

Comment: It is perhaps at this point that the analytic potential of the algorithm clearly manifests itself. The new poem throws light on the structure and movement of the Shakespearean sonnet.

- (b) Using new material. The following example demonstrates a table made up of three sets of three sentences. Each sentence refers to an event concerning three different characters.

The conductor wanted his orchestra to produce an utterly muffled sound.

He declared, "If we keep everything low key perhaps we can work out a satisfactory arrangement."

He kept muttering "Please don't make the drama with anything louder than a sprong!"

The young Einstein desperately searched around New York with his physics book, which was a finished collection of useless, ridiculous expressions.

He kept repeating his requests without ever managing to get what he wanted: an adequate supply of dramatic action.

It wasn't until he studied a lot harder that a compromise achievement at last took care of him.

A chilly dark room is sure to keep a wife on heritable terms.

He read Mary's, Beaumont's, and Kenneth's without finding what he needed.

Since it was hard to take him seriously, everyone simply ignored his work.

After a dark left.

4. Groups of word groups (stanzas, paragraphs, episodes, etc.)

- (c) Using related material. Shakespeare is here joined by George Herbert, Ben Jonson, and John Donne.

Take four sonnets that follow the Shakespearean model and divide them into their four main components: three quatrains and the concluding couplet. Using these components as elements, align three of each poem horizontally to form a set. Arrange the sets as a table.

Then, after a dark left, is the first of four possible readings.

Farewell! thou art too dear for my possessing,
And like enough thou know'st thy villainousness.
The charter of thy worth gives thee releasing;
My bonds are thee not all acknowledg'd.
While inward howls kill all the ravish'd good,
Which riding with the owner, does together
Ride all the way, possessing heart and home.
