Mark Casson, 2012-07-26 First published in 1986 this work reports the results of the Leverhulme project on multinationals and intermediate product trade based at the University of Reading during the academic year 1982-3 Chapter 1 summarizes the main results of this project Part I focuses upon the theoretical component of world trade dealing with both the theories of division of labour and vertical integration Part II presents a number of specially commissioned case studies relating to the project concerning the motor industry the bearing industry the synthetic fibre industry the tin industry the copper industry the banana industry and the shipping industry Information Computing and Applications, Part II Rongbo Zhu, Yanchun Zhang, Baoxiang Liu, Chunfeng Liu, 2010-09-27 This volume contains the proceedings of the International Conference on Information Computing and Applications ICICA 2010 which was held in Tangshan China October 15-18 2010 As future generation information technology information computing and applications become specialized information computing and applications including hardware software communications and networks are growing with ever increasing scale and heterogeneity and becoming overly complex The complexity is getting more critical along with the growing applications To cope with the growing and computing complexity information computing and applications focus on intelligent selfmanageable scalable computing systems and applications to the maximum extent possible without human intervention or guidance With the rapid development of information science and technology information computing has become the third approach of science research Information computing and applications is the field of study concerned with constructing intelligent computing mathematical models numerical solution techniques and using computers to analyze and solve natural scientific social scientific and engineering problems In practical use it is typically the application of computer simulation intelligent computing internet computing pervasive computing scalable computing trusted computing autonomy oriented computing evolutionary computing mobile computing computational statistics engineering computing multimedia networking and computing applications and other forms of computation problems in various scientific disciplines and engineering Information computing and applications is an important underpinning for techniques used in information and computational science and there are many unresolved problems that address worth studying Globalization John Glenn, 2007 Rather than claim that there exists a common concept of globalization that all parties can agree to this book seeks to examine some of the conceptions and the way in which they render different interpretations of particular aspects of globalization The last two decades have witnessed an explosive proliferation of academic writings on the subject of globalization which has been accompanied by a high level of interest in the media and widespread usage of the term This has inevitably resulted in the meaning of the concept broadening to include a whole host of issues running the attendant risk of losing any conceptual focus it had John Glenn examines five issue areas affected by globalization the economy sovereignty civil society governance communication In so doing the book aims to articulate certain questions within each area which will allow for some judgment to be made concerning the differing perspectives on globalization Globalization will be of interest to students of international political economy and politics and international relations in general Trade - The Engine of Growth in East Asia Peter C. Y. Chow, Mitchell H. Kellman, 1993-07-01 The New Industrializing Countries NICs of the Pacific Basin Taiwan South Korea Hong Kong and Singapore differ in many ways such as their languages cultures political and economic systems What is interesting is what economic characteristic they hold in common Each has succeeded in defying in what Chow and Kellman define as a vicious circle of poverty following World War II They provide a comprehensive analysis of the economic factors which fueled the engine of growth The authors combine a detailed body of empirical data with an unusually broad theoretical framework to highlight the factors in each industry and market which contributed to the success of these countries The work examines and forecasts potential competition from the surrounding geographic area in specific markets It contrasts the development of the NICs with Japan with next tier NICs and with each other in markets including those of the United States and the forthcoming united Europe Using modern economic theory and sophisticated quantitative techniques Trade The Engine of Growth in East Asia will clearly help scholars students policymakers and professionals in understanding these East Asian models of growth Trade, Development and Globalization Syed Javed Maswood, 2013-09-23 This book provides a longitudinal study of developing country involvement in multilateral trade negotiations The trade regime established at the end of the Second World War did not cater for and in some cases excluded the developmental interests of the newly independent countries This book offers a detailed analysis of The first attempts to revise the trade regime in the 1960s through the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development and the formation of the Group of 77 to enhance their bargaining potential The mixed coalition strategy with the Cairns Group in the Uruguay Round of GATT The new bargaining coalition the Group of Twenty that took on a much more confrontational and assertive bargaining position in the unsuccessful Doha round of the World Trade Organization In part two the author explores the possibility that economic globalization may finally deliver to developing countries what they had failed to achieve in five decades of multilateral negotiations an opportunity to climb the industrialization ladder and achieve development The book offers a proposal for revising the format of trade negotiations in a way that helps overcome stalemates and deadlocks Trade Development and Globalization will be of interest to students and scholars of international trade trade and development negotiation global governance political economy international relations and economics International Economics: A Heterodox Approach Hendrik Van den Berg, 2014-12-18 Now in its third edition this textbook covers all of the standard topics taught in undergraduate International Economics courses However the book is unique in that it presents the key orthodox neoclassical models of international trade and investment whilst supplementing them with a variety of heterodox approaches This pluralist approach is intended to give economics students a more realistic understanding of the international economy than standard textbooks can provide
