Activity Theory and Collaborative Intervention in Education Katsuhiro Yamazumi, 2021-02-22. By applying cultural historical activity theory and expansive learning theory to educational research, this volume illuminates new forms of educational activities as collaborative interventions in schools and communities where learners and practitioners generate expansive learning so that they can collectively transform their activities and expand their agency for themselves. It covers four cases of activity theoretical formative intervention studies conducted in Japan, which are related to fostering children's expansive learning in classroom lessons, teachers as collaborative change agents in redesigning schools, expanding the school activity from below, and emerging knotworking agency in community-based disaster prevention learning. This book employs activity theory as a general theoretical framework of human learning and development to connect focal data from empirical and interventional studies on real human learning in specific educational settings in Japan. In this way, the book illustrates how the general theoretical framework could be used to understand a specific socio-cultural milieu that is the Japanese context. It also shows the universal relevance of the Japanese context of educational activity on broader international research, analyzing concrete empirical data from specific settings in Japan. In conclusion, this book creates new understanding and develops a cohesive framework of the agentic and hybrid nature of educational activities as collaborative interventions in the expansion of learning.

The Expanding Boundaries of Black Politics Georgia A. Persons, 2011-12-31. This volume joins the preceding volumes in this distinguished series in presenting contemporary research by leading political scientists addressing topics of interest to those concerned with African American affairs. It captures the expanding boundaries of black politics and the persistent interests of the black community at large. The anchoring symposium, The Expanding Boundaries of Black Politics, presents the scholarship of a cadre of young black political scientists actively engaged in the critical tasks of moving forward the study of black politics. Their concerns include expanding the boundaries of black politics along the lines of epistemology and methodology especially in regard to core issues and areas within this field. In an introductory essay by Todd Shaw, the work of these scholars is situated within the context of temporal shifts in scholarly emphases. Overlapping issues and concerns across time as well as black political scholarship as defined in the field since its beginning are addressed. The second part of this volume, entitled Maximizing the Black Vote: Recognizing the Limits of Electoral Politics, concentrates on serious, lingering social concerns. These include the policy significance of black mayors, affecting the concomitant impact of the black vote, the boundaries being pushed concerning the conjunction of black theology and sexual identity, a gendered analysis of familial policies and the deepening social and economic plight of young black males, including felon disfranchisement. The Expanding Boundaries of Black Politics carries forth the search for an understanding of the relationship between religion, the black church, and black political behavior, cross racial group coalitions as concerns matters of immigration, growing multiculturalism, and the impact on black politics, maximizing the impact of the black vote, focusing on voting rights enforcement, the black vote in presidential elections, and the voice of the Congressional Black Caucus in American foreign policy and persistent social inequalities, especially as it concerns ideology, federalism, and social welfare policy.

Creating a Learning School David Middlewood, Richard Parker, Jackie Beere, 2005-08-16

Improving the quality of learning and teaching is the most important thing that school leaders do. This book contains much that will help the reader in that enterprise. It reflects the fact that much of what we know about effective high quality schools is already out there in schools across the country. The book mines that gold. It is full of good sense, a treasure chest of helpful ideas which have the credibility of being grounded in case study material and in the experience of the authors, two of whom are practising headteachers. The book sets out the principles underpinning the Learning School but offers also a strong pragmatic focus and is organized so that it can be dipped into and something worthwhile easily found. It sets out practical and specific steps to creating the Learning School and will support change and improvement in the professional practices involved in making a school a stimulating learning environment for adults as well as students. Dr Martin J Coles, Assistant Director, National College for School Leadership. Clearly set out, passionately and well written, covering much material full of interesting insights as one might expect from two head teachers and an acknowledged expert in the field. Lots of interesting thoughts and ideas written in an accessible style. I would certainly recommend this book to my students. ESCalate. The schools of the 21st century cannot continue to apply the techniques of the 20th century. New Learning dispenses with outdated preoccupations with tests targets and leadership from above and focuses on independence of learning and structural flexibility within schools The authors give a complete overview of how schools can adapt to meet changing needs They look at the teacher as learner learning outside the classroom and the nature of leadership in learning schools and provide practical solutions to the problems of staffing resourcing and assessment This book is an invaluable resource for all mid to upper level managers in schools anyone aspiring to these positions or anyone who takes a longterm view of the future of educational practice Creating Visions for University- School Partnerships JoAnne Ferrara, Janice L. Nath, Irma N.

Guadarrama, 2014-10-01 In keeping with the tradition set forth in volumes 1 4 this fifth volume Creating Visions for University School Partnerships A Volume in Professional Development School Research continues to exemplify current thinking of practitioners and researchers in the field The range of authors from the PreK 16 arena illustrates the ways in which professional development schools generate possible solutions to the complex problems facing educators The diversity of their work represents perspectives of classroom teachers preservice teachers school leaders and university faculty who grapple with identifying ways of knowing and ways of doing that enhance educational outcomes for PreK 12 students while also serving to transform the profession The volume s contents of 19 chapters divided into four areas 1 Clinically Rich Practices 2 PDS Stakeholders Perspectives 3 Enriching Content Area Instruction 4 Family Engagement gives us a more vivid picture of the work that partnerships are doing to fulfill the PDS promise for improving teaching and learning at every level

Creating the Future School Hedley Beare, 2013-05-13 This fascinating book is based on the changes to schooling that a five year old Angelica will see in her lifetime It is divided into two parts the first describes how schools are viewed by society the second considers practical responses that schools can make to keep up with change Creating the Future School predicts that the career of teaching will change and the work of the professional educator will differ significantly from what has been the traditional teaching role in schools of the twentieth century The book addresses principals senior members of school staff teachers governors and policy makers and aims to open up the reader s awareness to the profound shift in society and how society views its schools
