The Kidnapping of Journalists Robert G. Picard, Hannah Storm, 2016-03-22 The vulnerability of journalists to kidnappings was starkly illustrated by the killing of James Foley and Steven Sotloff by Islamic militants in 2014 Their murder underscored the risks taken by journalists and news organisations trying to cover developments in dangerous regions of the world and has forced news enterprises to more clearly prepare for and confront issues of safety This book explores the complex organisational issues surrounding the capture or kidnapping of journalists in areas of conflict and risk It explores how journalists becoming news is covered and the implications of that coverage how news organisations prepare for and respond to such events and how kidnapping and ransom insurers victim recovery firms journalists families and governments influence the actions of news enterprises It considers how and why journalists are kidnapped how employers and journalists organisations respond to kidnappings and why freelancers are particularly at risk as well as suggesting best practices for preventing and responding to kidnappings Understanding Kidnapping as a Political Act. A Case of the Niger Delta Ayo Peters, 2016-08-30 Seminar paper from the year 2016 in the subject Politics Region Africa grade A course Political Science language English abstract In January 2006 insurgents in Nigeria's Niger Delta kidnapped four foreign oil workers working for Shell Petroleum Since then over 250 foreign oil workers have been kidnapped in the region A proliferation of insurgent groups led by the Movement for the Emancipation of the Niger Delta MEND and the Niger Delta People's Volunteer Force NDPVF have continued to claim responsibility These groups frame their act as woven within the fabric of politics to protest the exploitation of the region by multinational oil corporations MNOCs and the Nigerian government Mainstream literature on the region has largely focused on the nature of violence while a few of the literature on kidnapping are descriptive and have not properly situated the act within the realm of domestic and international politics I develop a conceptual framework for understanding kidnapping as a political act in the Niger Delta drawing on empirical evidence I operationalize this framework by focusing on a triad of actors insurgents MNOCs and the Nigerian government Findings show that kidnapping in the region is intractable because in a bid to nip the act in the bud the Nigerian government has focused on symptoms rather than the causes of the act More so insurgents have become a useful tool to unleash mayhem on opposition parties during elections Kidnapping in the region will only become history if fundamental economic social and political questions are addressed by the Nigerian government and MNOCs
