panics about bad media In this book leading historian of psychology Hannah Zeavin examines twentieth century pediatric psychological educational industrial and economic norms around mediated mothering and technologized parenting The book charts the crisis of the family across the twentieth century and the many ingenious attempts to remediate nursemaid and mother via speculative technologies and screen media Growing out of her previous award winning book The Distance Cure which considered technologized care the book lays bare the contradictions of techno parenting and how it relates to conceptions of maternal fitness medical redlining and surveillance of children parents and other caregivers The author offers narratives of parenting in its extremity for example Shaken Baby Syndrome and its ostensible banality for example the Nanny Cam and how the two are often intertwined Ultimately Zeavin grapples with a simple contradiction technology is seen and judged as harmful in domestic and educational spaces even as it is a saving grace in the unending labor of raising a family
