Diplomatic Identity in Postwar Britain James Southern, 2021-05-09 This book seeks to understand the complex ways in which the Foreign Office adapted to the rise of identity politics in Britain as it administered British foreign policy during the Cold War and the end of the British Empire After the Second World War cultural changes in British society forced a reconsideration of erstwhile diplomatic archetypes as restricting recruitment to white heterosexual upper or middle class men gradually became less socially acceptable and less politically expedient After the advent of the tripartite school system and then mass university education the Foreign Office had to consider recruiting candidates who were qualified but had not been socialized in the public schools and Oxbridge Similarly the passage of the 1948 Nationality Act technically meant nonwhites were eligible to join The rise of the gay rights movement and postwar women s liberation both generated further unique dilemmas for Foreign Office recruiters Diplomatic Identity in Postwar Britain seeks to destabilize concepts like talent merit equality and representation arguing that these were contested ideas that were subject to political and cultural renegotiation and revision throughout the period in question

Handbook of Marriage and the Family Suzanne K. Steinmetz, Marvin B. Sussman, 2013-11-11 The lucid straightforward Preface of this Handbook by the two editors and the comprehensive perspectives offered in the Introduction by one of them leave little for a Foreword to add It is therefore limited to two relevant but not intrinsically related points vis a vis research on marriage and the family in the interval since the first Handbook Christensen 1964 appeared namely the impact on this research of the politicization of the New Right and of the Feminist Enlightenment beginning in the mid sixties about the time of the first Handbook In the late 1930s Willard Waller noted Fifty years or more ago about 1890 most people had the greatest respect for the institution called the family and wished to learn nothing whatever about it Everything that concerned the life of men and women and their children was shrouded from the light Today much of that has been changed Gone is the concealment of the way in which life begins gone the irrational sanctity of the home The aura of sentiment which once protected the family from discussion clings to it no more We want to learn as much about it as we can and to understand it as thoroughly as possible for there is a rising recognition in America that vast numbers of its families are sick from internal frustrations and from external buffeting We are engaged in the process of reconstructing our family institutions through criticism and discussion 1938 pp 3 4
