IMPROVING SCHOOLS FOR AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDENTS Sheryl J. Denbo,Lynson Moore Beaulieu,2002-01-01 Improving Schools for African American Students is designed to provide educational leaders with a better understanding of how to recognize the diversity of strengths that Black students bring with them to school and how to use these strengths to improve achievement. The articles contained in this book discuss generic education issues such as policy reform, the importance of high quality teaching, and the improvement of schools from the perspective of the academic achievement of African American students. Part I explores institutional racism in the context of America's public schools and provides suggestions for educational leaders to eliminate harmful policies and practices within educational institutions and settings. Part II discusses the kinds of institutional and instructional changes that are needed to support successful schooling of African American children and youth. Part III focuses on the challenges presented to African American students by the current high stakes testing environment that surrounds standards assessment and accountability. A review of the literature on schools that have succeeded in improving achievement for African American students at the elementary, middle, and high school levels with districts moving towards narrowing the achievement gap is included. This text examines a wide variety of policies, programs, practices, and research that will provide valuable insight. The emphasis throughout the book is on the ability of educators to successfully restructure their schools, offer high quality teaching and learning standards for African American students, and to make the kinds of changes that will result in high achievement for all students.

Peace & Efficiency in School

Administration Norman Fergus Black, 1926 Centering Educational Administration Robert J. Starratt, 2003-04-02 In this book Starratt enters the national conversation among educational administration scholars and practitioners about what constitutes the core of their knowledge and practice. In Part I he develops three main themes: cultivating meaning, community, and moral responsibility, which he then positions against national themes about the core of educational administration: school improvement, democratic community, and social justice. Rather than focusing on the routine managerial tasks normally associated with school administration—budgeting, personnel, and legal problems, time and resource management, etc.—this text asks aspiring school leaders to reflect first on the underlying philosophical and sociological perspectives that constitute the substance of administrative work in education. Centering Educational Administration provides a unique perspective on leadership. The author views leadership as organically related to teaching and learning, as concerned with internal capacity building in response to state-imposed accountability pressures, and as an existential process of writing one's autobiography through their day-to-day work. An Interdisciplinary View of Educational Administration: Centering Educational Administration asks educational administrators to bring contemporary philosophical, ethical, and anthropological issues, as well as learning theory, social theory, and political theory into their thinking about the daily operation of the school. A Unique Perspective on School Improvement asserts that school improvement, narrowly defined as improving results on high stakes tests, can likewise place the nation at risk. An equally important agenda is teaching the young the basic satisfactions, norms, and potential of using their knowledge in the service of the community and of a wider humanity. Exercises in Reflective Practice This book challenges the reader to use the ideas of each chapter to analyze the current practices in their school and to propose concrete changes to improve the teaching and learning environment of their school Keeping and Improving Today's School Leaders Bruce S. Cooper, Sharon C. Conley, 2011 Keeping and Improving Today's school leaders examines the process of sustaining and retaining quality leaders at the school and district levels Beginning with a foreword by Michelle D Young on the importance of administrative leadership in schools subsequent chapters address the following six steps of critical organizational supports for leaders the need for socializing assistant principals into their roles administrators perceptions of their administrative teams school routines and rituals the need for administrator mentoring of Latino a leaders and the relationship between superintendent leadership and principal job satisfaction and efficacy Concluding with thoughts about retaining and sustaining the best leaders in dynamic environments the chapters offer contemporary views on retaining and encouraging school administrators throughout the life cycle The chapters provide needed insight into what should and must be done to develop the best leaders for U S schools From cover Improving School Leadership, Volume 1 Policy and Practice Pont Beatriz, Moorman Hunter, Nusche Deborah, 2008-08-06 Based on an OECD study of school leadership practices and policies around the world this book identifies four policy levers and a range of policy options to help governments improve school leadership now and build sustainable leadership for the future
