Transformational Growth and the Business Cycle Edward Nell,2005-09-27 This book examines the concept of Transformational Growth from a number of different historical and geographical perspectives Transformational Growth sees the economy as an evolving system in which the market selects and finances innovations changing the character of costs and affecting the pattern of market adjustment This creates the possibility that markets will work differently in particular historical periods This book explores market adjustments in two distinct historical periods 1870 1914 and 1945 the present The book focuses on six countries USA United Kingdom Canada Germany Japan and Argentina In all cases the earlier period dominated by craft based technologies proves to be the one in which markets adjust through a weakly stabilising price mechanism By contrast in the later period in all cases with the exception of Argentina there is no evidence of such a price mechanism but in its place can be seen a multiplier accelerator process which arguably reflects a change of technology to mass production

Growth and Employment in Europe M. Zagler, 2004-05-12 Zagler investigates the interaction between changes in the level of unemployment and changes in the economic rate of growth It asks both in theory and in evidence whether a change in the growth rate of the economy will affect the level of unemployment which the economy experiences and whether a decline in the level of unemployment will foster or deteriorate the growth performance of the economy

Accelerated Land Reform, Mining, Growth, Unemployment and Inequality in South Africa Nombulelo Gumata, Eliphas Ndou, 2020-01-03 The overarching goal of South Africa's National Development Plan NDP is to eliminate poverty reduce inequality lower unemployment and increase the labour participation This book contributes to academic and policy efforts to achieve these NDP goals We establish that the coal metal ores and the platinum group commodity sectors will underpin the mining as a sunrise industry The export led growth strategy is necessary for intensive employment creation but must be complemented by other micro macroeconomic and industrial policies A strategy of minerals beneficiation is important for intensive employment creation Accelerated land reform is a supply side or structural reform policy intervention tool aimed at increasing potential output changing ownership patterns in the economy increasing entrepreneurship labour absorption economic inclusion and lowering income inequality Evidence shows that the balance sheet channel commodity price booms and busts are intricately linked with the exchange rate dynamics policy uncertainty confidence and the effects of droughts also symptoms of climate change Productivity and investment growth shocks matter for output employment and price stability Evidence indicates that nominal GDP growth above 10 percent and keeping inflation within the target band leads to significant increase in employment and decline in unemployment without inflationary pressures especially when inflation is below 4 5 percent To operationalise the NDP targets align and co ordinate policies the South African Reserve Bank SARB mandate can be expanded to include maximum employment This must be complemented by lowering the inflation target band adjusting the financial regulatory macro prudential and monetary policy frameworks This will enhance the conduct and credibility of monetary and financial stability policies to achieve the set objectives These objectives make policy co ordination pertinent and binding

Agricultural productivity, inter-sectoral labor shift, and economic growth in India Balaji, S. J.,Babu, Suresh Chandra,2020-06-29 In this paper we study the transformation process Indian agriculture exhibited in the recent past studying its policy implications Between the years 2005 06 and 2015 16 more than 52 million workers left agriculture which did not have any effect on agricultural output due to productivity improvements We estimate the contribution of productivity growth and structural change in agriculture to national productivity growth during 1981 2016 We estimate differentials in agricultural productivity and in their ability to contribute to the structural change process for 21 major states of India Using revised employment estimates we trace major changes during the pre reforms before 1991 and post reforms periods Results show that in the pre reforms period the impact of productivity improvements in agriculture on agricultural output was equated by the new workforce entering into this sector leading to a stagnant labor productivity trend The labor shift from agriculture during the early years of the post reforms period which increased further in the next decade has led to a consistent rise in agricultural productivity In the absence of reforms and the associated labor shift the productivity growth in Indian agriculture would have been much lower A similar labor shift during the last decade has not affected agricultural output which has risen more rapidly This result holds true for almost all states studied There exists a positive relation between labor shift and agricultural output in a cluster of states Decomposition results indicate within sector productivity growth is the major source of overall growth with a rising contribution of structural change Studying the sources of growth across states offers new scope to achieve inter sectoral productivity convergence

Behind the Curve: Can Manufacturing Still Provide Inclusive Growth? Robert Z. Lawrence,2024-08-05 Manufacturing jobs once the backbone of the modern US economy have declined as a share of GDP over recent decades darkening opportunities for middle class advancement Similar trends have impacted export superpowers like China Germany Japan Singapore and South Korea

Driven by nostalgia for a bygone era however many countries have turned to reshoring and industrial policies to revive manufacturing employment In Behind the Curve Can Manufacturing Still Provide Inclusive Growth Robert Z Lawrence argues that these efforts are unlikely to succeed He demonstrates that deeply rooted forces common to all countries technological change shifting consumer spending patterns and trade account for lagging manufacturing employment and that these trends are unlikely to be reversed The industrial sector s historic role as an engine of opportunity and inclusive growth is unsustainable Government efforts to promote manufacturing to achieve goals such as industrial self sufficiency green transitions and digital technologies however well intentioned may even make economic growth less inclusive Instead new policies are needed to help people places and countries cope with inevitable changes in the composition of employment
