Multinational Firms' Location and the New Economic Geography Jean Louis Mucchielli, Thierry Mayer, 2004-01-01

The choice of location for the production plants of multinational firms is an important issue not least because this decision is accompanied by so many fears brought into public debate This book analyses how foreign direct investors choose their locations whilst exploring the forces which shape international economic geography Although these two issues are to some extent inter related researchers have only recently acknowledged the similarity of economic geography and international business approaches to the empirical assessment of likely causes of the degree of spatial concentration observed in many modern industries Giving insight into the direction that future research should take this book contains state of the art papers on both theoretical and empirical levels This original collection makes a particularly important contribution to our understanding of the existence and impact of home market effects Introducing a welcome synthesis between two related and yet rarely integrated areas of study using case studies of firms in Europe US MNEs and the Mexican automobile industry this book will be welcomed by both academic and practising economists Regional scientists and

Geographies of Maritime Transport Gordon Wilmsmeier, Jason Monios, 2020-03-28 This multidisciplinary book delivers a unique collection of well considered empirically rich and critical contributions on maritime transport geographies It covers a wide range of markets and territories as well as institutional environmental and future issues

Crime and Insecurity Adam Crawford, 2013-01-11 Concerns over insecurity and questions of safety have become central issues in social and political debates across Europe and the western world Crucial changes have followed as a result such as a redefinition of the role of the state in relation to policing a central theme of this book and an explosion in the growth of private policing These developments have in their turn heightened feelings of insecurity and safety particularly where populations have become increasingly mobile and societies more socially fragmented culturally diverse and economically fragmented Responses to insecurity now increasingly inform decisions made by governments organisations and ordinary people in their social interactions This book makes a key contribution to an understanding of these developments approaching the subject from a range of perspectives across several different disciplines The three parts of the book look at broader theoretical and thematic issues then at cross national and pan European developments and debates in European governance and finally explore specific examples of local issues of community safety and the broader implications these have Leading figures in the field draw upon criminological legal social and political theory to shed new light on what has become one of the most intractable problems facing western societies

Geographies of Ageing Amanda Davies, Amity James, 2016-04-15 Population ageing is projected to affect all countries across the world in coming decades The current rate of population ageing is unprecedented in human history with population projections indicating that this will be an enduring trend Moreover population ageing is spatially pervasive affecting every man woman and child This has considerable implications for policy responding to the economic social and healthcare outcomes of population ageing The potential economic implications have been likened to those of the 2008 global financial crisis This book examines the patterns and causes of uneven population ageing It identifies those countries and localities most likely to experience population ageing and the reasons for this Attention is also given to the role that youth migration labour force migration retirement migration and ageing in place have in influencing the spatial concentrations of older people The book brings together a range of diverse international case studies to illustrate the importance of understanding the causes of population ageing Case studies include a review of ageing in Florida s USA labour force an investigation into the housing arrangements for the elderly in Northern Ireland and an assessment of the environmental stewardship activities of Grey Nomads on Western Australia s remote north coast Remoteness Reconsidered Christopher Rossi,2021-07-06 Much of our understanding of the world is framed from the perspective of a dominant power center or from standard readings of historical events The architecture of international information distribution academic centers and the lingua franca of international scholarly discourse also shape these stories Remoteness Reconsidered employs the idea of remoteness as an analytical tool for viewing international law s encounter with the Americas from the unusual peripheral perspective of the Atacama Desert The Atacama is one of the most remote places on Earth although that less than accurate perspective comes from standard historical accounts of the region accounts that originate from the center Changing the usual frame of reference leads to a reconsideration of the idea of remoteness and of the subsequent marginalization of historical narratives that influence hemispheric international relations in important ways today Lessons about international law s encounters with neoliberalism indigenous and human rights and the management and extraction of mineral resources take on new significance by following a spatial turn toward the idea of remoteness as applied to the Atacama Desert A Search for Sovereignty Lauren Benton,2009-11-30 A Search for Sovereignty approaches world history by examining the relation of law and geography in European empires between 1400 and 1900 Lauren Benton argues that Europeans imagined imperial space as networks of corridors and enclaves and that they constructed sovereignty in ways that merged ideas about geography and law Conflicts over treason piracy convict transportation martial law and crime created irregular spaces of law while also attaching legal meanings to familiar geographic categories such as rivers oceans islands and mountains The resulting legal and spatial anomalies influenced debates about imperial constitutions and international law both in the colonies and at home This study changes our understanding of empire and its legacies and opens new perspectives on the global history of law

Syria-Palestine, 1000-586 B.C.E. W. Randall Garr, 2004 Garr's classic study on dialect geography of the Levant was the first book length attempt to follow in the steps of Zellig Harris The Development of the Canaanite Dialects in 45 years This Eisenbrauns reprint makes the book out of print for several years available once again to students of the Canaanite languages The book opens with an introduction that gives the methodology used a survey of past studies the corpus of texts used in the study and Garr's goals The next three chapters provide a comprehensive list of phonological morphological and syntactical features which are then gathered into a comprehensive table and analyzed for their relevance to dialectical classification Conclusions and a rich bibliography follow as well as indexes of subject texts cited and words The Urbanism of Exception Martin J. Leira,2022-07-26 While the world's oceans cover more than seventy percent of its surface the sea has largely vanished as an object of enquiry in International Relations IR being treated either as a corollary of land or as time Yet the sea is the quintessential international space and its importance to global politics has become all the more obvious in recent years Drawing on interdisciplinary insights from IR Historical Sociology Blue Humanities and Critical Ocean Studies The sea and International Relations breaks with this trend of oceanic amnesia and kickstarts a theoretical conceptual and empirical discussion about the sea and IR by highlighting theoretical puzzles analysing broad historical perspectives and addressing contemporary challenges In bringing the sea back into IR the book reconceptualises the canvas of international relations to include the oceans as a social political economic and military space which affects the workings of world politics

Grounded Authority Shiri Pasternak,2017-06-06 Western Political Science Association's Clay Morgan Award for Best Book in Environmental Political Theory Canadian Studies Network Prize for the Best Book in Canadian Studies Nominated for Best First Book Award at NAISA Honorable Mention Association for Political and Legal Anthropology Book Prize Since Justin Trudeau's election in 2015 Canada has been hailed internationally as embarking on a truly progressive post colonial era including an improved relationship between the state and its Indigenous peoples Shiri Pasternak corrects this misconception showing that colonialism is very much alive in Canada From the perspective of Indigenous law and jurisdiction she tells the story of the Algonquins of Barriere Lake in western Quebec and their tireless resistance to federal land claims policy Grounded Authority chronicles the band's ongoing attempts to restore full governance over its lands and natural resources through an agreement signed by settler governments almost three decades ago an agreement the state refuses to fully implement Pasternak argues that the state's aversion to recognizing Algonquin jurisdiction stems from its goal of perfecting its sovereignty by replacing the inherent jurisdiction of Indigenous peoples with its own delegated authority From police brutality and fabricated sexual abuse cases to an intervention into and overthrow of a customary government Pasternak provides a compelling richly detailed account of rarely documented coercive mechanisms employed to force Indigenous communities into compliance with federal policy A rigorous account of the incredible struggle fought by the Algonquins to maintain responsibility over their territory Grounded Authority provides a powerful alternative model to one nation's land claims policy and a vital contribution to current debates in the study of colonialism and Indigenous peoples in North America and globally
