Paths to Contemporary French Literature John Taylor, 2017-07-05 Praised for his independence curiosity intimate knowledge of French literature and sharp reader's eye John Taylor is a writer critic who is naturally skeptical of literary fashions overnight reputations and readymade academic categories Here he examines various genres of politically committed literature such as Jean Hatzfeld's narratives about Rwanda or Tchicaya U Tam si's verse some overlooked fiction and several provocative experiments with literary form ranging from the poetry of Jean Paul Michel and Marie etienne to the three line novels of Felix Feneon Taylor continues to reveal the remarkable resourcefulness of French writing Besides drawing attention to authors like Dai Sijie or Albert Cossery who have come to French from other languages he has added younger novelists to his critical panorama Challenging persistent cliches and recovering deserving voices from unjust neglect Taylor's vision of French literature conjures up the image of a vital nexus Poetry crisscrosses with prose writers from one generation meet up with those from the next or the previous one while the philosophical ideas underlying French writing are scrutinized This is an essential guide to the realities of French culture today PN Review, 1991

The Lores Robert Sheppard, 2003 Poetry Between 1989 and 2000 Robert Sheppard worked on a long network of texts called Twentieth Century Blues of which THE LORES forms the knotted core Previous volumes in the series include EMPTY DIARIES also carried by SPD of which Tim Wood wrote that it was one of the more important poetry books of 1998 Of other parts of the project he wrote that Sheppard openly exposes the manner in which language disrupts fixed social relations and this language of disruption becomes an ethical critique words particularly relevant to this volume whose style picks up on Derrida's concerns with linkage in terms of the horrors of the twentieth century For Sheppard syntactical construction is part of the strategy ranging from techniques to open up ambiguity and the range of possible meaning to forms of civil disobedience at the level of the sentence Keith Jebb

Complete Twentieth Century Blues Robert Sheppard, 2008 Complete Twentieth Century Blues is the definitive edition of a long network of interrelated texts that the author wrote and assembled as a time based project between 1989 and the end of the last century Many of the texts have appeared before in both pamphlets and in critically acclaimed full length volumes but this edition has been revised throughout It also includes a previously unpublished book length text on the paintings of Jack B Yeats as well as a number of shorter pieces All now appear in their intended order and with their connections to other poems made apparent via an index At the centre of the book is the sequence The Lores written according to a strict word count and introducing the politics and poetics of creative linkage demonstrated throughout It focuses upon fascism and resistances to it Running through the volume are the Empty Diaires which offer an alternative history of the twentieth century told through a series of female narrators Woven between these are poems on blues music the first Gulf War Stalin s poems failed utopias the Earl of Rochester a sci fi elegy for the human a translation from Horace the ideology of Thatcherism atheist hymns a hilarious romp with a very rude Robinson Crusoe homages to various other artists and an elegy to Frank Sinatra The hilarious Wayne Pratt spoofs find their final resting place here too The prose poem essay The End of the Twentieth Century brings the project to rest with a celebration of the complexity of our powers of human connection

Red Knight Vuk Stefanović Karadžić,1992 Red Knight is a selection in translation and in the original from the notorious fifth book of Vuk Karadzic 1787 1864 the celebrated Serbian ethnographer and founder of the modern Serbian literary language Basing his new orthography on the rule Write as it is spoken Vuk focused his attention on the rich oral poetry of the region Among his several collections of folk songs epics proverbs and tales were many so called Women s Songs considered by Vuk to be of far more ancient origin than the renowned heroic poems of Serbia Some of these Women s Songs however were so lewd and scatological that almost two hundred years had to pass before they could be published With the revival notably in the Balkans of the deadly virus of nationalism the subversive nature of this folk material the burlesquing of all forms of bigotry as well as the celebratory or defiant assertion of corporeality became startlingly relevant From back cover Contemporary Poets Thomas Riggs,1995 This reference work combines bibliographical biographical and critical information on 900 living poets writing in the English language Entries are arranged alphabetically and this edition includes 120 new entrants including Wendy Cope Benjamin Zephaniah and Rachel McAlpine
