Labour Markets In The Sudan A Study Ca:

Cooperatives, the State, and Corporate Power in African Export Agriculture Karin Wedig, 2019-02-22 Agriculture is a major contributor to Africa's GDP the region's biggest source of employment and its largest food producer. However, agricultural productivity remains low and buyer-driven global value chains offer few opportunities for small producers to upgrade into higher value added activities. In recent years the revival of Africa's cooperatives has been celebrated by governments and international donors as a pathway towards inclusive agricultural development and this book explores the strengths but also the issues which surround these cooperatives. The book scrutinizes the neoliberal ideal of economic prosperity arising through the operation of liberalized labor markets by illuminating the discriminatory nature of Uganda's informal labor relations. It points to the role of cooperatives as a potential instrument of progressive change in African export agriculture where large numbers of small producers depend on casual wage work in addition to farming. In contrast to the portrayal advanced by some governments and rarely questioned by donors of an unproblematic co-existence of small producers' collective action and big capital interests the author calls for a re-politicized debate on the Social and Solidarity Economy. As part of this she highlights the adverse political and economic conditions faced by African cooperatives including intense international competition in agricultural processing, inadequate access to infrastructure and services and at times antagonistic state-cooperative relations. Supported by wide-ranging interdisciplinary evidence including new ethnographic survey and interview data this book shows how cooperatives may be co-opted by both the state and corporations in a discourse that ignores structural inequalities in value chains and emphasizes poverty reduction over economic and political empowerment. It provides a critique of New Institutional Economics as a framework for understanding how institutions shape redistribution and develops a political economy approach to explore the conditions for structural change in African export agriculture.

Social and Economic Development in the Arab Gulf Tim Niblock, 2015-05-15 The crucial importance of the Gulf region today which may be defined as comprising the states of Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Kuwait, Oman, Bahrain, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates with Iran as a non-Arab onlooker has stimulated surprisingly little interest in academic circles. Much of what has been written moreover focuses exclusively on those aspects of direct concern to external interests. The focus of this book is on the Gulf region as an area with its own problems of social, economic and political development. It examines the dimensions of the attempts by the governments and peoples of the area to create new social, economic and political structures stemming mainly of course from their new found oil wealth. New Approaches to Manpower Planning and Analysis International Labour Office, 1994 This study re-examines the role and relevance of manpower planning and analysis in the developing countries of Africa, notably Botswana and Asia, in the light of the imperatives of structural adjustment programmes and explores the information needs of economies in transition in the context of a shift to market-oriented policies. Topics covered include methodology, the role of government and the types of labour market analysis required The book contains a suggested research agenda Library Acquisitions List Martin P. Catherwood Library,1992 Making a Living in Rural Sudan Elke Grawert,2016-07-27 This study aims to sensitize those concerned with Africa s development to the scope and limits of peasant livelihood securing activities It combines results of research in the fields of peasant actions food security gender relations and labour migration to a livelihood approach Analyzing peasant life in western Sudan leads to the demand to keep options open A review of the development programmes which affected the Sudanese rural population between independence and 1994 discloses that peasants efforts have largely been obstructed Bulletin of the Public Affairs Information Service Public Affairs Information Service,1924 Public Affairs Information Service Bulletin ,1924 World Development Report 2013 World Bank,2012-10-15 Jobs provide higher earnings and better benefits as countries grow but they are also a driver of development Poverty falls as people work their way out of hardship and as jobs empowering women lead to greater investments in children Efficiency increases as workers get better at what they do as more productive jobs appear and less productive ones disappear Societies flourish as jobs bring together people from different ethnic and social backgrounds and provide alternatives to conflict Jobs are thus more than a byproduct of economic growth They are transformational they are what we earn what we do and even who we are High unemployment and unmet job expectations among youth are the most immediate concerns But in many developing countries where farming and self employment are prevalent and safety nets are modest are best unemployment rates can be low In these countries growth is seldom jobless Most of their poor work long hours but simply cannot make ends meet And the violation of basic rights is not uncommon Therefore the number of jobs is not all that matters jobs with high development payoffs are needed Confronted with these challenges policy makers ask difficult questions Should countries build their development strategies around growth or should they focus on jobs Can entrepreneurship be fostered especially among the many microenterprises in developing countries or are entrepreneurs born Are greater investments in education and training a prerequisite for employability or can skills be built through jobs In times of major crises and structural shifts should jobs not just workers be protected And is there a risk that policies supporting job creation in one country will come at the expense of jobs in other countries The World Development Report 2013 Jobs offers answers to these and other difficult questions by looking at jobs as drivers of development not as derived labor demand and by considering all types of jobs not just formal wage employment The Report provides a framework that cuts across sectors and shows that the best policy responses vary across countries depending on their levels of development endowments demography and institutions Policy fundamentals matter in all cases as they enable a vibrant private sector the source of most jobs in the world Labor policies can help as well even if they are less critical than is often assumed Development policies from making smallholder farming viable to fostering functional cities to engaging in global markets hold the key to success Meeting the Challenges of Megacities in the Developing World National Research Council,1998-12 Cities

Sinclair, 2020-07-26 The Arab world increasingly falls into two divisions the capital poor and the capital rich countries where capital means in essence oil In the capital rich countries shortage of labour is the chief constraint on growth In the capital poor countries analysis of the labour market is equally central as shortage of labour compounds the already existing problem of shortage of capital This book surveys the labour markets of the Arab world state by state evaluating them by demand and supply analysis and analysing the different elements in trends of employment It forecasts the areas of stress in the next decade and suggests ways of minimising them The book based on much previously unpublished information and on extensive on the spot research in the respective Arab countries sets out the economic and social conditions which underly the impending crisis of development in the Arab region First published in 1980 The Changing Middle Eastern City G.H. Blake, R.I. Lawless, 2016-03-22 The Middle East defined here as extending from Morocco to Iran and Turkey to Sudan lies at the crossroads of three continents Africa Asia and Europe With the largest reserves of petroleum in the world its importance is well beyond its physical size and population Rapid urban growth has radically transformed Middle Eastern society in recent decades but the associated problems are incompletely understood This volume first published in 1980 highlights some of the major issues of Middle Eastern urbanisation and provides a comprehensive statement about the current position of research Urban origins and the nature of urban growth are discussed to provide a background to considerations of migration employment housing and retailing The contributors suggest that planning strategies have hitherto proved inadequate with small towns being largely overlooked historic quarters rapidly disappearing and water in short supply Future research into all these problem areas is considered essential but the research must be coordinated and utilised Concentrating on practical problems achievements and challenges for research the contributions in this book specially commissioned from active researchers in the field will prove a valuable guide to recent ideas and developments in the Middle East Kordafan Invaded Endre Stiansen, Michael Kevane, 1998 The book will be of interest to scholars of Africa and Islam because of its novel

Mobilizing Human Resources in the Arab World (RLE Economy of Middle East)

R. Paul Shaw, 2015-05-15 R Paul Shaw has travelled widely in the Arab world obtaining data and gathering impressions first hand from national and local planners In this book he identifies population and manpower problems that are likely to become more serious and more difficult to solve if they are neglected at this early stage of Arab development He focuses on five broad areas which are directly or indirectly related to mobilizing human resources and his book will be of special interest to all those who are concerned with such issues as population migration employment inequality the emancipation of women construction and agriculture Dr Shaw proposes policy directives which are sensitive to the problems as they are seen by the Arab governments themselves and sets out practical guidelines which can be used by Arab planners and policy makers An important feature of the book with respect to current literature on Arab development is that it moves away from a preoccupation with growth related investments to a concentration on development related population manpower and employment issues By bringing together such comprehensive empirical and bibliographic information it will also be invaluable as a reference source for some twenty Arab countries First published in 1983
