Learning To Talk Malcolm McIntosh, Sandra Waddock, Georg Kell, 2017-09-29. The UN Global Compact complements other corporate citizenship initiatives by promoting dialogue on the relationship between business and society. At the same time, it is the only truly global corporate citizenship initiative. It is not an auditable standard; indeed, it is not a standard or a code in the way that these are normally viewed. It is a set of principles through which business and the United Nations can work in partnership for global social development. For some businesses, it is a simplified codification of their existing policies and management practices, but for many, engagement represents a challenge and an opportunity to raise their game by aligning profitability with the common good. As the only genuinely global corporate citizenship initiative, the Global Compact draws its moral authority from the UN Secretary General and its moral and political legitimacy from the UN as the only global political body. It can be viewed as a series of nested networks involving the Secretary General's Office, the ILO, UNEP, UNHCHR, UNDP and UNIDO, business, NGOs and labour. It can variously be described as an international learning network, as a social network of people and organizations engaged in a global conversation, as a global public policy network and as a multi-stakeholder dialogue. It is all of these things, but more than anything, its greatest success has been in providing a convening platform for a growing global conversation about social development among a variety of actors. However, the Global Compact is viewed, it is time to reflect on the first tentative steps of an initiative born in the aftermath of the Cold War, in the triumph of global economic liberalism and mass demonstrations against globalisation. In its first few years, the world has experienced 9/11 and the Iraq War, not forgetting the forty or so civil wars that are ongoing at this time. Whatever is written about the UN Global Compact, or its success, will be tentative. But there can be some serious reflection on its aims and origins, some telling of stories of engagement and discussion on how this initiative has quickly become an important reference point in the dialogue on global and corporate governance.

T-Kit 14 - Value-based learning in mobility projects Snežana Bačlija Knoch, Sérgio Gonçalves, Susie Nicodemi, 2022-05-18. Promote value-based education in general and in learning mobility in the youth field, in particular. Learning mobility in the youth field is increasingly recognised and present in European programmes and in the activities and initiatives supported by the European Union, the Council of Europe and other institutions. Providing a meeting place for people from different environments and communities, learning mobility programmes draw attention to values, trigger reflections on them and stimulate questioning and critical examination. If prepared and facilitated well, these experiences can contribute to preparing and supporting young people and adult learners to be active in society and to be agents of change This T Kit has been written by and is for facilitators of learning to help start their thinking process about an important but also complex topic It aims to promote value based education in general to explain it and with practical examples related to specific values show how it can be used It is framed within the current policy framework of the Council of Europe and the European Union including their youth mobility programmes The T Kit should be understood through a holistic learning and non formal education approach the combination of theory background information examples and some practical ideas should help to initiate reflection from the relatively new angle of value based education in learning mobility in the youth field Value based learning is not neutral and neither is the T Kit Value based learning in mobility projects It is rooted in a set of values that it explores promotes and encourages action based on them To support this process the T Kit is divided into two parts one conceptual and one practical The conceptual part lays the foundation for value based learning in mobility while the practical part encompasses concrete activities and thought provokers which address the dilemmas and questions that can arise when implementing activities
