Impact Of Technology Faculty Development Life And Work

Christopher Knapper,A. J. Cropley

Impact Of Technology Faculty Development Life And Work:

The Impact of Technology on Faculty Development, Life, and Work Kay Herr Gillespie, 1998 A critical and global issue in higher education today is the implementation of technology in our individual institutional and collective settings for the enhancement of teaching and learning in the widest sense The scope of the issue is inclusive not only of undergraduate and graduate teaching and learning within the classroom and beyond but also of the research and service or outreach components of our mission in short of everything we do in higher education The foundation assumptions for this exploration of issues relating to the impact of technology are that 1 technology faculty members lives and work and faculty development are inextricably bound together 2 learning by doing is effective learning 3 the rapidity of technological change and its importance for education will neither diminish nor disappear and 4 it is imperative for us to reflect and then to act in increasingly vigorous ways on the possibilities and realities of technological change We can do so positively and with enthusiasm about improving the quality of all that we have been seeking to do for centuries structuring ever more effectively the formalized education and subsequent enlightenment of those who come after us and of ourselves in the process These thoughts are offered as an invitation to readers to reflect to affirm or redefine thoughts still forming and finally to act in the effort we are all making to incorporate exciting new technological capabilities into our changing world of higher education This is the 76th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Teaching and Learning

The Oxford Handbook of Technology and Music Education Alex Ruthmann, Roger Mantie, 2017 The Oxford Handbook of Technology and Music Education situates technology in relation to music education from perspectives historical philosophical socio cultural pedagogical musical economic and policy Chapters from a diverse group of authors provide analyses of technology and music education through intersections of gender theoretical perspective geographical distribution and relationship to the field

Technology and the Politics of Instruction Jan Nesper, 2012-09-10 In this study of computer mediated instruction CMI in a U S research university that is the site of nationally known innovations in this area Jan Nesper traces the varying material and organizational entanglements of a constantly reconfiguring network of people things categories and ideas that are sometimes loosely sometimes tightly entangled in forms of CMI He unfolds how the different forms and meanings of CMI policy and practice were constructed over time across departments and in relation to students academic trajectories Tying together a range of issues usually separated in discussions of instructional technology and examining often slighted topics such as the articulations of local and national practices this book questions the common vocabulary for making sense of CMI and contributes to educational change theory by showing how CMI has evolved both from the top down and the bottom up Technology and the Politics of Instruction is distinctive in its multi level approach and in the breadth of its conceptual frame Departing from the mainstream research on instructional technology to focus on mundane and widespread forms of CMI PowerPoint slides CD ROMs self paced labs and the like Nesper views these from multiple standpoints not just what they mean for professors but also for administrators and students The effect is to displace the typical emphasis in CMI research from cutting edge high resource artifacts and systems the importance of which is not questioned to the politics and organizational processes that shape the uses of such things This book is intended primarily for scholars and students in the fields of educational and more broadly organizational change the politics and sociology of education curriculum theory higher education and educational administration and will also interest instructional technologists and technology developers

Handbook on Geographical Education Rod Gerber, 2013-03-09 I am very pleased to have been asked by Rod Gerber to provide a preface to such a book Not least because of the twenty four chapters eight are written by former students or colleagues with whom I have worked in the past and whom I still meet at conferences on geographical education It is with a certain pride and joy that I note the progress which has been made in geographical education both in its day to day teaching and in research in the twenty years following the end of my term of office as Chair of the Commission on Geographical Education of the International Geographical Union CGEIUG My successors Joe Stoltman Hartwig Haubrich Rod Gerber and now Lea Houtsonen have done much and are continuing to work hard to foster the development of geographical education This book is proof if proof were needed that the international collaboration in this field is alive and well with contributions coming from all the continents except Antarctica It would be a moribund subject that remained unaffected in one way or another by developments on the great world stage as Fairgrieve 1926 would have put it And as Rod Gerber shows the issues of globalisation of cultural encounters of differing value systems of new technologies of variable economic development and of environmental quality all feature as topics which influence and are influenced by geographical education

Communities of Practice Jacquie McDonald, Aileen Cater-Steel, 2016-11-14 In this book about communities of practice in the international higher education sector the authors articulate the theoretical foundations of communities of practice CoPs research into their application in higher education leadership roles and how CoPs sustain and support professional learning Research demonstrates that communities of practice build professional and personal links both within and across faculty student services and administrative and support units This book describes how community of practice members may be physically co located and how social media can be used to connect members across geographically diverse locations It positions higher education communities of practice within the broader community of practice and social learning literature and articulates the importance of community of practice leadership roles and the growing focus on the use of social media for community of practice implementation The multiple perspectives provide higher education leaders academic and professional staff with the means to establish or reflect on existing CoPs by sharing insights and critical reflections on their implementation strategies practical guidelines and ideas on how community of practice s theoretical underpinnings can be tailored to the higher education context Expectations and Demands in Online Teaching: Practical Experiences Walter Gudea, Sorin,2008-05-30 Despite the considerable growing interest in online education most studies have focused only on the students perspective Merely a handful of studies have attempted to address the teachers perspectives and little has been published on the online teaching experience itself Expectations and Demands in Online Teaching Practical Experiences offers a better understanding of how teachers experience the online environment by exploring various dimensions of online teaching including class preparation process effectiveness and quality and technology utilization The book assists educational institution administrators supporting online education improve their understanding of how teachers experience online teaching and of the issues these teachers face in their teaching Rechaerarchitektur John Impagliazzo,2008-07-17 These proceedings derive from an international conference on the history of computing and education This conference is the third of hopefully a series of conferences that will take place within the International Federation for Information Processing IFIP and hence we describe it as the Third IFIP Conference on the History of Computing and Education or simply History of Computing and Education 3 HCE3 This volume consists of a collection of articles presented at the HCE3 conference held in association with the IFIP 2008 World Computer Congress in Milano Italy Articles range from a wide variety of computing perspectives and they represent activities from six continents The HCE3 conference is an event of the IFIP Working Group 9 7 on the History of Computing a working group of IFIP s Technical Committee 9 TC9 on the Relationship between Computers and Society In addition it is in cooperation with the IFIP Technical Committee 3 TC3 on Education The HCE3 conference brings to light a broad spectrum of issues It illustrates topics in computing as they occurred in the early days of computing whose ramifications or overtones remain with us today Indeed many of the early challenges remain part of our educational tapestry most likely many will evolve into future challenges Therefore these proceedings provide additional value to the reader as it will reflect in part the future development of computing and education to stimulate new ideas and models in educational development Evidence-Based Design of Elementary and Secondary Schools Peter C. book is the culmination of three years work by teams from eight institutions in five different European and North American countries. The teams included faculty developers, professors, and graduate students interested in developing and disseminating a more profound understanding of university level pedagogy. The purpose of the project was first to conceptualize what an internationally appropriate formal academic program for faculty development in higher education might look like, taking into account differing national contexts from national standards for faculty development. U.K. and Scandinavia almost universal institutional support. North America to virtually no activities. France. The intention was to create and nurture a community of practice enriched and informed by a range of expertise and different higher education traditions, cultures, and languages. To do so, the book begins with a section of five case studies that describe current practice in Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, and Switzerland. The second purpose was to define a common curriculum or core course with common foundations for faculty and graduate students based on a distributed learning model. The final section of the book presents a concrete concept map used to define the curriculum and to educational developers with useful tool for furthering their work and explains the rationale for redefining faculty development as educational development. This book offers practitioners around the world a framework and model of educational development that can serve a number of purposes including professional development, monitoring and assessment of effectiveness, and research as they seek to meet increasing demands for public accountability. For North American readers, it offers insight into the vision and aims of the Bologna Process with which they may need to engage to maintain international competitiveness.

Lifelong Learning in Higher Education Christopher Knapper, A. J. Cropley, 2000. This text examines how colleges and universities might respond to the increasing need for people to take responsibility for their own education and to remain motivated. It devotes attention to teaching methods, organizational structures, and the goals of higher education.
