Knowledge And Ignorance In Economics:

Knowledge and Ignorance in Economics Terence Wilmot Hutchison, 1977 This book is concerned with the nature and extent of economic knowledge especially in relation to the traditional aims and claims of economists to guide enlighten and improve economic policies It looks at the methodology and epistemology of economics using actual examples to show how in practice economists argue and debate Comparisons of methods criteria and possibilities are drawn between economics and the natural sciences and the views of Popper Kuhn Ravetz and Lakatos on the history and philosophy of science are discussed in relation to their relevance to economics The book continues with a study of the present disillusion in economics following the explosion of the subject in the 1960s and ends with an appendix in which examples of economic knowledge and ignorance in action are presented in relation to recent policy decisions over devaluation and to a lesser extent the question of Britain s joining the European Economic Community

Routledge Handbook of the Economics of Knowledge Cristiano Antonelli, Albert Link, 2014-12-05 The Routledge Handbook of the Economics of Knowledge provides a comprehensive framework to integrate the advancements over the last 20 years in the analysis of technological knowledge as an economic good and in the static and dynamic characteristics of its generation process There is a growing consensus in the field of economics that knowledge technological knowledge in particular is one of the most relevant resources of wealth yet it is one of the most difficult and complex activities to understand or even to conceptualize The economics of knowledge is an emerging field that explores the generation exploitation and dissemination of technological knowledge Technological knowledge cannot any longer be regarded as a homogenous good that stems from standardized generation processes Quite the opposite technological knowledge appears more and more to be a basket of heterogeneous items resources and even experiences All of these sources which are both internal and external to the firm are complementary as is the interplay between a bottom up and top down generation processes In this context the interactions between the public research system private research laboratories and various networks of learning processes within and among firms play a major role in the creation of technological knowledge In this Handbook special attention is given to the relationship among technological knowledge and both upstream scientific knowledge and related downstream resources By addressing the antecedents and consequences of technological knowledge from both an upstream and downstream perspective this Handbook will become an indispensable tool for scholars and practitioners aiming to master the generation and the use of technological knowledge

Truth and Progress in Economic Knowledge Roger Backhouse, 1997 Backhouse history and philosophy of economics U of Birmingham England believes in truth and progress but defends them against postmodern skepticism by using some of the same sources it does rather than trying to return to a pre lapsarian state He concludes by doubting the success of the conventional division of labor in which economic theorists transmute general assumptions into hypotheses to be tested and econometricians test those theories statistically and establish empirical generalizations Those two functions he says must interact on a much more intimate level Some of the material is revised from previous publication Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Complex Knowledge for Innovation in Economic and Social Development Rafael M. Gutierrez, 2024-10-31 The solution to the significant modern problems that impede the development of human society demands a cultural evolution based on knowledge All the necessary disciplinary tools already exist it is only essential to organize them into a coherent interdisciplinary complexity encompassing natural social and human sciences However ignorance in its most modern forms conveniently disperses the diversity of disciplinary knowledge transforming complementary differences into conflicts the potential of diversity into the injustice of prejudice and the power of complexity into the realm of complication Human beings have the capacity to imagine and innovate their own future to solve and dissolve with enlightenment the problems they have created in their ignorance to liberate themselves and take responsibility to develop values and to create a coherent and objective vision of the world They can imagine and build a synergy of personal and social futures developing both in a sustainable way Modern interdisciplinary knowledge clearly shows that the future of humanity can be bright if it manages to consistently integrate natural social and human knowledge overcoming the power of modern forms of ignorance that separate them and create artificial conflicts
