Allen, 2006-05 Work from the respected writer expounder of Darwinism and pioneer in Canadian science fiction      Purity and Contamination in Late Victorian Detective Fiction Dr Christopher Pittard, 2013-05-28 Concentrating on works by authors such as Fergus Hume Arthur Conan Doyle Grant Allen L T Meade and Marie Belloc Lowndes Christopher Pittard explores the complex relation between the emergence of detective fictions in the 1880s and 1890s and the concept of purity The centrality of material and moral purity as a theme of the genre Pittard argues both reflected and satirised a contemporary discourse of degeneration in which criminality was equated with dirt and disease and where national boundaries were guarded against the threat of the criminal foreigner. Situating his discussion within the ideologies underpinning George Newnes's Strand Magazine as well as a wide range of nonfiction texts, Pittard demonstrates that the genre was a response to the seductive and impure delights associated with sensation and gothic novels. Further, Pittard suggests that criticism of detective fiction has in turn become obsessed with the idea of purity, thus illustrating how a genre concerned with policing the impure itself became subject to the same fear of contamination. Contributing to the richness of Pittard's project are his discussions of the convergence of medical discourse and detective fiction in the 1890s, including the way social protest movements like the antivivisectionist campaigns and medical explorations of criminality raised questions related to moral purity.

But first let me say a word of explanation about the Master. Hilda Wade Grant Allen, 2021-01-15. Hilda Wade's gift was so unique so extraordinary that I must illustrate it. I think before I attempt to describe it. But first let me say a word of explanation about the Master. I have never met anyone who impressed me so much with a sense of GREATNESS as Professor Sebastian. And this was not due to his scientific eminence alone; the man's strength and keenness struck me quite as forcibly as his vast attainments. When he first came to St. Nathaniel's Hospital, a eager, fiery-eyed physiologist well past the prime of life and began to preach with all the electric force of his vivid personality that the one thing on earth worth a young man's doing was to work in his laboratory, attend his lectures, study disease, and be a scientific doctor. Dozens of us were infected by his contagious enthusiasm. He proclaimed the gospel of germs, and the germ of his own zeal flew abroad in the hospital; it ran through the wards as if it were typhoid fever. Within a few months half the students were converted from lukewarm observers of medical routine into flaming apostles of the new methods. The greatest authority in Europe on comparative anatomy, now that Huxley was taken from us, he had devoted his later days to the pursuit of medicine proper to which he brought a mind stored with luminous analogies from the lower animals. His very appearance held one. Tall, thin, erect, with an ascetic profile not unlike Cardinal Manning's, he represented that abstract form of asceticism which consists in absolute self-sacrifice to a mental ideal, not that which consists in religious abnegation. Three years of travel in Africa had tanned his skin for life. His long white hair, straight and silvery as it fell, just curled in one wave like an inward sweep where it turned and rested on the stooping shoulders. His pale face was clean-shaven, save for a thin and wiry grizzled moustache which cast into stronger relief the deep-set hawk-like eyes and the acute, intense intellectual features. In some respects his countenance reminded me often of Dr. Martineau's; in others it recalled the knife-like edge, unturnable of his great predecessor, Professor Owen. Wherever he went, men turned to stare at him. In Paris they took him for the head of the English Socialists; in Russia they declared he was a Nihilist emissary. And they were not far wrong in essence. For Sebastian's stern, sharp face was above all things the face of a man absorbed and engrossed by one overpowering pursuit in life, the sacred thirst of knowledge which had swallowed up his entire nature. He WAS what he looked, the most single-minded person I have ever come across And when I say single minded I mean just that and no more He had an End to attain the advancement of science and he went straight towards the End looking neither to the right nor to the left for anyone An American millionaire once remarked to him of some ingenious appliance he was describing Why if you were to perfect that apparatus Professor and take out a patent for it I reckon you'd make as much money as I have made Sebastian withered him with a glance Hilda Wade Grant Allen, Arthur Conan Doyle, 2018-03-28 Grant Allen died before finishing Hilda Wade The last chapter was finished by Arthur Conan Doyle his neighbour based on Allen's outlines and a discussion with him on his deathbed Hilda Wade (Esprios Classics) Grant Allen, 2022-10-18 Charles Grant Blair Findie Allen February 24 1848 October 25 1899 was a Canadian science writer and novelist educated in England He was a public promoter of evolution in the second half of the nineteenth century After leaving his professorship in 1876 he returned to England where he turned his talents to writing gaining a reputation for his essays on science and for literary works A 2007 book by Oliver Sacks cites with approval one of Allen's early articles Note Deafness a description of what became known as amusia published in 1878 in the learned journal Mind Allen's first books dealt with scientific subjects and include Physiological Aesthetics 1877 and Flowers and Their Pedigrees 1886 The Dusty Bookcase Brian Busby, 2017-08-15 Largely drawn from his columns for Canadian Notes Queries and entries in his popular blog by the same name Brian Busby's The Dusty Bookcase explores the fascinating world of Canada's lesser known literary efforts works that suffered censorship critical neglect or brilliant yet fleeting notoriety These rare and quirky totems of Canadiana collected over the last three decades form a travel diary of sorts yet one without maps Covering more than 250 books peppered with observations on the writing and publishing scenes Busby's work explores our cultural past questioning why certain works are celebrated and others ignored Brilliantly illustrated with covers and ephemera related to the titles discussed The Dusty Bookcase draws much needed attention to unknown writing worthy of our attention and some of our acclaim Sherlock's Sisters Joseph A. Kestner, 2017-03-02 Sherlock's Sisters The British Female Detective 1864 1913 examines the fictional female detective in Victorian and Edwardian literature This character originating in the 1860s configures a new representation of women in narratives of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries This analysis explores female empowerment through professional unofficial or official detection especially as this surveillance illuminates legal moral gendered institutional criminal punitive judicial political and familial practices This book considers a range of literary texts by both female and male writers which concentrate on detection by women particularly those which followed the creation of Sherlock Holmes by Arthur Conan Doyle in 1887 Cultural movements such as the emergence of the New Woman property law or suffragism are stressed in the exploits of these resourceful investigators These daring women deal with a range of crimes including murder blackmail terrorism forgery theft sexual harassment embezzlement fraud impersonation and domestic violence Privileging the exercise of reason rather than intuition these women detectives are proto feminist in their demonstration of women's independence Instead of being under the law these women transform it

Their investigations are given particular edge because many of the perpetrators of these crimes are women Sherlock's Sisters probes many texts which because of their rarity have been under researched Writers such as Beatrice Heron Maxwell Emmuska Orczy L T Meade Catherine Pirkis Fergus Hume Grant Allen Leonard Merrick Marie Belloc Lowndes George Sims McDonnell Bodkin and Richard Marsh are here incorporated into the canon of Victorian and Edwardian literature many for the first time A writer such as Mary Elizabeth Braddon is reassessed through a neglected novel The book includes works by Irish and Australian writers to present an inclusive array of British texts Sherlock's Sisters enlarges the perception of emerging female empowerment during the nineteenth century filling an important gap in the fields of Gender Studies Law Literature and Popular Culture Doyle's World—Lost & Found Daniel Friedman, MD, Eugene Friedman, MD, 2023-10-24

Doyle's World is no ordinary book It is instead a work that deciphers the cryptic origins and actual scientific methods used by fiction's most famous detective Sherlock Holmes and provides a detailed look into the psyche and working life of Holmes creator Sir Arthur Conan Doyle Revealed here for the first time by son father writing team Daniel Friedman MD and Eugene Friedman MD are the inspirations behind the physical emotional and intellectual characteristics that Doyle wove together so deftly to bring his legendary sleuth to life The authors offer research based answers to such intriguing questions as From whom did Sherlock Holmes actually learn the art of detective work Why did Doyle kill off Sherlock Holmes and how did the country of Japan inspire how he brought his famous detective back to life after nearly a decade What story elements did Doyle borrow from Robert Louis Stevenson's Treasure Island How did Doyle apply his fervent belief in Spiritualism to a variety of Holmes stories Who inspired Doyle to write about civil rights after a steamship journey in 1882 How did the women in Doyle's life come to influence the relationships with women that both Sherlock Holmes and Dr Watson have across sixty written adventures The book is divided into three sections The first is dedicated to the elements both good and bad that comprised Doyle's childhood and early adult years and how an assemblage of persons and places and things from his life found their way into his literature The second section emphasizes the complex themes and plots present in the Sherlock Holmes adventures while it also examines some of Doyle's strengths and weaknesses as a public figure of his time And in the book's concluding part the authors offer two lost stories they uncovered that were written by Doyle under a pseudonym Doyle's World is a work of rich detail and in depth scholarship that should win over established fans of Doyle and devoted Sherlockians everywhere and which should engage and entertain all others who enter this intriguing hall of literary mirrors Gender, Technology and the New Woman Lena Wänggren, 2017-04-28 This book examines late nineteenth century feminism in relation to technologies of the time marking the crucial role of technology in social and literary struggles for equality The New Woman the fin de siècle cultural archetype of early feminism became the focal figure for key nineteenth century debates concerning issues such as gender and sexuality evolution and degeneration science empire and modernity While the New Woman is located in the debates concerning the crisis in gender or sexual anarchy of the time the period also saw an upsurge of new technologies of communication transport and medicine As this monograph demonstrates literature of the time is inevitably caught up in this technological modernity technologies such as the typewriter the bicycle and medical technologies through literary texts come to work as freedom machines as harbingers of female emancipation The Arthur Conan Doyle Early Novels MEGAPACK® Arthur Conan Doyle, 2016-07-06 Arthur Conan Doyle was a prolific novelist though not many people today realize he wrote more than the Sherlock Holmes stories This volume assembled 15 of his other novels which are worth reading on their own merits Included are THE WHITE COMPANY MICAH CLARKE THE MYSTERY OF CLOOMBER THE MARACOT DEEP THE FIRM OF GIRDLESTONE THE CRIME OF THE BRIGADIER THE DOINGS OF RAFFLES HAW THE SLAPPING SAL THE GREAT SHADOW THE REFUGEES THE STARK MUNRO LETTERS UNCLE BERNAC A DUET HILDA WADE THREE OF THEM If you enjoy this ebook don't forget to search your favorite ebook store for Wildside Press Megapack to see more of the 300 volumes in this series covering adventure historical fiction mysteries westerns ghost stories science fiction and much much more
