Variable	Coefficient	Standard Error	t-statistic	p-value
Age of the head of household	0.05	0.02	2.50	0.012
Gender of the head of household (Male = 1, Female = 0)	-0.10	0.03	-3.33	0.001
Constant	1.50	0.10	15.00	<0.001

The regression results indicate that the number of children in the household increases with the age of the head of household and decreases if the head of household is male. The constant term represents the expected number of children for a young female head of household.

Almost everything changed, from data access to remote object calls to the deployment of software components. And of course, .NET introduced a new technology in XML Web services that revolutionized Web development. Distributed .NET Programming in VB .NET describes how to use these .NET technologies to build fast, scalable, and robust distributed applications. Along the way, it answers common questions such as: How do I use the .NET Remoting Framework? What role does COM play in the .NET universe? How can I interoperate with COM components? What's the difference between .NET Remoting and Web services? How will these changes affect the architecture and design of a distributed application?
