Integrating Moderately and Severely Handicapped Learners Michael P. Brady, Philip L. Gunter, 1985 Habilitation Planning for Adults with Disabilities Robert L. Schalock, William E. Kiernan, 2012-12-06 Habilitation Planning for Adults With Disabilities presents a comprehensive approach to habilitation planning and service delivery for adults with disabilities This book investigates the increased demands and expectations by adults with disabilities regarding personalized service and quality of life including independence productivity and community integration and discusses historical and current treatment and trends This book is presented in five main sections definitions and background material lifestyles and living work and recreational environments habilitation strategies personal growth and quality of life for the affected adult and the present and future trends in habilitation planning Rehabilitation personnel in the areas of administration assessment training case management or evolution applied psychologists and professionals and students in special education rehabilitation counseling human service or health administration will be interested in this volume Resources to Facilitate the Transition of Learners with Special Needs from School-to-work Or Postsecondary Education ,1989 Adapted Physical Activity Robert D. Steadward, Garry D. Wheeler, E. Jane Watkinson, 2003-08-01 The field of Adapted Physical Activity is a rapidly expanding area in post secondary education As the profession grows so does the demand for new texts that challenge students to think critically Adapted Physical Activity edited by Steadward Wheeler and Watkinson is a textbook that combines up to date information with a critical thinking approach Based on a core theme of inclusion this text examines the spectrum of adapted physical activity from school community and international disability sports perspectives This comprehensive examination provides the reader with a unique and up to date insight into the scope of adapted physical activity The text deals with a variety of important issues ranging from the provision of equal access to active living opportunities schools and communities to instructional and educational issues to the history of disability sport and issues regarding sports performance in athletes with disability Contributions by a who s who of Canadian experts render this text a must have for instruction in the area of Adapted Physical Activity or Education at all levels of post secondary education The text is constructed in a flexible thematic and modular format allowing instructors at all levels of post secondary education undergraduate and graduate to select areas for study or integrate various selections of chapters into individual courses Integrated Lifecycle Services for Persons with Disabilities David L. Lovett, Kathryn A. Haring, 2012-12-06 The field of education is under pressure both external and internal to improve the services provided to all students In American society and elsewhere there is a concern that current educational practices fail to adequately prepare many students to be productive citizens There has been a call for educational services that are more responsive to the needs of students that use effective educational practices that involve parents and the local community and that adequately prepare teachers to assume more professional roles Over the last several decades special educators have addressed these and other critical issues as they relate to students with disabilities The knowledge gained from these endeavors can be useful in the reshaping of schools for all students those with disabilities and those without Indeed this information may be useful for services beyond school whether for young children or adults This volume has been written to address how people with disabilities can be effectively served in settings with their nondisabled peers Because many of the students who are not well served by current educational practices have similar needs as students with disabilities it is anticipated that some of this information may be useful in the discussion regarding the reshaping of educational systems It is also anticipated that the material presented will help in the design of more effective coordinated systems that serve people with disabilities throughout their lives

Wheeler, 1987 This book is intended to assist anyone who is interested in the quality of life afforded persons with moderate and severe disabilities including educators residential providers vocational rehabilitation personnel social staff parents and advocates The first section which deals with the reasons why transition is needed covers the following topics major federal legislation addressing transition services provided under the auspices of special and vocational education and vocational rehabilitation legislation and initiatives versus practice ways of narrowing the gap between theory and practice the role of transition services as the missing link between education and adulthood and components of the transition model residential environment employment and social and interpersonal networks The second chapter examines ways of helping moderately and severely disabled persons increase their productivity independence and participation in the community and workplace It includes information on high school programs curriculum development models integrated school systems and community based instruction The third chapter covers the players and procedures entailed in planning the transition process including the core transition team and methods of individualizing and evaluating the process The array of available residential vocational recreation leisure and community at large services is described in the next chapter which deals with the outcomes of the transition process Finally process and product outcome barriers are addressed in a concluding chapter on barriers to transition planning Appendixes include a parent guardian transition questionnaire follow up survey and format for organizing individual transition objectives MN

Programming Effective Human Services Walter Christian, 2012-12-06 Human service programming has been the focus of much public scrutiny legislative action and applied research in recent years As a result human service providers have learned to exhibit greater respect for the needs and legal rights of their consumers the appropriateness and cost effectiveness of treatment procedures and service programs and the personnel and facilities involved in providing services to consumers Despite this encouraging trend many human service agencies are still trying unsuccessfully to meet the two fundamental criteria of effective programming 1 providing services that are effective in meeting the needs of the consumer and 2 equipping consumers to function independently of the human service system to the extent possible For example there appears to be a general acceptance of the notion that custodial institutional service programs are needed despite the fact that they are ineffective in rehabilitating and transitioning clients to the community and that they are difficult to change In addition although community based service programs have been developed as alternatives to institutional placement there is rarely sufficient transitional planning and programming to facilitate the clients progress from the institution to the community Although these problems generally are acknowledged most human service managers and practitioners are ill equipped to deal with them Specifically the technology of human service management is in need of improvement It is more theoretical than practical and it lacks sufficient field testing and empirical validation

Social Behavior in Autism Eric Schopler, Gary B. Mesibov, 2013-11-11 An important component of Division TEACCH's mandate from the Department of Psychiatry of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine and the North Carolina State Legislature is to conduct research aimed toward improving the understanding of developmental disabilities such as autism and to train the professionals who will be needed to work with this challenging population An important mechanism to help meet these goals is our annual conference on topics of special importance for the understanding and treatment of autism and related disorders As with the preceding books in this series entitled Current Issues in Autism this most recent volume is based on one of these conferences The books are not however simply published proceedings of conference papers Instead certain conference participants were asked to develop chapters around their presentations and other national and international experts whose work is beyond the scope of the conference but related to the conference theme were asked to contribute manuscripts as well These volumes are intended to provide the most current knowledge and professional practice available to us at this time
