Forgetting Sergio Della Sala, 2010-06-10 Memory and forgetting are inextricably intertwined In order to understand how memory works we need to understand how and why we forget The topic of forgetting is therefore hugely important despite the fact that it has often been neglected in comparison with other features of memory This volume addresses various aspects of forgetting drawing from several disciplines including experimental and cognitive psychology cognitive and clinical neuropsychology behavioural neuroscience neuroimaging clinical neurology and computational modeling The first chapters of the book discuss the history of forgetting its theories and accounts the difference between short term and long term forgetting as well as the relevance of forgetting within each of the numerous components of memory taxonomy The central part summarizes and discusses what we have learned about forgetting from animal work from computational modeling and from neuroimaging Further chapters discuss pathological forgetting in patients with amnesia and epilepsy as well as psychogenic forgetting The book concludes by focusing on the difference between forgetting of autobiographical memories versus collective memory forgetting This book is the first to address the issue of forgetting from an interdisciplinary point of view but with a particular emphasis on psychology The book is scientific and yet accessible in tone and as such is suitable for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students of psychology and related subjects such as science and neuroscience

The Forgetting Tree Rae Paris, 2017-04-12 A personal narrative of past and present racial violence and resistance to terror in the United States Rae Paris began writing The Forgetting Tree A Rememory in 2010 while traveling the United States visiting sites of racial trauma horror and defiance The desire to do this work came from being a child of parents born and raised in New Orleans during segregation who ultimately left for California in the late 1950s After the death of her father in 2011 the fiction Paris had been writing gave way to poetry and short prose which were heavily influenced by the questions she d long been considering about narrative power memory and freedom The need to write this story became even more personal and pressing While Paris sometimes uses the genre of memoir or hybrid memoir when referring to her work in this case the term rememory born from Toni Morrison s Beloved feels most accurate Paris is driven by the familial and historical spaces and by what happens when we remember seemingly disparate images and moments The collection is not fully prose or poetry but rather an elegy for those who have passed through us A perfect blend of prose poetry and images The Forgetting Tree is a unique and thought provoking collection that argues for a deeper understanding of past and present so that we might imagine a more hopeful sustainable and loving future

Before I Forget John Robert Allen, 2019-10-25 I write to mend those places that got snagged ripped or frayed while being human with other humans is a quote from Erika Harris BEFORE I FORGET is a compilation of short stories that had its birth at the Villas of Canandaigua New York A group of writing enthusiasts gathered to organize and compile a book of stories that represents what seniors can produce when working in a cohesive writing environment Many of the stories have deep meaning to the authors Other stories are fictional and show how stories can inspire others to write Writing can be the vehicle for healing pleasure of days gone by or humor with life's happenings that can be transformed onto paper It has been the goal of the authors to give the readers a glimpse into the lives experiences dreams and hopes of their lives and loved ones For the folks involved in the short story project there was a common thread that everyone wanted to write a story and be remembered for it which created a feeling of unity within the group According to Antonio Porchia who was Italian born but later in life became an Argentinian poet One lives in the hopes of becoming a memory The stories within this book give an example that every person or thing becomes a memory and unless a life or a happening is recorded it will be lost forever Everyone needs to be remembered writing and recording is a way for this to happen Our group hopes that you as a reader will be inspired to tell your story no matter what it may be Even if it is a fictional story there is merit in having your name be seen as an author The cover of the book is in memory of Doris Kane watercolor artist Steve Kane's mother The following is a list of the people who made this book possible Lisa Albrecht John Robert Allen Carole Arkins Gary Baldwin Richard Booth Julie Cummins Carol Eiffert Linda Orrell Fair Teresa Fantone Kathy
