The European School of Oncology came into existence to respond to a need for information education and training in the field of the diagnosis and treatment of cancer. There are two main reasons why such an initiative was considered necessary. Firstly, the teaching of oncology requires a rigorously multidisciplinary approach which is difficult for the Universities to put into practice since their system is mainly disciplinary orientated. Secondly, the rate of technological development that impinges on the diagnosis and treatment of cancer has been so rapid that it is not an easy task for medical faculties to adapt their curricula flexibly. With its residential courses for organ pathologies and the seminars on new techniques, laser monoclonal antibodies, imaging techniques etc. or on the principal therapeutic controversies, conservative or mutilating surgery, primary or adjuvant chemotherapy, radiotherapy alone or integrated, it is the ambition of the European School of Oncology to fill a cultural and scientific gap and thereby create a bridge between the University and Industry and between these two and daily medical practice. One of the more recent initiatives of ESO has been the institution of permanent study groups, also called task forces, where a limited number of leading experts are invited to meet once a year with the aim of defining the state of the art and possibly reaching a consensus on future developments in specific fields of oncology.

Endocrine Treatment of Breast Cancer B. Henningsen, F. Linder, C. Steichele, 2012-12-06

Progress in basic research has made it necessary to redetermine the possibility of classic endocrine therapy for the treatment of patients with breast cancer. Exemplary close cooperation between biochemistry and animal and clinical research led to a truly interdisciplinary and international exchange of ideas and experience at a symposium held in autumn 1978 in Heidelberg. We owe our thanks to ICI Pharma for the kind support of this symposium. The participation of Charles Huggins in the meeting as honorary chairman signified to all participants the meaning of this joint endeavour. It was the same Charles Huggins who through experimental work laid the foundation stone for endocrine therapy of prostate and breast cancer and who applied his findings clinically. Thousands of patients owe to him relief from their suffering. He contributed greatly to the attempt to find and stabilize the endocrine therapy for breast cancer for which we thank him sincerely. We hope that the following contributions will similarly serve the well being of our patients.

Endocrine Management of Cancer: Contemporary therapy, 1988      Consensus Development Conference on the Management of Clinically Localized Prostate Cancer, 1988      Endocrine Therapy of Breast Cancer Franco Cavalli, 2012-12-06. Starting in 1986 the European School of Oncology has expanded its activities in postgraduate teaching which consisted mainly of traditional disease orientated courses by promoting new educational initiatives. One of these is the cloister seminars: short meetings intended for highly qualified oncologists and dealing with specific controversial aspects of clinical practice and research. Another is the institution of permanent study groups also called task forces where a limited number of leading experts are invited to meet once a year with the aim of defining the state of the art and possibly reaching a consensus on developments and treatment in specific fields of oncology. This series of ESO Monographs was designed with the specific purpose of disseminating the results of the most interesting of the seminars and study groups and providing concise and updated reviews of the subjects discussed. It was decided to keep the layout very simple in order to keep costs to a minimum and make the monographs available in the shortest possible time thus overcoming a common problem in medical literature that of the material being outdated even before publication.
