Lyrics

Sting, 2009-07-16 From the first Police album Outlandos D'Amour through Sacred Love here are the collected lyrics written by Sting along with his commentary Publishing my lyrics separately from their musical accompaniment is something that I've studiously avoided until now The two lyrics and music have always been mutually dependent in much the same way as a mannequin and a set of clothes are dependent on each other separate them and what remains is a naked dummy and a pile of cloth Nevertheless the exercise has been an interesting one seeing perhaps for the first time how successfully the lyrics survive on their own and inviting the question as to whether song lyrics are in fact poetry or something else entirely And while I've never seriously described myself as a poet the book in your hands devoid as it is of any musical notation looks suspiciously like a book of poems So it seems I am entering with some trepidation the unadorned realm of the poet I have set out my compositions in the sequence they were written and provided a little background when I thought it might be illuminating My wares have neither been sorted nor dressed in clothes that do not belong to them indeed they have been shorn of the very garments that gave them their shape in the first place No doubt some of them will perish in the cold cruelty of this new environment and yet others may prove more resilient and become perhaps more beautiful in their naked state I can't predict the outcome but I have taken this risk knowingly and while no one in their right mind should ever attempt to set The Waste Land to music in the hopeful words of T.S. Eliot These fragments I have shored against my ruins Sting from the Introduction

Copyright Office,1975 Speaking My Mind Dorit Bar-On,2004-11-18 Dorit Bar On develops and defends a novel view of avowals and self knowledge Drawing on resources from the philosophy of language the theory of action epistemology and the philosophy of mind she offers original and systematic answers to many long standing questions concerning our ability to know our own minds We are all very good at telling what states of mind we are in at a given moment When it comes to our own present states of mind what we say goes an avowal such as I m feeling so anxious or I m thinking about my next trip to Paris it is typically supposed tells it like it is But why is that Why should what I say about my present mental states carry so much more weight than what others say about them Why should avowals be more immune to criticism and correction than other claims we make And if avowals are not based on any evidence or observation how could they possibly express our knowledge of our own present mental states Bar On proposes a Neo Expressivist view according to which an avowal is an act through which a person directly expresses rather than merely reports the very mental condition that the avowal ascribes She argues that this expressivist idea coupled with an adequate characterization of expression and a proper separation of the semantics of avowals from their pragmatics and epistemology explains the special status we assign to avowals As against many expressivists and their critics she maintains that such an expressivist explanation is consistent with a non deflationary view of self knowledge and a robust realism about mental states The view that emerges preserves many insights of the most prominent contributors to the subject while offering a new perspective on our special relationship to our own minds
