

A glowing lightbulb hangs in the center of the frame, its filament illuminated with a warm yellow light. The background is a soft, out-of-focus bokeh of many similar warm lights, creating a cozy and inviting atmosphere. The lightbulb is the primary subject, with its glass and metal base clearly visible.

Fundamental Interactions in Low-Energy Systems P. Dalpiaz, G. Fiorentini, G. Torelli, 2012-12-06 The fourth course of the International School of Physics of Exotic Atoms took place at the Ettore Majorana Center for Scientific Culture Erice from March 31 to April 6 1984 As tradition exotic atoms have been a tool for studying electromagnetic weak and strong interactions at low energies We felt it appropriate to have a full course devoted to a discussion of the information to be gained on the fundamental interactions from the study of low energy systems In this kind of physics which is characterized experimentally by very intense particle sources and very sensitive apparatuses one can search for rare events and can perform precise measurements Sensitive tests of the predictions of current theories of electro weak and strong interactions can thus be achieved The course was attended by 54 participants from 23 institutes in 9 countries The morning lectures reviewed the achievements of the field in the last few years and the afternoon seminars dealt with new results and projects

Biomass Wastes for Energy Production Eliseu Monteiro, 2021-09-02 Environmental problems are forcing a rethinking of the world's energy supply system In parallel there is an increasing amount of global solid waste production A fundamental shift toward greater reliance on biomass wastes in the world's energy system is plausible because of ongoing major technological advances that hold the promise of making the conversion of biomass into high quality energy carriers like electricity and gaseous or liquid fuels economically competitive with fossil fuels Therefore waste to energy systems have become a paramount topic for both industry and researchers due to interest in energy production from waste and improved chemical and thermal efficiencies with more cost effective designs This biomass shift is also important for industries to become more efficient by using their own wastes to produce their own energy in the light of the circular economy concept This book on Biomass Wastes for Energy Production brings novel advances on waste to energy technologies life cycle assessment and computational models and contributes to promoting rethinking of the world's energy supply systems

Innovation in Energy Law and Technology Donald Zillman, Lee Godden, LeRoy Paddock, Martha Roggenkamp, 2018-03-16 There are few existential challenges more serious in the twenty first century than energy transition As current trends in energy production prove unsustainable for the environment energy security and economic development innovation becomes imperative Yet with technological challenges come legal challenges Zillman Godden Paddock and Roggenkamp assemble a team of experts in their field to debate how the law may have to adapt to changes in the area What regulatory approach should be used How do we deal with longer term investment horizons and so called stranded assets such as coal fired power stations And can a form of energy justice be achieved which encompasses human rights sustainable development goals and the eradication of energy poverty With a concept as unwieldy as energy innovation it is high time for a text tackling changes which are dynamic and diverse across different communities and which provides a thorough examination of the legal ramifications of the most recent technological changes This book which be of vital importance to lawyers policy makers economists and the general reader
