Evaluating Public Sector Research And Development:

Evaluating Public Sector Research and Development Albert Link, 1996-05-16 The need for evaluation of public sector research and development activity is critical in today's political environment to assist policymakers with resource allocation Methodology for evaluating public sector research and development activity is described and illustrated by the author using in depth case studies drawn from the research programs at the National Institute of Standards and Technology These cases range from newly formed federal laboratory research initiatives to well established research programs Managerial and evaluative guidelines are enunciated The United States has supported research and development activity on both the applied and basic research levels for most of its history The importance of public sector research has often been discussed but its effectiveness has not been adequately reviewed The need for evaluation of public sector research and development activity is critical in today's political environment to assist policymakers with resource allocation Methodology for evaluating public sector research and development activity is described and illustrated by the author using in depth case studies drawn from the research programs at the National Institute of Standards and Technology These cases range from newly formed federal laboratory research initiatives to well established research programs Managerial and evaluative guidelines are enunciated This work should be of interest to scholars who deal with economics in general public policy science policy and public administration In addition practitioners in public administration and managers of public sector research laboratories on federal and state levels should find the information useful Those who depend on research and development done with public sector money or who use it to supplement their research programs will also be interested

Evaluating Public Research Institutions Albert N. Link, John T. Scott, 2005 In recent years the hallmark public sector research program in the US has been the Advanced Technology Program ATP Assessing its progress so far this book then illustrates how other public organizations should conduct evaluations

The Public Sector R&D Enterprise: A New Approach to Portfolio Valuation P. Linquiti, 2015-04-24 The Public Sector R D Enterprise combines a primer on how government R D programs actually work with a sophisticated methodology for prospectively putting a dollar figure on the value of R D investments before they are made

Public Goods, Public Gains Albert N. Link, John T. Scott, 2011-01-27 In Public Goods Public Gains Link and Scott discuss the systematic application of alternative evaluation methods to estimate the social benefits of publicly financed research and development R D The authors argue that economic theory should be the guiding criterion for any method of program evaluation because it focuses attention on the value and the opportunity costs of the program The evaluation methods discussed and illustrated are both economics and for comparison non economics based The book is motivated by four foundation chapters that discuss government's role in innovation from the perspective of economic theory review public accountability issues from both a constitutional and an historical perspective overview systematic approaches to program evaluation and describe the evaluation metrics typically used Four case studies illustrate the four alternative evaluation approaches discussed These case studies are for the U S Advanced Technology Program s intramural research awards program the U S National Institute of Standards and Technology s research on wavelength references for optical fiber communications the U S Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award and the Advanced Technology Program s focused program on the integration of manufacturing applications

Systems and Innovation Research in Transition Jakob Edler, Rainer Walz, 2024-09-25 In the last decades it has become more and more imperative for our societies and for decision makers in all areas of society to understand the dynamics through which innovation systems develop and through which socio technical systems transform themselves As both innovation and transformation are strongly intertwined it has equally become imperative to analyse their dynamics as well as their interplay This open access volume reflects on the research fields that have developed in the last five decades to do exactly that It defines and delineates research on systems and innovation as encompassing the scientific study of first the conditions dynamics and impacts associated with the generation and uptake of innovations and second the development and transformation of functional systems satisfying essential needs such as the provision of energy or water Further the area of Systems and Innovation Research SIR is characterised by problem and stakeholder oriented research We chose five decades as time frame because we noted that roughly 50 years ago a number of research institutes dedicated to SIR were founded and the SIR area started to grow significantly We present a systematic history of nine selected fields within the area of SIR Innovation policy Innovation indicators Foresight Policy Evaluation Technology Assessment Production Paradigms Renewable Energies Energy Efficiency Water Use We also present a conceptual framework to understand the processes by which the research fields have developed This allows to draw general lessons as to what drives fields throughout their development and how their role vis vis policy businesses and societies changes over time It also allows to speculate about future challenges and trends in the SIR area This is important because if anything the need to govern transformation through innovation will further grow in the future and with it the need to understand the underlying dynamics

Limited by Design Michael Crow, Barry Bozeman, 1998-09-25 Limited by Design is the first comprehensive study of the varying roles played by the more than 16 000 research and development laboratories in the U S national innovation system Michael Crow and Barry Bozeman offer policy makers and scientists a blueprint for making more informed decisions about how to best utilize and develop the capabilities of these facilities Some labs such as Bell Labs Westinghouse and Eastman Kodak have been global players since the turn of the century Others such as Los Alamos National Laboratory have been mainstays of the military energy industrial complex since they evolved in the 1940s These and other institutions have come to serve as the infrastructure upon which a range of industries have relied and have had a tremendous impact on U S social and economic history Michael Crow and Barry Bozeman illustrate the histories missions structure and behavior of individual laboratories and explore the policy contexts in which they are embedded In studying this large and varied collection of labs Crow Bozeman and their colleagues develop a new framework for understanding the structure and behavior of laboratories that also provides a basis for rationalizing federal science and technology policy to create more effective laboratories The book draws upon interviews and surveys collected from thousands of scientists administrators and policy makers and features boxed lab windows throughout that provide detailed information on the variety of laboratories active in the U S national innovation system Limited by Design addresses a range of questions in order to enable policy makers university administrators and scientists to plan effectively for the future of research and development Innovation, Entrepreneurship, and Technological Change Albert N. Link, Donald S. Link, Frederic M. Scherer, 2005-07-01 Edwin Mansfield was a research pioneer into the economics of R and D and technological change As appreciation and remembrance for his scholarly contributions eminent scholars have contributed original papers for this edited volume The authors have followed the Mansfieldian approach of emphasizing economic insight and intuition over mathematical rigor and as a result are very accessible Essays in Honor of Edwin Mansfield has the potential to serve as a reader in all advanced undergraduate and graduate classes seminars in the economics of R and D and technological change This edited volume will be the definitive work in the field Government Laboratory Technology Transfer Sally Rood, 2018-02-06 This title was first published in 2000 Due to budget cuts and competitiveness pressures determining the outcome of technology transfer from government R D laboratories to private industry and entrepreneurial start ups is of increasing interest This book presents a series of case studies of successful technology transfer by examining the same list of topics for each case It presents a format for analyzing the cases topic by topic a methodology that could be used by any R D laboratory The book also goes one step further and compares the cases that took place prior to national technology transfer legislation with those cases that took place after passage of such legislation An additional feature is the summary of existing attempts to measure and evaluate technology transfer This follows a background section on the technology policy context The analysis finds that there is a significant commercial impact from government laboratory transfer using this approach The Social Value of New Technology Albert N. Link, John T. Scott, New technologies with their practical contributions provide social value The chapters in this volume view this social value from a program evaluation perspective and the focus of the evaluations is the generation of new technology funded by public sector agencies The authors provide important background on methodology and application and show that it is relevant not only to the established scholars and practitioners but also to students Papers and Proceedings of the Advanced Technology Program's International Conference on the Economic Evaluation of Technological Change, June 15-16, 1998, Georgetown University Conference Center, Washington, DC Richard N.
