Mindfulness for Educational Leadership in the 21st Century Elizabeth Nakayiza RSCJ (Ph.D.), 2016-04-27 This book proposes a method for making educational systems and their curriculum leaderships in Sub Saharan Africa particularly Uganda relevant functional and generative in the current unfolding of a fast paced technology driven future that prompts questions about educational leadership in a society where many traditional educational systems are failing The book poses the following question What might constitute effective leadership in our heightened global nexus of realities often described as globalization Nonhuman technologies are moving people away from connections that once strengthened human relationships and fostered collective actions Too many workplace pressures and demands cause educational leaders to function on autopilot without involving others in the process of mindful leadership of educational reform Focusing on mindfulness its application in different educational settings and its advantages for educational leadership this book argues that contemporary meditation practices and their benefits can inform effective successful twenty first century leadership practices in Africa particularly Uganda It draws on numerous theories from literature in the fields of business and management medicine psychology theology and the social and behavioral sciences The selected theories represent the growing research grounded in contemporary thoughts on leadership epistemology with inclination toward the mindfulness that grows out of regular practice of meditation The book concludes with the argument that collective mindful educational leadership emerges when all stakeholders are able to participate in the leadership of their institution or school and contribute to the entire systems development If practiced regularly mindfulness would conduce to healthier collaborative behavior that would markedly improve Ugandan and other African educational systems This kind of mindful leadership requires each stakeholder to lead from inside the self and interconnection with others in a profound way This means leading by listening attentively and intently and embracing one another's voice nonjudgmentally for the common good

Educational Leadership and Moral Literacy Patrick M. Jenlink, 2014-03-18 What makes a moral person moral? Who decides what morality means? What makes leadership practice moral? In today's schools, what stands as moral leadership? These are questions that reflect the complexity integral to the calculus of human morality, especially in a world that is defined daily by its variant meanings of morality, its acts of immorality. The school as an educational setting is or should be a decidedly moral center of the society; it is the natural intersect between the family and the multi-dimensional nature of public life. Educational Leadership and Moral Literacy addresses these questions, situating the reader in a conversation that examines the meaning and nature of moral leadership through the lens of moral literacy and the dispositional aims of moral leadership in educational settings. The contributing authors extend an argument that the work of leader educators and practitioners alike must continuously be re-articulated around the dispositional aims aligned with a moral democratic education. Educators must be concerned with developing the moral intellectual and aesthetic dimensions of the educational leader as a moral person. Graduate School Catalogue University of Kansas. Graduate School, 1926

Advanced Theories of Educational Leadership Khalid Arar, Izhar Oplatka, 2022-10-06 Advanced Theories of Educational Leadership presents recent models of leadership and analyzes their components and implications in the educational context. Each chapter features the scholarly background of each model, its components, antecedents, and critically analyzes its values and application to educational institutions. Special attention is given to issues of social justice, equity, equality, anti-racism, and the like. This core text provides aspiring school leaders and administrators with each model, theory, and tools for applying it, with special attention to issues of social justice, equity, diversity, and anti-racism alike. The book is designed in a form of a course textbook for postgraduate students in the field of Educational Leadership and Administration, in studying each model. Also, it provides professors of educational leadership in teaching contents and methods in their courses about school leadership, school improvement, Educational Leadership Development, Superintendents Qualification, School Leadership Professional Development. Every chapter includes teaching tools, reflection questions, and practice activities for students. In addition, the book informs researchers and policymakers aiming at promoting multi-faceted educational leadership for equity and excellence and robust models of leading, improving, and changing schools.

Unmasking School Leadership Ciaran Sugrue, 2014-10-06 This book is a longitudinal life history of the lives and work of primary school principals in Ireland. It provides a unique opportunity to peer inside the realities of leading schools in changing times. In a system that until recently did not prepare principals for the onerous roles and responsibilities, a small system with limited mobility, interpersonal relationships emerge as critical, frequently privileged over professional relationships. Consequently, principals struggle to bring about change to build trust in order to cultivate a transformative leadership agenda while several aspects of systemic structures and processes emerge as constraints on leadership capacity building. In the absence of comprehensive leadership portfolio development, classroom teachers catapulted into the principal's office tend to be cautious and careful in ways that tend to perpetuate the status quo while putting a premium on the exercise of soft power and an over reliance on the good will of colleagues. Several of the leadership lessons that emerge from this in depth analysis concur with an increasing international consensus that due to complexity and increasingly performative policy demands learning about leadership for all is an absolute necessity. However care must be taken to avoid overly scripted programmes. Critical to the cultivation of a professionally responsible leadership disposition rather than capitulation to technologies of control is professional renewal cultivated through adequate attention to the Zone of Proximal Distance. Education Leadership and the COVID-19 Crisis Michelle Diane Young, Monica

Byrne-Jimenez, Margaret Grogan, 2022-03-04 Annual Catalogue of the University of Kansas Kansas.

University, University of Kansas, 1922 Educational Leadership And Management: Developing Insights And Skills Coleman, Marianne, Glover, Derek, 2010-04-01 Demonstrates the insights and skills needed by leaders in education in an increasingly diverse society. This book integrates theory with practice by presenting a real life scenario in each chapter. It promotes an ethical stance based on values of social justice and equity with a strong focus on cultural diversity. Teacher Leadership and Professional Development Alex Alexandrou, Sue Swaffield, 2016-05-06 Interest in and knowledge of leadership and learning separately and together is an international and continuing phenomenon. This book adds to a somewhat under researched aspect of the field. It focuses both on a particular form of leadership teacher leadership and on a particular form of learning professional development. It considers the connection between teacher leadership and professional development and the first chapter relates this connection to a Leadership for Learning conceptual framework developed through an international three year project. The book's chapters explore teacher leadership and professional development from a number of perspectives giving rise to three points of particular significance. Firstly the chapters show that either by accident or design there is a growing cadre of teacher leaders emerging from a multitude of professional development activities and initiatives. Secondly a number of new conceptual frameworks are put forward alongside the adaption and development of extant ones that add to the ever increasing theorisation of educational leadership and professional development literature. Thirdly the chapters provide evidence of the connections between leadership and learning as conceptualised in the Leadership for Learning framework. This book was originally published as a special issue of Professional Development in Education.
