Program Development in Computational Logic Maurice Bruynooghe, Kung-Kiu Lau, 2004-06-17 1 The tenth anniversary of the LOPSTR symposium provided the incentive for this volume LOPSTR started in 1991 as a workshop on logic program synthesis and transformation but later it broadened its scope to logic based program development in general that is program development in computational logic and hence the title of this volume The motivating force behind LOPSTR has been the belief that declarative paradigms such as logic programming are better suited to program development tasks than traditional non declarative ones such as the imperative paradigm Specification synthesis transformation or specialization analysis debugging and verification can all be given logical foundations thus providing a unifying framework for the whole development process In the past 10 years or so such a theoretical framework has indeed begun to emerge Even tools have been implemented for analysis verification and specialization However it is fair to say that so far the focus has largely been on programming in the small So the future challenge is to apply or extend these techniques to programming in the large in order to tackle software engineering in the real world Returning to this volume our aim is to present a collection of papers that reflect significant research efforts over the past 10 years These papers cover the whole development process specification synthesis analysis transformation and specialization as well as semantics and systems

Functional And Logic Programming - Proceedings Of The Second Fuji International Workshop Tetsuo Ida, Masato Takeichi, Atsushi Ohori, 1997-03-18 This book discusses issues concerning functional programming logic programming and integration of the two The topics include language design formal semantics compilation techniques program transformation programming methods integration of programming paradigms constraint solving and concurrency
