Housing Strategies Chris Nicol, 2017-05-15 Housing provision is a major dilemma for local authorities. There is currently a huge demand for more housing while increasing environmental, economic and political pressures must be considered when local authorities develop their policies. This remarkable volume investigates how local authorities formulate their housing strategies. It questions whether the local authority can be seen as a single entity in terms of housing or whether it is fragmented into separate departments. Incorporating in-depth empirical research from England and Wales, the book discusses whether the process of developing housing policy and allocating land needs to be more integrated and whether key players such as speculative house builders should be involved in the development of policy. Analyzing which information sources influence the local authority's land allocations and housing strategies, the volume debates whether they provide the most useful data and suggests alternative information sources that may assist in better land allocation policies. Housing Policy in Europe Paul N. Balchin, 1996 First Published in 1996 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis, an information company.

Housing and Planning References, 1978 Public Service Reform in East Asia Anthony Cheung, 2005 Public service reform or public sector reform has been a hot topic among political scientists in recent years as most existing government structures are inadequate to cope with the ever-changing environments of globalism in terms of capital and technology. This is particularly true among Asian countries where the traditional bureaucracy has been strong as compared to a relatively weak sense of community. Traditional relations between government, the business sector and labour which slowly have taken shape in the last two decades are now once again challenged through decolonization in Hong Kong, democratization in Korea, decentralization in Singapore and technological innovation in Japan. This timely collection addresses a variety of selected reform issues confronted by these four developed Asian economies. The areas of reform covered range from human resource management, financial management and pay reform to central agency role, service improvements, private sector involvement and political accountability. Developments in Housing Management and Ownership Ricardo Pinto, 1995 This book concentrates on the reasons for the demise of council housing as a social housing provider, focusing on the issue of housing management. It highlights the government's critique of local authorities as landlords and the policy developments which have led to the possibility that council housing may disappear altogether in the future. 701 Comprehensive Planning Assistance United States.
