 Denise Johnston examines her own children s experience of her incarceration within the context of what the research and her 30 years of practice with prisoners and their children has taught her arguing that it is imperative to attempt to understand parental incarceration within a developmental framework Megan Sullivan a scholar in the Humanities examines the effects of her father s incarceration on her family and underscores the importance of the reentry process for families The number of arrested jailed and imprisoned persons in the United States has increased since 1960 most dramatically between 1985 and 2000 As the majority of these incarcerated persons are parents the number of minor children with an incarcerated parent has increased alongside peaking at an estimated 2 9 million in 2006 The impact of the experience of parental incarceration has garnered attention by researchers but to date attention has been focused on the period when parents are actually in jail or prison This work goes beyond that to examine the developmental impact of children s experiences that extend long beyond that timeframe A valuable resource for students in corrections human services social work counseling and related courses as
