Ifo Survey Data In Business Cycle And Monetary Policy Analysis:

Ifo Survey Data in Business Cycle and Monetary Policy Analysis Jan-Egbert Sturm, Timo Wollmershäuser, 2006-03-30 A pilot flying to a distant city needs to check his position, flight path and weather conditions and must constantly keep his plane under control to land safely. The Ifo survey data provide advance information on changing economic weather conditions and help keep the economy under control. To be sure by their very nature they only provide short term information. But like a plane the economy will not be able to reach its long term goals if it strays off course in the short term. The Ifo survey data provide the most comprehensive and accurate to date database in Europe on the state of the business cycle and the Ifo climate indicator, sometimes simply called The Ifo, is the most frequently cited indicator of its kind in Europe. Both the European stock market and the euro react to our indicator. Ifo's methodology for determining the business climate indicator has been exported to more than fifty countries, most recently to Turkey and China. The Ifo people were proud to have been asked to help set up polling systems in these countries. It is said that the Chinese government relies more on their Ifo indicator than on their official accounting statistics.

Kar yiu Wong Institute of International and Regional Economic Relations University of Du burg Essen Campus Duisburg

Germany Department of Economics University of Washington Seattle USA The rapid growth of world trade has become one of the most phenomenal features of the international order after the World War While different countries were perienicing various growth rates of their economies most of them found out that foreign trade grew much faster than their economies As a matter of fact for most economies foreign trade has been determined to be one of the biggest and the most consistent contributors to economic growth Nowadays world trade is a very complicated phenomenon because it is not just an economic but also a social political environmental labour and legal matter Economists care about world trade because economies are getting more and more open and world trade is related to the properties of open economies Government planners care about world trade because it is related to many issues that the economies are facing Resource allocation income distribution employment p duction consumption government revenue economic growth and economic w fare A right trade policy will enhance the economic welfare and growth of the economy in a more harmonious and equitable way A wrong policy however could spell disaster The Politics of Exchange Rates in Developing Countries Ralph Setzer,2006-09-21 1 1 The context What factors determine a country's exchange rate regime Since the collapse of the Bretton Woods system of fixed exchange rates in 1973 economists have been increasingly interested in answering this question Analysts focused primarily on the possible influence of optimum currency area (OCA) criteria such as a country's size openness to trade or factor mobility More recent approaches emphasized the nature and the sources of shocks to which an economy is exposed or explicitly took imperfections on financial markets into account However despite a large body of work little consensus has emerged about the determinants of exchange rate regime choice The existing empirical literature could not identify a single variable as a clear predictor of exchange rate regime choice and even among economically comparable countries large discrepancies in exchange rate policy have been observed see e.g. the survey on the literature in Juhn and Mauro 2002 The inconclusiveness of traditional approaches to explain exchange rate regime choice is the stimulus for this dissertation My main point is that political and institutional conditions help to account for differences in exchange rate policy In other areas of economic policy it has become standard to argue that government's macroeconomic preferences are an important determinant in economic policymaking and should not be neglected when analyzing macroeconomic outcomes

Population Ageing and Economic Growth Sandra Gruescu, 2007-05-26 1 1 Motivation and main question of this research A modern society faces two alternatives with regards to its population trend It can either grow or age A population which chooses not to grow any more or which chooses to shrink will necessarily age And because of the impossibility of all populations in all countries growing forever it is likely that every country will face this ageing process at some point in time Because of this and the importance of economic growth for the well being of a society the relationship between an ageing population and economic growth will be relevant for each country It is already an important and much discussed matter for many Although population ageing is faced by virtually all industrialised countries the time frame and the intensity of the process vary The substantial changes forecasted for the demographic structure of many countries over coming decades have led to substantial research activity aiming to analyse and quantify the effects of these changes on a nation's economic performance A change in population size and population growth rate can affect both the demand and supply side of an economy The extent of the effects however is not clear The structure of a population for example regarding distribution of age or gender may also influence the economic performance of a society

Negotiations with Asymmetrical Distribution of Power Klaus Winkler, 2006-10-12 Negotiations are of increasing importance in highly regulated sectors particularly in network industries such as telecommunications and transport Negotiating partners in these markets are often not equal with regard to their various sources and instruments of power This analysis shows that negotiations are possible and can be efficient for all actors even when power is distributed asymmetrically Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) mechanisms are discussed as an alternative to conventional negotiations

Effective and Efficient Organisations? Iris A. Hauswirth,2007-05-22 This book develops a conceptual framework for the relationship between organisation and output and applies it to the analysis of German and British export support services These findings help to explain why one organisation may be different from another but equally effective and efficient and why no panacea for effective and efficient organisation has been found They also suggest angles from which existing organisations and blueprints of better organisations can be examined

Pension Systems Birgit Mattil,2006-03-08 Recently policy debate and comparative research on old age pensions have focused on the financial sustainability of pension systems in the face of demographic change This study however also takes into account distributional effects involved in pension system structures Theoretical institutional and empirical analyses are combined to form a comprehensive framework for evaluating financial sustainability and distributional effects of the pension systems implemented in Germany and the United Kingdom Along with projections of demographic trends and future public pension expenditure the empirical results on old age incomes and their distribution allow for identifying a number of reform options for each pension system to improve their financial or distributional results

Evolution of Italian Enterprises in the 20th Century Renato Giannetti,Michelangelo Vasta,2009-06-10 During the first two thirds of the 20th century the themes of sectorial structure and compared performance prevail in Italian economic historiography In contrast in the last part of the century attention is focused on the behavior of single economic actors and their micro economic strategies This book intends to act as a bridge between the two approaches and reconstructs the secular journey of Italian industrial enterprise through an original study

Product Standards, Exports and Employment Rajat Acharyya,2006-03-30 Through the process of globalization the trade dependence and int dependence of the developing countries have increased phenomenally than ever before The characteristic of this late twentieth century globalization process has been the new technological revolution that has led to a high rate of world exports of electronics and other high technology products This has marginalized most of the developing countries exporting largely the low quality and low value addition manufacturing and primary products barring a few exceptions like China India and Mexico The fruits of globalization have therefore been unevenly distributed so far across the developed and the developing countries Moreover whatever little growth in exports of medium technology products has been achieved by a few of them is largely driven by outsourcing of low value addition and low stage of activities by the foreign multinationals Outsourcing of software services rather than development of software packages in India and assembly line for automobiles in Mexico are the two glaring examples These activities may have boosted the total exports of these countries but they have failed to generate any feedback effect on the rest of the economy in terms of skill formation increase in overall productivity level and product diversification

Governance of Communication Networks Brigitte Preissl,Jürgen Müller,2007-01-30 Few would doubt the potential of information technology to connect individuals firms and organisations Whether this will actually lead to the integration of markets and societies is a different issue The articles collected in this book shed light on crucial considerations for the success of global communication networks These include frameworks for regulation inclusion of customers in defining product and service strategies access to advanced technology and networks for all groups and more

Regionalisation, Growth, and Economic Integration George M. Korres,2007-08-27 This book analyses the process of regionalisation and plots its future development Regionalisation is a common feature of the changing territorial organisation of European states today Regionalisation alone however cannot produce any of the benefits attributed to it without looking into the conditions in which it occurs Bringing together theory and empirical applications coverage examines a host of these conditions

Project Governance Patrick S. Renz,2007-07-19 This book unveils a gap in the governance of development projects that ultimately hinders effective transparent and accountable usage of resources Illustrated with entertaining examples the book develops a Project Governance model The models six modules build an integrated strategically oriented and ethically reflected platform for a more truthful and efficient cooperation in difficult projects or programs such as in development
