The Early Evolutionary Imagination Emelie Jonsson, 2021-09-29 Darwinian evolution is an imaginative problem that has been passed down to us unsolved It is our most powerful explanation of humanity's place in nature but it is also more cognitively demanding and less emotionally satisfying than any myth From the publication of the Origin of Species in 1859 evolution has pushed our capacity for storytelling into overdrive sparking fairy tales adventure stories political allegories utopias dystopias social realist novels and existential meditations Though this influence on literature has been widely studied it has not been explained psychologically This book argues for the adaptive function of storytelling integrates traditional humanist scholarship with current knowledge about the evolved and adapted human mind and calls for literary scholars to reframe their interpretation of the first authors who responded to Darwin Joseph Conrad and H. G. Wells L.

Dryden, 2015-05-24 This book traces the literary friendship between Joseph Conrad and H G Wells from their early correspondence through to the differences that caused their estrangement including their respective responses to the First World War It thus gives an overview of the literary scene in the late Victorian and early Edwardian period Stephen

Crane Paul Sorrentino, 2014-06-05 Stephen Crane's short compact life a life of fire he called it is surrounded by myths distortions and fabrications Paul Sorrentino has sifted through garbled chronologies and contradictory eyewitness accounts scoured the archives and followed in Crane's footsteps The result is the most accurate account of the poet and novelist to date Student Companion to Stephen Crane Paul M. Good Soldier Ford Madox Ford, 2007-04-26 The Dowells a wealthy American couple have been close friends with the Ashburnhams for years Edward Ashburnham a first rate soldier seems to be the perfect English gentleman and Leonora his perfect wife but beneath the surface their marriage seethes with unhappiness and deception Our only window on the strange

Staging the Trials of Modernism Dale Barleben, 2017-01-23 In Staging the Trials of Modernism Dale Barleben explores the interactions among literature cultural studies and the law through detailed analyses of select British modern writers including Oscar Wilde Joseph Conrad Ford Madox Ford and James Joyce By tracing the relationships between the literature authors media and judicial procedure of the time Barleben illuminates the somewhat macabre element of modern British trial process which still enacts and re enacts itself throughout contemporary judicial systems of the British Commonwealth Using little seen legal documents like Ford's contempt trial decision Staging the Trials of Modernism uncovers the conversations between the interior style of British Modern authors and the ways in which law began rethinking concepts like intent and the subconscious Barleben's fresh insights offer a nuanced look into the ways in which law influences literary production

Before Einstein Elizabeth L. Throesch, 2017-01-02 Before Einstein brings together previous scholarship in the field of nineteenth century literature and science and greatly expands upon it offering the first book length study of not only the scientific and cultural context of the spatial fourth dimension but also the literary value of four dimensional theory In addition to providing close critical analysis of Charles Howard Hinton's Scientific Romances 1884 1896 Before Einstein examines the work of H G Wells Henry James and William James through the lens of four dimensional theory The primary value of Hinton's work has always been its literary and philosophical content and influence rather than its scientific authority It is certain that significant late nineteenth century writers and thinkers such as H G Wells William James Olive Schreiner Karl Pearson and W E B Du Bois read Hinton Others including Henry James Joseph Conrad and Ford Madox Ford were familiar with his ideas Hinton's fourth dimension appealed to scientists spiritualists and artists and particularly at the end of the nineteenth century the interests of these different groups often overlapped Truly interdisciplinary in scope Before Einstein breaks new ground by offering an extensive analysis of four dimensional theory's place in the shared history of Modernism

Authors and Audiences Clarence Karr, 2000 From the 1890s through the 1920s the best selling fiction of Ralph Connor Robert Stead Nellie McClung Lucy Maud Montgomery and Arthur Stringer was internationally recognized In this intriguing cultural history of the conception production and reception of popular fiction Clarence Karr challenges the common assumption that best sellers are a conservative cultural influence reflecting and promoting traditional values By focusing on a society and its cultural leaders at a period when they were coming to grips with modernity Karr provides a new perspective on popular culture and the interaction between readers and popular authors

Maps of Utopia Simon J. James, 2012-02-02 H G Wells is one of the most widely read writers of the twentieth century but until now the aesthetics of his work have not been investigated in detail Maps of Utopia tells the story of Wells's writing career over six decades during which he produced popular science educational theory history politics prophecy and utopia as well as realist experimental and science fiction This book asks what Wells thought literature was and what he thought it was for H G Wells formulated a literary aesthetics based on scientific principles designed to improve the world both in the present and for future generations Unlike Henry James with whom he famously argued Wells was not content simply to let literary art be for its own sake he wanted to make art instrumental in improving the lives of its readers by bringing about the founding the World State that he predicted was man s only alternative to self destruction Such a project differed radically from the aims of Wells s late Victorian and his Modernist contemporaries with consequences for the nature both of Wells s writing and for his subsequent critical reception Maps of Utopia begins with the late Victorian debate about the uses of effect of reading especially reading fiction that followed the mass literacy of the 1870 71 Education Acts It considers Wells s best known scientific romances such as The Time Machine and The War of the Worlds and important social novels such as Tono Bungay It also examines less well known texts such as The Sea Lady Boon and Wells s journalism and political writings This study closes with his cinematic collaboration The Shape of Things to Come and The Outline of History Wells s best selling book in his own lifetime
