Reload Mary Flanagan, Austin Booth, 2002-05-03 An anthology of feminist cyberfiction and theoretical and critical writings on gender and technoculture Most writing on cyberculture is dominated by two almost mutually exclusive visions the heroic image of the male outlaw hacker and the utopian myth of a gender free cyberworld Reload offers an alternative picture of cyberspace as a complex and contradictory place where there is oppression as well as liberation It shows how cyberpunk s revolutionary claims conceal its ultimate conservatism on matters of class gender and race The cyberfeminists writing here view cyberculture as a social experiment with an as yet unfulfilled potential to create new identities relationships and cultures The book brings together women s cyberfiction fiction that explores the relationship between people and virtual technologies and feminist theoretical and critical investigations of gender and technoculture From a variety of viewpoints the writers consider the effects of rapid and profound technological change on culture in particular both the revolutionary and reactionary effects of cyberculture on women s lives They also explore the feminist implications of the cyborg a human machine hybrid The writers challenge the conceptual and institutional rifts between high and low culture which are embedded in the texts and artifacts of cyberculture

Visions of the Human Tom

Slevin,2015-05-28 In what ways do the artistic avant garde s representations of the human body reflect the catastrophe of World War I The European modernists were inspired by developments in the nineteenth century yielding new forms of knowledge about the nature of reality and repositioning the human body as the new object of knowledge New visions of the human subject were created within this transformation However modernity s reactionary political climate for which World War I provided a catalyst transformed a once liberal ideal between humanity environment and technology into a tool of disciplinary rationalisation Visions of the Human considers the consequences of this historical moment for the twentieth and twenty first centuries It explores the ways in which the technologies of the self that inspired the avant garde were increasingly instrumentalised by conservative politics urbanism consumer capitalism and the society of the spectacle This is an engaging and powerful study which challenges prior ideas and explores new ways of thinking about modern visual culture

Reading and Seeing Ethnic Differences in the Enlightenment B. Tautz,2007-04-02 This book investigates the contested ways in which eighteenth century German philosophers scientists poets and dramatists perceived and represented China and Africa from 1680 to 1830 Tautz demonstrates in compelling ways that reading China allowed for the integration of cultural difference into Enlightenment universalism whereas seeing Africa exposed irreducible differences that undermined any claims of universality By working through the case of eighteenth century Germany and Europe the book adds an important cross cultural and historical dimension to questions relevant to our world today Pennsylvania School Journal ,1921 The Pennsylvania School Journal Thomas Henry Burrowes,James Pyle Wickersham,Elnathan Elisha Higbee,David Jewett Waller,Nathan C.
