Future Francis Fukuyama, 2003-05-01 In 1989 Francis Fukuyama made his now famous pronouncement that because the major alternatives to liberal democracy had exhausted themselves history as we knew it had reached its end Ten years later he revised his argument we hadn't reached the end of history he wrote because we hadn't yet reached the end of science Arguing that our greatest advances still to come will be in the life sciences Fukuyama now asks how the ability to modify human behavior will affect liberal democracy To re-orient contemporary debate Fukuyama underlines man's changing understanding of human nature through history from Plato and Aristotle's belief that man had natural ends to the ideals of utopians and dictators of the modern age who sought to remake mankind for ideological ends Fukuyama persuasively argues that the ultimate prize of the biotechnology revolution intervention in the germ line the ability to manipulate the DNA of all of one person s descendents will have profound and potentially terrible consequences for our political order even if undertaken by ordinary parents seeking to improve their children In Our Posthuman Future our greatest social philosopher begins to describe the potential effects of exploration on the foundation of liberal democracy the belief that human beings are equal by nature

Drowning Girls in China D. E. Mungello, 2008-06-27 This groundbreaking book offers the first full analysis of the long neglected and controversial subject of female infanticide in China Although infanticide and child abandonment were worldwide phenomena from antiquity down to the nineteenth century when massive numbers of children were still being abandoned in Europe China was unique in targeting girls almost exclusively Yet despite its persistence for two thousand years little has been published on a practice that is deeply sensitive within China and little understood by outsiders Drawing on little known Chinese documents and illustrations noted historian D E Mungello describes the causes and continuation of female infanticide since 1650 despite efforts by Confucian moralists Buddhist teachings government officials and even imperial edicts to stop the practice The arrival of Christian missionaries led to foreign involvement as well with Catholic priests baptizing abandoned and dying infants in Nanjing and Beijing beginning in the early 1600s Mission efforts peaked in the nineteenth century when the European based Society of the Holy Childhood urged Catholic children to contribute their pennies to help neglected children in China However most of the infant victims were drowned at birth in the privacy of their homes thereby escaping the scrutiny of the law and the public Mungello brings this secretive practice to light with a nuanced and balanced analysis of the cultural economic and social causes of early infanticide and its contemporary manifestation in sex selected abortion as a result of the government s one child policy Presenting female infanticide as a human rather than a distinctly Chinese problem he estimates the tragic loss of girls in the millions

Planning Families in Nepal Jan Brunson, 2016-03-29 Based on almost a decade of research in the Kathmandu Valley Planning Families in Nepal offers a compelling account of Hindu Nepali women as they face conflicting global and local ideals regarding family planning Promoting a two child norm global family planning programs have disseminated the slogan A small family is a happy family throughout the global South Jan Brunson examines how two generations of Hindu Nepali women negotiate this global message of a two child family and a more local need to produce a son Brunson explains that while women did not prefer sons to daughters they recognized that in the dominant patrilocal family system their daughters would eventually marry and be lost to other households As a result despite recent increases in educational and career opportunities for daughters mothers still hoped for a son who would bring a daughter in law into the family and care for his aging parents Mothers worried about whether their modern rebellious sons would fulfill their filial duties but ultimately those sons demonstrated an enduring commitment to living with their aging parents In the context of rapid social change related to national politics as well as globalization a constant influx of new music clothes gadgets and even governments the sons viewed the multigenerational family as a refuge Throughout Planning Families in Nepal Brunson raises important questions about the notion of planning when applied to family formation arguing that reproduction is better understood as a set of local and global ideals that involve actors with desires and actions with constraints wrought with delays stalling and improvisation
