Ideology And National Competitiveness An Analysis Of 9 Countries:

Managerialism Willard F. Enteman, 1993 As capitalist countries continue to celebrate the demise of socialism Willard F Enteman makes the startling assertion that capitalism has already ended Additionally Enteman argues that industrialized nations are not democratic either In Managerialism Enteman explores the fundamental principles of the three dominant world ideologies capitalism socialism and democracy and proposes that a new ideology which he calls managerialism more accurately describes the current world situation Right Makes Might David C. Gompert, 1998 The emergence of China begs a fresh look at power in world affairs more precisely at how the spread of freedom globalization knowledge knowledge powers as partners coda on U S policy Concludes that the U S need not fear a cold war with China China s own priorities economic growth stability propel it toward legitimacy that can only come through reform toward the dominant technology

Competitiveness and American Society Steven L. Goldman, 1993 The claim that U S industry is in a crisis that it stands at a turning point in its competitiveness with foreign rivals seems on the face of it an objective description of the prevailing state of affairs But what does competitiveness mean when it is used to describe an entire industry an economy a nation What is the relationship between industrial competitiveness and the personal and social value placed on competition What are the social roots of competition that have made it an enduring American value How does the current competitiveness debate serve special interests seeking to preserve or extend their social power The essays presented in Competitiveness and American Society all written especially for this volume address these and related questions The answers they offer reveal the political character of the competitiveness debate as well as the complexity and ambiguity of the value judgments with which competitiveness issues are entangled The perspectives taken by the authors range from the austere economic through the political and managerial to the richly sociological The opening essay rejects the possibility let alone the factuality of a national competitiveness crisis the closing essay explicitly identifies the root causes of the crisis as national Other essays look to relationships among culture society and industry in the U S and Japan as factors shaping America s competitiveness crisis and the Western European response to that crisis One essay explores mechanisms that would allow the public to play a constructive role in managerial decision making another explores the complications that have followed from mandating the management of resources in accordance with social values The common denominator of all of the essays is an engagement with the role that social value judgments play in determining the competitiveness of individual firms For some this role is broad and definitive for others it is narrowly circumscribed Taken together the essays in Competitiveness and American Society establish the need for wider participation in the debate over the competitiveness of U S industry than has been held so far What is needed is a debate that addresses the quality of American life and the health of the industrial sector of the economy a debate that opens for public deliberation the changes in personal and social values and institutions that will be required to shape that interdependence BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America

Mann, Klaus Götz, 2006-06-30 From extending successful brands into exotic new markets to tapping talent in virtual teams to building ultra complex supplier and distributor networks today's executives and managers must consider the international implications of every decision they make Certainly globalization has its detractors but for business leaders the issue is not to debate the merits of globalization but to learn how to thrive in the global marketplace In Borderless Business the authors tackle every major dimension of business from marketing to human resource management to supply chains to accounting and finance and demonstrate how they play out in a global context Each chapter describes the new skills and competencies that managers must master in order to lead their companies in this environment Featuring current data and dozens of case examples and applications from around the world Borderless Business will serve as a practical handbook for executives and managers and an indispensable text for students of international business From extending successful brands into exotic new markets to tapping talent in virtual teams to building ultra complex supplier and distributor networks today's executives and managers must consider the international implications of every decision they make To put the magnitude of global business in context consider that between 1820 and 1992 world population increased 5 fold world income 40 fold and world trade 540 fold And in the past decade the pace of change has only accelerated with the Internet for example making connections instantaneous and ubiquitous and global aspirations attainable for even the smallest of enterprises Certainly globalization has its detractors but for today's business leaders the issue is not to debate the merits of globalization but to learn how to thrive in the global marketplace In Borderless Business the authors tackle every major dimension of globalization from marketing to human resource management to supply chains to accounting and finance and demonstrate how these issues play out in a global context Each chapter describes the new skills and competencies that managers must master in order to lead their companies in this environment where every management challenge is amplified Featuring current data and dozens of case examples and applications from around the world Borderless Business will serve as a practical handbook for executives and managers and as an indispensable text for students of international business      Strategy and Ethnic Conflict Laure Paquette, 2002-02-28 Ethnic conflict now presents the thorniest problems for military and civilian strategists of all stripes This book presents a new general theory of strategy encompassing studies of the relationship between values interest and strategy as these relate to ethnic conflicts It focuses on the relationship between values and strategy building a theory on the hypothesis that national values influence national strategy Paquette's research reveals that national values influence national strategy through three mechanisms cognition appreciation and evaluation Each mechanism and indeed the whole value focused approach to strategic thinking is described using a network of interrelated statements Paquette develops a methodology specific to the issues of international security and ethnic considerations She tests this theory extensively for internal consistency before applying it to a single historical case French decision making on national strategy between 1955 and 1970

however because of its generality this same theory could easily be applied to other cases As with any theory it is possible to vary successively or simultaneously assumptions or conditions and to derive new predictions This process of deriving variations has the potential to help in the training of strategists both military and civilian

The Rise, Decline and Renewal of Silicon Valley's High Technology Industry Dan Khanna, 2018-03-26 Originally published in 1997 this book examines the unique nature and characteristics of Silicon Valley and looks at the factors that led to the economic and competitiveness problems of the 1980s The research concluded that the information revolution caused a complex set of events that had global ramifications Silicon Valley was no longer operating as a driver of this revolution but it was facing the onslaught of the global competitiveness it had unleashed

Unavoidable Industrial Restructuring in Latin America Fernando Fajnzylber, 1990 In the recent economic history of Latin America no country has yet found the means to combine effectively economic growth with equity Unavoidable Industrial Restructuring in Latin America compares the development path of Latin America with that of the East Asian newly industrialized countries NICs the United States and Europe in the 1970s and 1980s to show the national policies and international cooperation necessary to set Latin American countries on the road to healthy economies Fernando Fajnzylber argues that technological and industrial progress is the driving force of a positive relationship among dynamism competitiveness austerity and equity Latin America's failure to master this technological progress underlies its economic difficulties To overcome the inheritance of past mistakes the author maintains Latin America must undergo not only macroeconomic stabilization and a reduction of the debt burden but also a complete transformation of the production structure The role of the state and the institutional setup need to be modified and new social and sectoral policies devised Fajnzylber sees this radical restructuring as an unavoidable step if Latin America is ever to achieve a workable balance between growth and equity

Trajectories Kuan-Hsing Chen, 2005-10-05 Trajectories brings together cultural theorists not only from countries with a known historical critical tradition such as America Canada and Australia but from the East Asia locations of Hong Kong Korea Singapore Taiwan Philippines India and Thailand It constitutes a critical confrontation between the imperial and colonial coordinates of north and south east and west Without rejecting the Anglo American practices of cultural studies the contributors present critical cultural studies as an internationalist and decolonized project Trajectories links critical energies together and charts future directions of the discipline The contributors discuss subjects such as Japanese colonial discourse cultural studies out of Europe Chinese nationalism in the context of global capitalism white panic stories from East Timor queer life in Taiwan and new social movements in Korea The book ends with an interview with Stuart Hall

Politics And Traditional Culture: The Political Use Of Traditions In Contemporary China Janette Jiawen Ai, 2014-09-19

This book examines the political use of China's traditions by the party state in contemporary China. It argues that the party state has taken an official Marxist stance in terms of the political use of tradition. Besides looking at the official Marxist stance, this book also looks at critiques of the party state's use of traditions by the Liberalists and Neo traditionalists. The underlying political ideologies of these three camps are Marxism, Liberalism, and Neo traditionalism. These three political ideologies have been the most influential in Chinese politics since the Republican Revolution in 1911. The contemporary political use of China's traditions is a competition between Marxism, Liberalism, and Neo traditionalism. This competition is critical to the future of Chinese politics. This book also examines three cases representing identical ways of the political use of traditions. The three cases are the children's reading of the classics movement, the construction of a Chinese Cultural Symbolic City, the construction and subsequent removal of a statue of Confucius in and from Tiananmen Square, and the revision of the official list of public holidays. The study of the three cases attempts to shed light on the three ways Chinese traditions have been used politically by the party state. It also attempts to explore the reasons for the party's use of Chinese traditions, the reasons for the party's scepticism with regard to using Chinese traditions, and more importantly, the competition and/or cooperation between Marxists, Liberalists, and Neo traditionalists.

Integrating Ethics With Strategy:

Selected Papers Of Alan E Singer Alan E Singer, 2007-08-23. This volume brings together 18 innovative articles on business strategy and ethics. Originally appearing in reputed journals, the articles are interrelated and focus on complex linkages between ethics and strategy in business. The first of its three sections discusses various frameworks developed by the author that explicitly integrate strategy with ethics. The second section comprises articles placing business ethics relative to management science models and systems thinking. The final section applies some of the foregoing ideas to strategic and social issues including poverty alleviation, corruption reduction, political divestment decisions, intellectual property rights, and pharmaceutical industrial strategy.

Privatisation and Liberalisation in European Telecommunications Willem Hulsink, 2012-12-06. This book combines a detailed sector specific study of comparative telecommunications regimes set in the context of the EC with an extensive historical and empirical analysis of individual policy management and change as experienced by three diverse regulatory cultures, namely Britain, the Netherlands, and France. By adopting a comprehensive analytical framework based on far reaching literature, the author explores a wide range of theories addressing key issues at the forefront of contemporary political and academic debate: do nation states matter in the globalizing telecommunications industry? Does the common challenge of techno global telecommunications restructuring elicit different national responses? What is the significance of a single speed or multi speed Europe in implementing telecommunications governance regimes?

Governing Singapore Raj Vasil, 2020-08-27. Singapore has its critics but the city state has achieved remarkable successes.

as a result of the voluntary trade off of certain political rights for economic and social progress In Governing Singapore Raj Vasil supports this national bargain He argues that in Asian new states like Singapore economic and social under development as well as ethnic diversity and divisions make it impossible for Western liberal democracy to function effectively as an instrument of popular rule The problems of under development faced by Asian new states since decolonisation and independence continue to prove that democracy alone is not enough national development and the need to adapt democracy to economic and social realities are equally important Through reconciling democracy with national development Singapore has transformed from a poor backward Third World island into a prosperous and dynamic First World nation Today Singapore is far better prepared for greater democratisation and increased popular participation The Politics of

Landscapes in Singapore Lily Kong, Brenda S. A. Yeoh, 2003-02-01 This thought provoking book explores strategies employed by Singapore a multiracial society to create a Singapore nation with an emphasis on the role of landscape As such the authors cast keen eye on religious buildings public housing heritage landscapes and street name changes as tangible methods of nation building in a postcolonial society The authors illustrate how nation and national identity are concepts that are negotiated and disputed by varied social economic and political groups some of which may actively resist powerful state centrist attitudes Throughout this work the role of the landscape prevails both as a way to naturalize state ideologies and as a means of providing possibilities for reinterpretation in everyday life The Productive Efficiency of Container Terminals

Dong-Wook Song, Kevin Cullinane, Michael Roe, 2017-07-05 This work applies the theory and techniques of economic efficiency measurement to the realistic context of the ports industry The objective is to assess the practical impact of port privatization policies upon the economic performance of the sector Specifically this volume presents Korea's port and terminal development plans and systematically analyses not only the process and results of privatisation but also the claims of its proponents that it leads directly to improved efficiency The Korean experience is given global relevance by applying the same approach to Britain's main container ports and terminals which of course are at a more advanced stage in the privatisation process This work constitutes a unique contribution to the literature relating to shipping and ports econometrics and the Korean economy and will be of primary interest to port authorities and practitioners as well as to students of economics and or the shipping industry The Competitive Advantage of Nations: The Case of Turkey

Özlem Öz, 2019-05-23 First published in 1999 this volume applies Professor Michael Porter's diamond framework 1990 to the Turkish glass construction leather clothes automobile and flat steel industries zlam z aims primarily to contribute towards an improvement of this framework and thus towards a better understanding of the sources of competitive advantage Her research presents a new approach to evaluate the competitiveness of the Turkish economy given that alternative studies usually focus on factors like exchange rates and the cost of labour and raw materials as the determinants of competitive advantage The author begins her book by providing an evaluation of the diamond framework linked to the debate created by the publication of The

Competitive Advantage of Nations She then identifies the pattern of advantage in Turkey by specifying the internationally competitive industries and clusters This is followed by a detailed examination of the five Turkish industry case studies glass construction leather clothes automobile and flat steel industries The findings are generally supportive of Porter The results suggest however several major areas in the framework especially domestic rivalry and the role of government where one or more of the Turkish cases question Porter s hypotheses The book ends with the implications of the study for the sources of competitive advantage in general and for the Turkish economy in particular Porter and his diamond framework are both unquestionably influential Improvements upon it forwarded in this book will be of use to academic readers as well as strategic planners and policy makers
