Fractured Transitions From School To Work Revisiting The Dropout Problem:

Fractured Transitions from School to Work Julian Tanner, H. Krahn, Timothy F. Hartnagel, 1995 Why do so many high school students drop out and what are the consequences for the students their families and society in general This work discusses answers to these questions and examines topics dealing with the issues policies and problems associated with leaving school early It looks at the reasons behind the decision to drop out the labor market difficulties that dropouts face the psychological experience of unemployment the relationship between dropouts and various kinds of deviance and the dropouts own expectations about their futures From Education to Work Walter R. Heinz, 1999-02-13 Structural transformations in the international economy and the restructuring of work have made the transition from education to employment increasingly problematic School to work pathways have become more socially segmented and the risk of under employment and joblessness has increased for both vocationally and academically educated youth Continuous passages have become less common and have given way to multiple entries and exits between schooling and working under employment unemployment and domestic work This edited volume of empirical studies is based on a series of comparable longitudinal research projects which draw on survey and biographical data from important players in the international economy the USA Great Britain Canada and Germany The studies document that social and gender inequality is a persistent structural feature that restricts the possibilities to take advantage of educational opportunities and career options Furthermore different institutional arrangements are shown to play a crucial role in distributing transition opportunities in a more equal way Educating Adolescents Tim Urdan, Frank Pajares, 2006-01-01 This volume of Adolescence and Education is devoted to an exploration of the challenges facing adolescents and their teachers as well as some of the strategies that have been adopted to address these challenges Although it is true that most adolescents survive this period of development with few enduring academic or psychological problems it is also true that a substantial proportion experience depression bullying and violence in school sexual harassment and a widening gap between their personal and academic needs Many of these problems emerge for the first time during adolescence On Their Own? Stewart Crysdale, Alan J. C. King, Nancy Mandell, 1999 Uses a sample of 324 young adults in four Canadian urban centers who left high school in the mid 1980s as well as interviews with their parents former teachers and employers to identify factors that ease the transition from school to work Looks at factors such as level of education social class gender and motivation with emphasis on the importance of cooperative education Suggests closer relations between school and work such as exist in the UK and Sweden to facilitate transition into the labor market Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Restructuring Work and the Life Course Victor W. Marshall, Walter R. Heinz, Helga Krueger, Anil Verma, 2001-01-01 In this multidisciplinary collection of essays forty eight social scientists from seven countries examine changes in the organization of work and their impact on people at various stages of the life course Opportunity and Uncertainty Paul Anisef, Paul Axelrod, Etta Baichman-Anisef, 2000-01-01

Based on the longest running survey of its kind in Canada this book examines events in the lives of a generation of Ontario residents who graduated from grade 12 in 1973 and recreates the world in which these high school students faced the future

Choosing to Labour? Wolfgang Lehmann, 2007-08-06 Young people about to leave high school argue that they are determining their own destinies Scholarly debates also suggest that the influence of structural factors such as social class on an individual's life course is decreasing Wolfgang Lehmann challenges this view and offers a detailed comparative analysis of the interrelationships between social class institutional structures and individual educational and career choices Through a qualitative study of academic track high school students and participants in youth apprenticeships in Germany and Canada Lehmann shows how the range of available school work transition options are defined by both gender and social class Highlighting the importance of the institutional context in understanding school work transitions particularly in relation to Germany's celebrated apprenticeship system which rests on highly streamed secondary schooling and a stratified labour market Lehmann argues that social inequalities are maintained in part by the choices made by young people rather than simply by structural forces Choosing to Labour concludes with an exploration of how public policy can meet the dual challenge of providing young people with meaningful and equitable educational experiences while simultaneously fulfilling the need for a skilled workforce

Global Constructions of Multicultural Education Carl A. Grant, Joy L. Lei, 2001-06-01 This book tells us how various global regions are dealing with three major concerns within the field of multicultural education the conceptualization and realization of difference and diversity the inclusion and exclusion of social groups within a definition of multicultural education and the effects of power on relations between and among groups identified under the multicultural education umbrella All of the chapter authors pay attention to these themes but at the same time they bring their particular interests and perspectives to the book addressing issues such as linguistic racial ethnic and religious diversity class educational inequalities teacher education conceptualizations of citizenship and questions of identity construction In addition the authors offer both historical and social contexts for their analytical discussion of the ideals and practices of multicultural education in a particular region This is not a book that tells us about multicultural education with an international twist it provides readers with different ways to think talk and do research about issues of diversity difference and the effects of power as they relate to education

First-Generation Student Experiences in Higher Education Carl E. James, Leanne E. Taylor, 2022-10-11 In First Generation Student Experiences in Higher Education Counterstories we meet eight students who attended university through an access program and hear their stories of deciding to enter university navigating and negotiating the institution and bringing their university experiences with them into adult life Their counterstories drawn from application statements weekly group meetings diary entries group conversations interviews and media reports challenge the stereotypes commonly applied to marginalized students in higher education Chapters offer insights into a range of salient themes and highlight the students strategies challenges successes and trajectories as well as their nuanced relationships with their networks communities families and significant others With this volume James and Taylor present a valuable resource for educators administrators scholars students and community agencies interested in extending understandings of first generation university students

Preparing for Post-Secondary Education Paul Anisef, Robert Sweet, 2005-09-26 Most Canadian parents have had to assume a larger share of the financial costs of their children's post secondary education because of declining government funding and changing loans and bursary programs Preparing for Post Secondary Education considers the impact of increased private support and the planning strategies parents use based on information from a 1999 Statistics Canada national survey of 34 000 households The contributors begin by examining changes to national and international educational funding policies and the relationship between public and private costs They focus on the role of families in marshaling the necessary resources demonstrating that access to post secondary education is also determined by social capital The authors conclude that new partnerships between parents the state and schools are redefining the various players roles and commitments to the educational futures of Canadian children Contributors include the late Stephen Bell York University Scott Davies McMaster University Ross Finnie Queen's University George Frempong York University Dianne Looker Acadia University Nancy Mandell York University Sheila Marshall University of British Columbia Hans Schuetze University of British Columbia Victor Thiessen Dalhousie University Jim White University of British Columbia and Jamie Wood University of British Columbia

Social Inequality in Canada Edward G. Grabb, Neil Guppy, 2008 Social Inequality in Canada is a collection of twenty eight articles that cover all of the major aspects of social inequality The text covers two broad components objective or structural conditions of social inequality power poverty and wealth occupations and educational attainment in particular and ideologies that help support these differences Readers who would prefer a more egalitarian society than currently exists in Canada will find reasons for both optimism and pessimism in the research presented here The studies in this collection demonstrate that some types of inequality are generally becoming more marked over time while others have considerably diminished and still more that show little change in recent decades

Social Inequality in Canada James Curtis, Edward G. Grabb, Neil Guppy, 2004 Appropriate for courses in social inequality or social stratification Courses are usually found in sociology departments but sometimes also in history philosophy political science and economics departments Social Inequality in Canada Patterns Problems and Policies introduces students to the major aspects or dimensions of social inequality in Canada This collection of thirty one articles addresses topics that are central to a range of courses including Social Inequality Social Class Social Stratification Social

Issues and Canadian Society The new edition has been revised to reflect important new research and changes in the nature of social inequality

The Legacy of School for Aboriginal People Bernard Schissel, Terry Wotherspoon, 2003 Education is expected to assist students in the development of their personal identities and the achievement of social and economic success Yet the aspirations of Aboriginal students have too often been thwarted by the very structures that are supposed to help them Combining a research study an extensive review of the literature and an analysis of current trends Schissel and Wotherspoon detail the harm done to Aboriginal children and their families not only in the past when residential schools explicitly set out to eliminate Aboriginal identities but also in more recent years when educational systems designed for the mainstream have relegated First Nations students to the sidelines The authors find hope for the future in four experimental programs from Saskatchewan in which severely stressed Aboriginal young people have found nourishment for their self esteem in educational settings that take into account traditional culture and spiritual teachings as well as academic achievement Interviews with Aboriginal students themselves give additional depth to the author s findings

Work, Industry, and Canadian Society Harvey Krahn, Graham S. Lowe, 1998 High School May Not be Enough Marie Blythe, Statistics Canada, Canada. Human Resources Development Canada, 1998 Contains an in depth examination of results from the 1995 School Leavers Follow Up Survey which re interviewed the people in a similar 1991 survey and examined the nature of school work transitions and the progress of school leavers and other young people of similar age The report includes a contextual overview of the youth labour market and a general discussion of transitions between school and work Other chapters address a range of topics relating to youth experiences beyond high school their education and training their involvement in the labour market the quality of employment and the kinds of skills they were using The report also explores the potential importance of early childhood experiences on eventual outcomes
