rural communities encountered many crises but also showed remarkable resilience and capacity for adaptation and reform. In each of the six chapters, the author delves into one aspect or examines one period of this massive transformation and identifies the social, economic, political, and cultural significance of these tumultuous processes at work.

The book will appeal to both scholars and general readers interested in modern Chinese history and the transformation of rural China
