Guide to Capitation Contracting American College of Cardiology, 1993-01-01 The Specialist's Guide to Contract Capitation & Other Risk-based Contracting Models ,1999 The Psychiatrist's Guide to Capitation and Risk-based Contracting American Psychiatric Association. Office of Economic Affairs and Practice Management, 1997 In today's competitive economic environment many psychiatrists are entering capitation agreements with managed care organizations. In exchange for a flat fee for each member of a benefit plan the psychiatrist must provide all services needed by group members regardless of the amount of service required or its cost. The Psychiatrist's Guide to Capitation and Risk Based Contracting provides the tools that will allow clinicians to navigate this complex process and develop a successful capitated program. It includes an overview of the primary financial administrative and clinical issues involved in such a contract. This guide contains helpful advice on how to calculate an equitable capitation rate, evaluate and negotiate a contract, minimize the financial risks involved, and resolve numerous other issues crucial to a successful capitation contract. An interactive mental health capitation demonstration disk especially designed and developed to educate psychiatrists about the interrelationships between mental health utilization, mental health service cost, and managed care capitation rates accompanies this book. By using this guide, clinicians will be able to manage this competitive environment in the best interests of their patients and their practice.

Managed Care Contracting Wendy Knight, 1997 This book provides physician executives and medical group managers with a next generation reference on the managed care contracting process. This handbook will educate health care providers about managed care contracting, how the contracting process works, what a standard practice contract looks like, and why certain provisions are included, what questions to ask, and how to evaluate a capitation rate. Building and Managing Effective Physician Organizations Under Capitation Douglas E. Goldstein, 1996 This resource offers you a unique Building Block system, a proven effective tool used by organizations to survive and prosper in an era of different reimbursement schemes from discounted fee for service and primary care capitation to global capitation and percent of premium payment.

The Managed Care Contracting Handbook Maria K. Todd, 2009-03-26 Managed care contracting is a process that frustrates even the best administrators. However, to ignore this complexity is to do so at your own expense. You don't necessarily need to bear the cost of overpriced legal advice, but you do need to know what questions to ask, what clauses to avoid, what contingencies to cover, and when to ask a lawyer.

Managed Care Technical Assistance Series ,1997 Guide to State Medicaid Managed Care Laws Jane M. Anderson, 1996-12 The Psychiatrist's Managed Care Primer American Psychiatric Association. Until the start of the new century efforts to strengthen health systems focused solely on the public sector and health programs overseen by public bodies The private sector was sidelined in certain countries and even banned in others At the same time some private sector stakeholders readily adapted themselves to this special situation so as to avoid becoming part of a structured health system This volume notes profound changes in health care around the world in two areas The stakeholders involved in the health sector are increasing in number and diversifying as a result of the development of the private sector They are also responding to a process of democratization and decentralization These developments have been paralleled by greater functional differentiation Various stakeholders are increasingly specializing in particular areas of the health system service delivery procurement management financing and regulation The interdependence of health stakeholders becomes more evident along with the increased complexity of delivery systems as these respond to changing demand There is a compelling need to forge relationships Such relationships are in fact emerging in developed countries and more recently in developing countries They may be informal but are increasingly organized and structured Journal of the American College of Cardiology ,1994-11 Annotated Bibliography for Managed Behavioral Health Care 1989-1999 ,2000
